Robert L. Lund Speaks.

Private industry can and will ...e about the nation's comfort, ...ppiness and culture, Robert L. ...nd of St. Louis, chairman of the ...ard of directors, National Asso...iation of Manufacturers, told the Congress today.

"Failure of recovery to set in as early as the summer and fall of 1932, Lund asserted, was due, first, to "a bank panic which sensible co-operation between the incoming and outgoing administrations might well have prevented," and, second, "the ill-conceived experiments of the New Deal."

He criticised in turn the National Recovery Administration, the Agricultural Adjustment Administration, the Securities and Exchange Act, and the "death sentence" legislation affecting holding companies.

What he called "bad" legislation was abetted, he said, by an unbalanced budget, the "practically certain unconstitutionality of most of the New Deal' laws," and "the deliberate firing of class hatred by the New Dealers' in their effort to hold political power."

Lund characterized some statements of Rexford Tugwell, Undersecretary of Agriculture, as not distinguishable from "those of Stalin of Russia." He protested against any conception of big business necessarily, as a bad business merely because of size.

10,915,000 LISTED AS HAVING NO JOBS LAST SEPTEMBER

Figures for Roosevelt's Social Security Committee, Secret Until Today, Show Peak of 15,071,000 in March 1933.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. — Semi-official estimates on unemployment, which have been in use for some time by the Government but were kept a secret until today, say that 10,915,000 persons were jobless last September.

The figures were compiled for President Roosevelt's Committee on Economic Security by Robert R. Nathan, its consultant on unemployment statistics. Since that committee completed its work last spring, he has kept them current unofficially.

Many Federal agencies have used the estimates and they have been highly credited by Government economists. But they have never before been disclosed because of the administration's reluctance to give official standing to any unemployment figures.

Nathan estimated the peak of unemployment at 15,071,000 in March, 1933.

The estimates are "no more than rough approximations," Nathan said, contending at the same time that they were the best available. They will soon be published in the International Labor Review, publication of the International Labor Organization at Geneva.

Though several unofficial estimates of unemployed are made from time to time, none is published in such detail as those gathered by Nathan. The Committee on Economy Security used them in drafting the social security legislation.

They showed that in September the bulk of unemployment was in the manufacturing, building, transportation, wholesale and retail and service industries.

Nathan estimated that in that month there were 2,756,000 unemployed in manufacturing; 1,741,000 in the building industry; 632,000 in the steam railroads; 979,000 in the wholesale and retail trades; and 663,000 in domestic and personal services other than laundries and cleaning and dyeing establishments.

SOCIAL CREDIT PLAN DRAWING MANY JOBLESS TO ALBERTA

Residence Qualifications for Proposed $25 a Month Dividend Yet to Be Announced.

By the Associated Press.

CALGARY, Dec. 4.—Anxious to register for a dividend of $25 per month if and when it is granted, many unmarried jobless men from all parts of Canada are drifting into Calgary and Edmonton daily. A survey of the Alberta Relief Commission office here showed the men are traveling hundreds of miles by freight train.

More than 3000 single men are reported to be awaiting camp assignments in Calgary and Edmonton and a large number of them, Relief Commission records indicated, previously had never been on the employment office registration rolls.

Preparation of registration forms is under way in Edmonton but the residence qualifications have not been announced by the new Alberta Government.

Payment of the social credit "basic dividends" promised by the Government is admitted to be 18 months away.

DESERTING ETHIOPIAN CHIEF GOES SHOPPING IN ASMARA

Son-in-Law of Haile Selassie Buys Clothes and Perfumes in Italian Colony.

By the Associated Press.

ASMARA, Eritrea, Dec. 4. — Ras Gugsa, son-in-law of Emperor Haile Selassie who deserted to the Italians early in the present conflict, was a dapper figure among shoppers here yesterday.

Now Governor of Tigre Province by grace of Mussolini, Gugsa came here to buy new clothes, perfumes and other gifts for his lady friends and to enjoy civilization generally. He is quartered at the former Ethiopian Consulate, now a hotel for defecting chieftains. As soon as the war is over, Gugsa said, he intends to go to Europe.

STALIN DECLARES POVERTY IS ABOLISHED IN RUSSIA

"We Are Now on Our Way to Wealth," Soviet Dictator Says.

By the Associated Press.

MOSCOW, Dec. 4.—Joseph Stalin, speaking yesterday at a conference of harvester drivers, said poverty among peasants had been abolished in the Soviet Union.

"At the time of the Czars 20,000,000 or 30,000,000 peasants were in a condition of semi-starvation," he said. "All this has been ended. We have succeeded in eliminating poverty along with unemployment. We are now on our way to wealth."

The Soviet dictator said four to five billion poods of grain had been harvested in the Soviet Union this year, and appealed for an increase to eight billion. (A pood is equal to 36.1128 pounds.)

He pointed out that in the course of the industrialization program the Bolsheviks had transferred millions of peasants to cities, where they have become factory workers. Hence, Stalin added, the ratio of consumers to producers of farm products has been altered.

He also said the birth rate was increasing and that deaths were fewer, with the result that the population is growing by 3,000,000 persons annually.

Production of cotton, he announced, has been doubled since the time of the Czars.

NEW ROYAL JAPANESE BABY NAMED WITH ANCIENT RITES

Receives Ceremonial Bath and Is Called "Prince of Genuine Righteousness."

By the Associated Press.

TOKIO, Dec. 4.—In accordance with ancient rites, the second son of Emperor Hirohito and the Empress Nagako, born Nov. 28, today was named Masahito Yoshinomiya —Prince of Genuine Righteousness.

A royal Prince of Japan receives his name on the seventh day of life, after it has been chosen by the learned men of the imperial household through consultation with the lore of the ages. The two characters then are written by the Emperor on a sheet of soft white paper and carried with great pomp into the presence of the infant.

Then the baby is given his ceremonial bath, a rite so ancient that the most learned of the court historians cannot explain its full meaning or origin. During the bath, court sages, stationed behind a screen, read aloud from ancient tomes. The passages they pronounce are thought to influence the character and destiny of the royal infant.

After the ceremony, high priests of the sanctuaries within the palace go to these shrines to report the birth and naming of the princeling to his ancestors and deities of the imperial family.

CHINA CLIPPER TAKES OFF FROM MIDWAY FOR HONOLULU

Distance 1323 Miles; Last Stop Before Reaching Home Base at Alameda, Cal.

By the Associated Press.

MIDWAY ISLAND, Dec. 4.—The China Clipper took off for Honolulu at 6:12 a. m. today on another leg of the trans-Pacific airmail service. The distance is 1323 miles. The Clipper is returning to Alameda, Cal., from Manila.

The Clipper arrived here yesterday, completing its 1911-mile flight from Wake Island in eight hours and 55 minutes. Capt. Edwin C. Musick reported headwinds had slowed the plane slightly. It will make the 2400-mile trip from Honolulu to Alameda tomorrow night.

Capt. Musick said the most interesting event of the Wake-Midway flight was the sighting of the steamer President Hayes bound for the Orient. The President Hayes left San Francisco Nov. 22, the same day the China Clipper took off on the first trans-Pacific airmail flight.

SIX MORE QUIT COUNTY HOSPITAL; 15 IN THREE DAYS

Drs. Klemme, Day, Jorstad, Kieffer, Rendleman and Westrup Latest to Resign From Staff.

'TOO MUCH POLITICS,' SAY FIRST THREE

Last Charges Dr. Sheahan Kept Tubercular Patients in Medical Ward for 10 Days After Diagnosis.

Six more members of the staff at St. Louis County Hospital submitted their resignations yesterday and today to Dr. Edwin L. Sheahan, superintendent, making a total of 15 physicians who have quit this week as an outgrowth of chaotic conditions in the institution resulting from the political fight for jobs during the last few months.

The latest resignations were those of Dr. Roland S. Kieffer of the surgical staff, Dr. Louis H. Jorstad, radium therapist; Dr. George F. Rendleman, surgeon; Dr. Roland M. Klemme, brain specialist and member of the surgical staff; Dr. Anthony B. Day, medical staff, and Dr. Arthur W. Westrup, superintendent of the hospital during its construction and a member of the medical staff since it was opened four years ago.

Two members of the surgical staff and the entire staff of seven dermatologists resigned Monday following the dismissal by the superintendent last Saturday of Dr. Leith Slocumb, chief of staff, for "failure to co-operate." Dr. Sheahan refused today to state whether any other staff members had resigned.

Reasons for Resignation.

Dr. Westrup told a Post-Dispatch reporter today his reason for resigning, in addition to a dislike for "all the notoriety" concerning the hospital, was the refusal of Dr. Sheahan to permit removal of several patients from the medical ward last month after their ailments had been diagnosed as tuberculosis. Immediately after the diagnoses were determined by X-ray, Dr. Westrup said, he asked the patients be placed in another room until a County Court order could be obtained for their removal to a hospital for tuberculous patients. However, it was not until about 10 days after the diagnoses, and after "considerable discussion," that the patients were taken away, the physician said.

Failure to isolate the tuberculous patients was contrary to good medical and hospital practice, due to the possibility of infection of the seven or eight other patients in the ward, Dr. Westrup said.

Dr. Sheahan, asked by a reporter for a statement concerning Dr. Westrup's resignation, denied the tuberculosis diagnoses were positive, but refused to discuss the matter further.

Dr. Klemme, Dr. Jorstad and Dr. Day gave reasons for resigning similar to those of the physicians who withdrew the day before—"too much politics." Dr. Day said he had not been active during his two-year tenure on the staff and that Dr. Sheahan asked him last Saturday to assume more active duties. At that time, Dr. Day said, he did not know of Dr. Slocumb's dismissal. "I couldn't work there with that sort of political outfit; it wouldn't do," he said today.

Dr. Klemme said, "Why fool around with a political football? Life is too short."

Drs. Kieffer and Rendleman said they did not care to comment on the reasons for their resignation.

Two Quit Last Summer.

The hitherto unannounced resignations of two other members of the staff last summer, before Dr. Sheahan was reinstated as superintendent, were disclosed today in an inquiry by the Post-Dispatch. The physicians who resigned were Dr. Lee D. Cady, recently elected president of the St. Louis Medical Society, and Dr. Lee Pettit Gay, who was chief of the medical staff. Dr. Cady was a member of that staff.

Both physicians gave similar reasons for quitting—that they "didn't like the situation" because the institution was "too much in politics."

"I could foresee this very situation coming up," said Dr. Cady. "I didn't see why doctors on the staff, who are legally and morally responsible for what goes on in the hospital, should be at the mercy of politicians who are pulling chestnuts out of the fire!

"I had no quarrel with Dr. Raymond Usher, who was then acting superintendent, nor with Dr. Sheahan. My notion, not only as a physician but as a resident of the

ARREST IN 5 MINUTES THROUGH POLICE RADIO

Cruising Detectives Nab Youth —Say He Admits Holding Up Woman in Store.

Five minutes after the police radio had broadcast the description of a young man who had robbed Mrs. Rose Cohen of $10.85 in her dry goods store at 4101 Finney avenue yesterday afternoon, two cruising detectives arrested an 18-year-old youth who was quoted as admitting he had committed the robbery.

Detective Sergeant Timothy Grogan and Detective Wade Mathews stopped the youth for questioning when they saw him coming out of an alley on Pendleton avenue between Easton and Evans avenues and took him to the police station for further inquiry when they found $11.30 in his pockets.

The youth, who identified himself as Samuel T. Zettler, and gave an address in the 4000 block of Delmar boulevard, was identified by Mrs Cohen as the man who entered her store at 3 p. m. and took the cash from the till, while holding his right hand in his pocket, where she saw a bulky object she supposed to be a pistol. Zettler was quoted as saying he had carried a wrench, not a pistol, but had thrown it away. He also said, according to the police, that the cash in his pocket had been taken from Mrs Cohen's store, except for 50 cents, which was his own.

WOMAN FOUND DEAD; 'MURDER OR MOST UNUSUAL ACCIDENT'

Official Says She May Have Tripped on Stairs and Driven Scissors Into Brain.

By the Associated Press.

LOS ANGELES, Cal., Dec. 4. — The strange death of Mrs. Sarah Herring, 58, wife of a Detroit electrical engineer, was "either murder or the most unusual accident" in Los Angeles police records, officers said today. She was 58 years old. Sheriff's officers expressed belief death resulted from a fall.

The woman's body was found yesterday by her daughter, Martha, 17, at the foot of the stairway in their suburban home in Compton.

The prongs of a pair of scissors had been driven into Mrs. Herring's brain through a gash under her left eye. Her head was wounded severely, and particles of a glass tumbler were imbedded in her face. Near the body was a 16-pound block of petrified wood, which usually rested on a pedestal on a landing of the stairway.

Inspector Norris Stensland of the Sheriff's homicide detail, said the woman may have tripped coming down the stairs, struck her head on the petrified wood, and then plunged to the floor, driving the scissors into her brain and grinding the glass from a tumbler into her face.

Authorities said Mrs. Herring came here last September with Martha and a second daughter, Florence Nellie, 19, and Mrs. Janes Neilson and her daughter, Dorothy, 17.

THREE ARMY UNITS DISSOLVED FOR REVOLTING IN BRAZIL

Two New Battalions and Regiment Created; Step Taken to Erase "Stigmatized Names."

By the Associated Press.

RIO DE JANEIRO, Dec. 4. — President Getulio Vargas dissolved yesterday the Twenty-first and Twenty-ninth Battalions of Light Infantry and the Third Regiment of Infantry because of their participation in last week's uprisings. The decree said dissolution was "an act of justice to the end that names stigmatized by the crime of rebellion should be erased from military annals."

Two new battalions of light infantry and a regiment of infantry were created in place of the units which were eliminated.

'REGRET' OVER NOTRE DAME DEGREE FOR ROOSEVELT

Some Catholics Oppose Bestowing of Honor, Church Paper Says.

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Md., Dec. 4. — The Catholic Review says in a front page editorial that Catholics are expressing "deep regret" at the action of the University of Notre Dame in offering an honorary degree to President Roosevelt.

Signed by Mgr. Albert E. Smith, editor-in-chief, the article says the degree is extended "for no other reason" than "in gratitude for the independence of the Philippine Islands, a Catholic Country."

Mgr. Smith says there is "not the slightest reason" to interpret the conferring of the degree "as an indorsement by the University of Notre Dame of the President's policy in respect to Mexico."

The President accepted Notre Dame's offer of an honorary degree of doctor of laws, to be conferred Dec. 9 at a special convocation at the University at South Bend, Ind.

The Review, official organ of the Archdiocese of Baltimore, says that "on all sides deep regret is being expressed" by Catholics here at the university's action. Those who feel thus are characterized as among "Notre Dame's friends."

50 FRENCH WARSHIPS SAIL FOR EXERCISES OFF CORSICA

On Way to Island Only 20 Miles From Sardinia, Which Belongs to Italy.

By the Associated Press.

TOULON, France, Dec. 4.—France's Mediterranean fleet, composed of more than 50 warships, sailed yesterday for maneuvers off the coast of Corsica.

Maneuvers off the island, which is only 20 miles from Sardinia, island owned by Italy, will last for at least 10 days, authorities announced. The fleet is commanded by Vice-Admiral Georges Mouget aboard the cruiser Algerie.

Authorities said five destroyers would be sent to Marseilles after the maneuvers close instead of returning to Toulon.

Both Gulick and his young wife were in poor health and he recently suffered a nervous breakdown.

ITALIAN-AMERICAN SUES OVER EMBARGO

Alleges Hull Illegally Extended Arms Measure to Oil, Cotton, Etc.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—A suit to nullify additions said to have been made to President Roosevelt's arms embargo in statements by Secretary of State Hull was filed yesterday by Philip Giordano, an employe of Generoso Pope, publisher of Italian language newspapers.

The plaintiff's petition asserts that statements about shipment of oil, cotton and other commodities constituted an order issued unconstitutionally.

The United States District Court was asked to enjoin Hull and other members of the National Munitions Control Board from enforcing such extensions.

Considers Order Itself Proper.

Former Judge Francis X. Mancuso, Giordano's attorney, said that the suit was not aimed at the presidential order, which he considered proper, but was intended to restrain what he called improper extensions of that order to include scrap iron, cotton, oil, coal and other materials which he said Congress in its debate indicated it wished to exclude from its embargo provision.

"Congress had a right to pass the neutrality act," Judge Mancuso said. "However, if any member of the National Munitions Board has extended the list, then we say that the executive branch of the Government is usurping the legislative power."

Giordano's suit lists as defendants Secretary Hull, Secretary of the Treasury Morgenthau, Secretary of War Dern, Secretary of the Navy Swanson, Secretary of Commerce Roper and Harry M. Durning, Collector of the Port.

"Interest of Any Citizen."

Judge Mancuso said in comment on the suit that it would be sufficient, for purposes of asserting great harm would ensue if an injunction were not issued, to present "the interest of any citizen" in restraining the Government from unconstitutional acts.

The complaint, however, sets forth that the "order extending the embargo" has resulted in the prospect of Italian reprisal which "threatens the loss of export trade with Italy by the United States to the extent of $60,000,000 monthly," and therefore "threatens to deprive the plantiff and other citizens of the United States of their property and rights without due process of law."

Judge Mancuso said the argument would be heard Dec. 10.

Federal Judge Henry W. Goddard ordered the defendants to show cause next Tuesday why they should not be restrained.

Giordano, former editor of the Italian newspaper, Evening Bulletin, has lived in this country for 30 years, and has been a citizen for 20 years, relatives said.

3-HOUR SCHOOL DAY IN ITALY

Schedule Shortened to Help Conserve Coal Supply.

By the Associated Press.

ROME, Dec. 4.—Italy's 5,000,000 grade school children went on a three-hour day today.

School will start at 10 a. m. and be out at 1 p. m. The previous hours were 8:30 to 1:30. Probably all the needy pupils will get free hot soup for lunch as usual, but not much heat, because the hours were shortened to save coal.

NEW FIGHTING AT MAKALE, MAJOR BATTLE IS EXPECTED

Italians on Northern Front Say Ethiopians Are Gathering Under Three Commanders for First Real Test of War.

FASCISTS TELL OF TWO SKIRMISHES

These Engagements Show, It Is Declared, That Enemy Is Already Pressing With Much Force Against Invaders.

(Copyright, 1935, by the Associated Press.)

ASMARA, Eritrea, Dec. 4.—The major battle long anticipated between Italian and Ethiopian forces seemed nearer at hand today as skirmishes grew hotter.

Four Italian white soldiers were killed and the Ethiopian defenders suffered undetermined losses in two clashes.

One was at Debri, southwest of the main Italian front lines at Makale, where the four Fascist soldiers were reported killed. The other encounter occurred near the Takkaze River, west of the main Italian army.

These fights, coupled with yesterday's outpost skirmish on the Makale-Dolo line—the first contact between Italy's northern forces and Ethiopia's concentrated forces—were said by Italian officers to show that the enemy was pressing in considerable force against the Fascist front lines beyond Makale. They said it was probable there would soon be a major engagement.

Italy's native army camps, meanwhile, advanced into the Cacciamo region of the mountainous Tembien sector west of Makale.

The Ethiopian Commanders.

All three principal Ethiopian commanders in the North—Ras Seyoum, Ras Kassa and Ras Mulugheta—were thought to be massing their followers for combat, after permitting the Italians to advance, virtually unopposed, over the 75-mile range from Eritrea to Makale.

Ras Seyoum, elusive former ruler of Tigre Province, who has been conducting guerrilla warfare in the Tembien sector, apparently circled to a post south of the Blackshirt lines.

There, he could unite his forces in the rugged terrain for a combined assault with the masses of men under Ras Kassa, one of Ethiopia's most powerful chieftains, and Ras Mulugheta, Ethiopian War Minister, on the Italian strongholds.

Ras Kassa's followers apparently held the front ranks of the Ethiopian army, backed up by the forces under Ras Mulugheta, which had proceeded directly from the Ethiopian capital.

There were indications that the Ethiopian army was well organized, the troops being accompanied by supply trains.

Estimates of Ethiopian Arms.

The latest Italian staff figures credit the Ethiopians with 7500 Belgian rifles, 350,000 cartridges, 150 Mannlicher and 750 Hotchkiss machine guns, recently arrived.

Another recent shipment contained 200,000 rifles, 1000 pistols, 400 machine guns, 200 trench mortars and 500,000 hand grenades.

An unknown number of Colt machine guns, 300 Maxim light machine guns, 500 Maxim heavy machine guns, 25,000 Mauser rifles, 10,000 machine gun rifles and 10,000,000 cartridges are also credited to the Ethiopians.

The warriors are supposed also to have 2800 Vickers machine guns and 500 Lewis machine guns coming. Their equipment also includes uniforms, medical stores, barbed wire, saddlery and portable radio facilities.

Brief Communique Says "Nothing of Note to Report."

ROME, Dec. 4.—Marshal Pietro Badoglio, Commander-in-Chief of the Italian armies in East Africa, sent today the shortest communique yet issued. He telegraphed: "There is nothing of note to report on either the Eritrean or Somaliland fronts."

Troops which had been expected to depart for the Southern Ethiopian front are still in Italy amid a general tightening of home defenses, usually well-informed sources said today.

All naval leaves have been withdrawn by Premier Mussolini, it was reported reliably.

The air force entered into the program under orders by the Cabinet that all vacancies be filled.

The Fascist army of 1,000,000 already had reached full efficiency with the cancelation of leaves for 100,000 men.

FIVE OKLAHOMA JAILBREAKERS SAID TO BE SURROUNDED

Sheriff Asks for Plane to Find O'Malley Gangsters and Pal in Winding Stair Hills.

FEDERAL AGENTS JOIN IN MANHUNT

Fugitives Abandon Auto Used in Escape, in Which Prisoner Was Killed and Detective Shot.

By the Associated Press.

McALESTER, Ok., Dec. 4.—Sheriff H. H. Sherill of McAlester reported today that five men, including four members of the "Irish" O'Malley gang of bank robbers and kidnapers, who escaped from jail at Muskogee yesterday, "are bottled up on the Winding Stair Mountains 23 miles south of Wilburton in Latimer County and 18 miles north of Clayton in Pushmataha County." The sheriff asked for an airplane to help find them.

The men sought are Leonard Short, Dewey Gilmore, Dan T. Heady and Russell Cooper, all awaiting sentence on conviction of bank robbery at Okemah, Ok., last December, and Dan Garrett, under seven-year sentence for violation of the Mann Act.

A sixth prisoner, John Blackburn, was shot and killed in the jail break, in which Chief of Detectives Ben Bolton was wounded seriously.

The five, armed with a sub-machine gun, rifles and pistols from the jail arsenal, abandoned near Clayton the automobile they had commandeered for their flight.

Eight Federal agents were assigned to the chase.

"We assume the responsibility of finding them and placing them back where they belong," said Dwight Brantley, chief of the Oklahoma City bureau of the Department of Justice. "They were Federal prisoners."

Sheriff Sherill led 25 possemen, including guards from the State's prison here. Prison bloodhounds also were used.

Sheriff Tom Jordan of Muskogee led another party in the man hunt. Thirty National Guardsmen also entered the search.

Officers said the men were lightly clad and presumably spent an uncomfortable night in the cold rather than risk lighting a fire.

Mrs. Dan T. Heady, who visited her husband a short time before he pressed a pistol against a guard's ribs and directed the break, was questioned at Muskogee.

"Irish" O'Malley, former leader of the gang of which several of the Muskogee jailbreakers were members, was captured early last summer in Kansas City and is now serving a life term in Chester (Ill.) penitentiary for kidnaping August Luer, wealthy Alton banker and meat packer, for ransom.

Heady made Bernard open a cell near the barred gate and Dewey Gilmore and Russell Cooper ran out of the enclosure and into the gunroom.

"I was on the second floor—the top floor—of the building. I heard all the running around and I ran down the stairs which enter the hall just outside the jail enclosure. By this time the prisoners had got hold of two sawed-off shotguns and a rifle.

"I was covered before I knew what was going on. I was armed, but I never got to my revolver and they never took it from me. At this time Desk Sergt. Claude Wood came into the station. He saw what was going on and ducked into the office of Chief of Detectives Ben Bolton.

Used Officers as Shields.

"Cooper grabbed hold of me and started to back out of the station toward the outside door. He kept himself pulled up close against me, using me for a shield, I guess. Someone else was dragging Bernard along. Just before we passed Chief Bolton's office he ran to the door on the corridor. One of the prisoners—I don't know which—fired on him with a shotgun before he ever got to his pistol, and he went down in the doorway.

"The prisoners ran out the outside door and started around the station to the alley. They said very little—talked in low voices like they meant business, but didn't shout or curse. As we passed the window of the office of Chief of Police Marsh Crogan, he leaned out and began firing. Blackburn went down, but the others never paused, just kept trotting along, with Cooper running backward, and dragging me after him. In the alley, he let go of me. They ran down the alley a short way and piled into an automobile. Later we found it was a minister's car.

"Bernard was released about the same time. He ran back into the station and sent out the alarm on the radio. I returned to my station in the jail and helped organize the chase."

Cobalt said that the automatic pistol used by Heady could have been passed to him through the visitors' bars, which are not screened.

ROOSEVELT TO RECEIVE GEORGIA FARM DELEGATION

Callers Want to Talk About Mortgage Rates; Roadside Press Conference.

WARM SPRINGS, Ga., Dec. 4.—President Roosevelt today will receive a delegation of Meriwether County farmers who want to talk about lower mortgage rates. The Rev. W. G. Harry, Mayor of Warm Springs, arranged the meeting.

Asked by newspaper men yesterday for the names of the bankers who told him the nation could stand a debt of 55 to 70 billion dollars to meet the crisis of March, 1933, the President suggested a reading of financial journals of that period. He said he had a list of the bankers and some letters, but had no intention of making them public.

Questioned about a convention city for the Democratic National Convention, he said he had not thought about it. Asked if he was a candidate for re-election, he smiled broadly and replied that the convention would select the nominee.

PAY RISE AT ALUMINUM PLANT

Increase of 5 Per Cent at East St. Louis Factory.

A wage increase of 5 per cent has been ordered for 1100 hourly paid employes of the Aluminum Ore Co. East St. Louis subsidiary of the Aluminum Co. of America. R. F. Rucker, superintendent of the plant, announced yesterday. The increase, which was effective Dec. 1, will average 3 cents an hour for the workers.

Negotiations between the Council of Aluminum Workers and the company at Pittsburgh led to the order. The East St. Louis plant was shut down during August, 1934, when union workers went on strike for higher wages.

SEYMOUR WEISS INDICTED AGAIN AT NEW ORLEANS

Third Income Tax Evasion Charge Against Ally of the Late Huey Long.

By the Associated Press.

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 4.—A Federal grand jury today indicted Seymour Weiss, president of the New Orleans Dock Board and political ally of the late Huey P. Long, on charges of income tax evasion. It was the third time he has faced similar charges within a year.

The last previous indictment was on Nov. 15. The first was returned late last year. The Government then charged he owed $26,000.

Indicted with Weiss today were three men listed as R. S. Wilson, Little Rock, former president of a quarry concern; Chauncey D. Nichols, Oklahoma City, a former vice-president of the company, and H. F. Schiff, Oklahoma City public accountant.

The indictment charged the four with conspiring to evade payment of income taxes of the Louisiana Quarry Co. and of the late Sam M. Beasley, purchasing agent for the Louisiana Highway Department, and his wife.

The indictment charged that the alleged conspirators defrauded the Government of $9535.32 assertedly due from the quarry company in 1931 and $2034.24 assertedly due in 1932. The indictment further charged the Beasleys owed $51,138.92 tax in 1931 in which $2064.22 allegedly was not paid as a result of the purported conspiracy.

The dead man was identified as Howard Hays, 23 years old. The other gave his name as Roy Taylor, 35.

WALL FOR 10-YEAR CONTRACT WITH UNION ELECTRIC CO.

Director of Public Utilities to Draft Bill; Rate Cheaper for Long Period.

Director of Public Utilities Edward E. Wall, following a conference today with City Counselor Charles M. Hay, announced to reporters that he would prepare a bill providing for a 10-year contract between the city and the Union Electric Light & Power Co., for the lighting of streets, parks and public institutions, and would recommend its approval by the Board of Public Service and passage by the Board of Aldermen.

A bill authorizing a three-year contract is now pending in the Board of Aldermen, but Wall said he favored the longer contract because Union Electric officials had indicated that the rates would be cheaper for a longer period and had also signified their willingness to adjust their rates with the city during the life of the contract, should any economic change or new device make it possible to manufacture electricity at cheaper rates.

On the 10-year basis, Wall said, all city lighting would be included in one contract. At present, separate contracts are let for street lighting, park lighting, and lighting of institutions. C. E. Meichel, chief electrical engineer of the utilities department, has estimated that at the rates offered by Union Electric, on a 10-year basis, an annual saving of about $68,000 could be effected by the city. Wall said that in view of these conditions, he thought the city could save more by a contract with the Union Electric than by building its own electrical plant, and he did not now favor construction of such a plant.

EVICTION OF RELIEF CLIENTS HALTED BY CHICAGO JUDGE

He Continues Cases, Saying He Can't Put 25,000 Persons Out in Cold.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Evictors of relief clients, unable to pay rent, will get no aid from his court, Judge Nunzio Bonelli said yesterday.

"No relief client is going to be put out of his home before Christmas," Judge Bonelli said in renters' court. "I can't put 25,000 people out into the cold snowy streets. I'll continue these cases, and see what can be done to reach some agreement between the Relief Commission and the landlords."

In all, Judge Bonelli said, about 300 cases of eviction come up in his court each day.

Notices have been posted in many real estate offices that relief clients no longer are accepted as tenants.

RECAPTURED CONVICTS FACE MURDER CHARGES

Three Back in Boston Prison After Break in Which Three Were Killed.

By the Associated Press.

BOSTON, Dec. 4.—Three convicts were back in State prison today after an escape attempt in which three men were killed.

District Attorney William J. Foley said he would ask for first degree murder indictments against the three surviving prisoners.

The recaptured convicts are Edward McArdle, 24 years old; Charles O'Brien, 28, and Frank Joyce, 21. They were retaken without injury. The prisoners who were killed were William (Red) McManus, 27, and Philip Naples, 32.

Louis Richards, 27, a truck driver, died of injuries. Richards was beaten by the prisoners, who seized his truck and rammed it through three prison gates, and later was shot by guards firing at the convicts.

Arthur T. Lyman, Commissioner of Correction, said:

"When the five men seized the truck between the print shop and the aluminum shop they struck the truck driver, Mr. Richards, on the back of the head with a steel instrument, causing a very deep gash. The prisoners in the back of the truck used Mr. Richards' prostrate body as a shield against the possible shots of the guard on the wall. The officers in the tower, in performing their duty to prevent the men from escaping, fired. One of the bullets entered Mr. Richards' chest."

Three Escaped Tennessee Convicts Still at Large.

By the Associated Press.

NASHVILLE, Tenn., Dec. 4.—Officers today pursued three convicted robbers who escaped from the Tennessee Penitentiary yesterday.

Warden A. W. Neely reported the men, whom he identified as Pete Dean, George Wilbur Moss and Gus McCoig, abandoned the automobile of Deputy Warden Ed Connors at Spring Hill, Tenn., south of Nashville, and stole a physician's sedan. With knife and pistol, the three kidnaped Connors to serve as their escort from the prison walls. He was freed on a highway.

MARY M'ELROY TELLS OF VISIT TO KIDNAPERS

Says It's Only Natural for Her to Take an Interest in Prisoners.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Dec. 4.—"It's all so simple. Really, I can't see why others can't understand it," Mary McElroy said today in discussing her visit to the Jefferson City prison Monday to see the men who are serving life sentences for kidnaping her, Walter and George McKee.

"It's only natural for me to take an interest in Walter and George," the 26-year-old daughter of former City Manager, Henry F. McElroy, explained. "After all, I'm the individual they are in prison for kidnaping.

"I had messages to take to them from their sisters. George, Walter and I sat for over an hour alone in the Deputy Warden's office. It was the first time I had seen Walter since his imprisonment at Jefferson City, but I had seen George once before. Walter has been engaged in making shoes and as a sideline has been taking up hand work — crocheting bags, gloves and things like that. George is taking a high school correspondence course.

"What did we talk about?

"Well, mostly about their work and their sisters, I guess.

"It means so much to Walter and George to know that someone on the outside thinks of their welfare," Miss McElroy added. "That's why I went to see them."

George was sentenced to life imprisonment and Walter was sentenced to death, but Gov. Park commuted Walter's sentence to life imprisonment after a plea by Miss McElroy.

Ickes Says He Was 'Misunderstood' On Sale of Oil to Italy and Ethiopia

Lines Up With Administration's Present Policy of Keeping Hands Off "Normal" Shipments of Goods to Belligerents.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Secretary of the Interior Ickes issued two statements in rapid succession yesterday recording himself as in line with a present administration policy of keeping hands off "normal" shipments of goods to Italy and Ethiopia. Ickes, who is Oil Administrator, said in his first statement yesterday that he was "misunderstood" Nov. 21, when he made remarks generally construed as a call to the American oil industry to place a voluntary embargo on sales to belligerents.

In his second statement, Ickes said he had received "no intimation from any other department of any change in the Government's policy."

Originally, the general impression gained from official pronouncements was that the Government sought to "discourage" all dealings with belligerents. This impression gained apparent support from the widespread construction placed on Ickes' remarks Nov. 21.

Sharp resentment was expressed in Rome at that time and the Italian Ambassador called on Secretary Hull, though the nature of their talk was not disclosed. Later a State Deparment spokesman said the administration had not tried to interfere with a normal flow of exports.

Ickes said last night that when reporters asked him on Nov. 21 what American oil producers should do, he replied "they ought to operate in letter and spirit with efforts of the Government to keep us from furnishing war munitions to belligerents." The reporters present Nov. 21 understood him to say "war materials," which would include oil.

Denying that he spoke for the administration, Ickes repeated last night that oil producers should operate strictly within the neutrality policy, though he did not expand that view.

Secretary of State Hull yesterday threatened quick legal action against arms makers and exporters who fail to register with the State Department.

The law which embargoed shipments of actual arms and munitions to belligerents also required manufacturers and handlers to register by Nov. 29. Hull said 86 of them had registered. Jail terms and fines are penalties provided for non-compliance.

SAYS DISTRIBUTION, NOT PRODUCTION, IS GREATEST PROBLEM

as the passing of an idea which has for the last two years cast an hypnotic spell over American industry. It was the idea, terrifying to some, glorious to others, that our social order was moving rapidly to its doom."

On government Bardo commented, "the recent decisions of the Supreme Court have given industry renewed courage and manufacturers and business men everywhere have become mobilized and united in a common purpose to preserve a full measure of individual liberty in this country and to ensure the continuance of free industrial enterprise and economic development."

He called for an attempt to "find a sound middle ground between the anarchy of irresponsible individualism and the tyranny of State socialism," adding: "We can no longer postpone the task, however difficult it may be, of bringing the policies of capital and labor into accord with the natural laws of a free people."

Bruce Barton, sales consultant, described advertising as a weapon in the hand of business to achieve leadership of the American people.

A. A. Ballantine on Spending.

Arthur A. Ballantine, a former undersecretary of the Treasury, said: "Two facts stand out about the payment side of the Government's spending program; one is the ill disguised need for more tax revenues. The other is that securing the needed revenue, both from existing taxes and new taxes, is going to come home to every man's pocketbook."

Ballantine asserted, "assurance that we may look forward to a 'decreasing deficit' is very different from assurance of a balanced budget."

The President's estimates of expenditures and revenues for the current fiscal year, he said, indicate that "for every two dollars that is spent, 87 cents will have to be borrowed."

Two principal methods are available, he said, for effecting large increases in tax revenues: a broadened income tax with higher rates in the lower brackets, and "some form of a general sales tax."

1500 WPA WORKERS REFUSE NEW TERMS AT KEY WEST

Strike Chairman Says $7.50 Weekly Wage Is Not Enough With Increased Hours.

By the Associated Press.

KEY WEST, Fla., Dec. 4. — Fifteen hundred WPA workers who quit their jobs in this Federally administered city refused last night to accept new wage scales offered by the New Deal agency.

Shortly after the men laid down their tools, E. A. Pynchon, State WPA Administrator for District 5, telegraphed authorization to increase working hours, and thereby wages, 25 per cent.

Under the new scale proposed, workers on WPA projects would be employed five instead of four days weekly and receive $7.50 instead of $6.05.

However, Louis Avila, chairman of the strikers' committee, said prices of commodities in Key West had increased 25 per cent since the Labor day hurricane deprived the city of rail freight service.

He declared the strikers would have accepted the wage increase had not the extra day's work been asked.

THREE MISSOURI COMPANIES ATTACK COAL ACT IN SU

Novinger Mining Concerns Ask An Injunction, Charging Tax Is Confiscatory.

A suit attacking the constitutionality of the bituminous coal conservation act, and asking an injunction against its enforcement, was filed in Federal Court today by attorneys for three Novinger (Mo.) coal mining companies.

The petition was directed against Collector of Internal Revenue Thomas J. Sheehan, U. S. Attorney Harry C. Blanton, Attorney-General Cummings and revenue department agents. Judge Davis issued an order to show cause returnable Dec. 17. The companies filing suit were the Riverside Coal Co., Kansas City; Midland Coal and Mining Co. and Chariton River Coal Co.

While the act purports to affect bituminous coal producers a voluntary choice of joining a code, the petition states, in fact it imposes upon those who do not wish to join a penalty in the form of a tax amounting to 15 per cent of the sale price of the coal produced by them. Those who become members of the code obtain reimbursement for 90 per cent of the 15 per cent tax, making their tax 1.5 per cent. It is charged the tax is confiscatory and an abuse of the taxing power.

Similar suits were filed yesterday in Federal Court at East St. Louis in behalf of the Delta Coal Mining Co. of Marion, Ill. In both cases the attorneys were Maurice E. Winger, Leland Hazard and George J. Winger of Kansas City and William M. Fitch of St. Louis.

TWO ARMY FLYERS KILLED IN CRASH NEAR BOLLING FIELD

Plane Plows Into a Hill While Seeking Low Altitude Preparatory to Landing.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Two army flyers from Mitchel Field, Long Island, crashed to their death today in an airplane which plowed into a hill near Bolling Field, the army's capital air station. The dead were named by the War Department as First Lieut. Harry H. Geoffrey, whose home is at St. Paul, Minn., and Maj. George E. Rice of Thermopolis, Wyo.

Officials of Bolling Field said the plane was making a flight from Mitchel Field and crashed from an undetermined cause while seeking a low altitude preparatory to landing. The field adjutant said the motor of the plane (a Douglass O-43 type, water cooled motor) was running at the time of the crash and evidently plowed into the ground at considerable speed.

The plane, a high wing type with seats tandem and the pilot ahead, did not burn but was demolished.

Officers at Bolling Field said the plane was attempting to land when caught in a gale blowing across the flatlands from the Potomac River. The ship was pushed back and fell on a heavily wooded knoll about 200 yards from the field.

STORY OF ESCAPE OF PRISONERS TOLD BY POLICE OFFICER

By Long Distance Telephone to the Post-Dispatch.

MUSKOGEE, Ok., Dec. 4. — How six prisoners escaped from the city-Federal jail in a spectacular break here yesterday afternoon, losing one of their number who was kille in the getaway, was told today by Police Sergeant Norman Cobalt, the jailer.

"It all began," he said, "after Dan Heady, a member of the 'Irish' O'Malley bank robbery gang, had kissed his wife through the bars at the end of the first floor corridor. As she turned away down the corridor Police Radio Operator Elmer Bernard, who was on Heady's side of the bars, walked up to Heady to lead him back to his cell.

"Heady swung around with an automatic pistol in his hand and jammed it into Bernard's ribs. He ordered Bernard to open the runway door leading out into the corridor where the police offices are.

Dash for Gun Room.

"Bernard unlocked the door. Leonard Short, another prisoner, had just finished taking a bath a few feet away. He pushed past Bernard and ran into the gunroom on the first floor just outside the bars. John Blackburn and Dan Garrett, jail trusties, who were nearby, also ran into the gunroom.

GENERAL MOTORS PAYS TWO MEN $200,000 A YEAR

Vice-President Knudsen Gets $211,128, President Sloan $201,743, in Salaries and Bonuses.

SECURITIES BOARD GIVES OUT FIGURES

11 Officers Receive Around $100,000 Each, Says Report, for Which Secrecy Was Requested.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. — General Motors' top salary list, showing payments of $100,000 to $200,000 a year to ranking officers, was made public last night by the Securities and Exchange Commission over the company's protest.

It showed that William S. Knudsen, executive vice-president, drew $211,128 in salary and bonus last year, and Alfred P. Sloan Jr., president, $201,743. Thirteen others received more than $70,000, and 20 directors got $25,000 or less.

This information was filed months ago with a request that it be held confidential. Several hundred companies similarly requested secrecy for specified details of their business, which the law required that they furnish in registering their stock and bond issues.

Considering each case separately, the Commission recently decided that in about 250 instances it was to the public interest that the information be made generally available. About 20 reports mostly of minor companies, were made public last night.

Monthly Report.

At the same time, the Commission issued its monthly report on stock-holdings and transfers of officers, directors and principal stockholders of registered corporations, showing a continuation—but in decreasing volume—of the practice of making large gifts of securities. New taxes on such gifts become effective Jan. 1.

Knudsen's total remuneration consisted of $120,000 in salary and $91,128 in bonus. Sloan's included $118,900 salary and $82,743 bonus. Bonus payments consisted of cash and common stock. Other high total compensation figures, all to vice-presidents, were:

Other Businesses.

The Commission disclosed that Eureka Vacuum Co. had asked it to hold confidential gross sales of $3,487,168 for last year, of goods costing $342,000 with a gross profit of $1,044,459 and a net profit of $913,694.

Consolidated Paper Co. reported, with a similar request, gross sales of $9,701,879 of goods costing $7,-..., and gross profit of $2,-.... The Berghoff Brewing Co. made the same request regarding a net loss of $103,022.

Other salaries made public included:

Falstaff Brewing Co. — Joseph Griesedieck, Kirkwood, Mo., president, $12,260; Alvin F. Griesedieck, Kirkwood, $10,240; Oscar B. Fischer, University Hills, Mo., and Harry M. Wagner, Kirkwood, $6260 each.

Corn Products Refining Co. — George M. Moffett, New York City, president, $144,750; Frederick T. Fisher and George S. Mahana, vice-presidents, New York City, $121,500 each, including profit sharing.

St. Louis Corporation Executives Report Gift of Shares.

Gifts of shares made during the last few months by officers and directors of St. Louis corporations were disclosed today in the latest report of the Securities and Exchange Commission. A schedule of higher taxes on gifts and inheritances passed by the last Congress goes into effect Jan. 1.

Edward P. Cave, president of Famous & Barr Dry Goods Co., gave 2000 shares of its common shares to his daughters, the Misses Elinore and Edna Cave, 4554 Pershing avenue, on Sept. 9. At latest market quotations the shares given each daughter valued at $32,250. Mr. Cave retains 14,762 shares.

Sidney R. Baer, vice-president and treasurer of Stix, Baer & Fuller, made a gift of 2000 shares of its common on Oct. 11, leaving his holdings 25,058 shares at the end of the month. The gift is now valued at $19,000 at current market quotations. He declined to say to whom it was made.

Irving Edison, vice-president of Edison Brothers' Stores, Inc., made a gift of 2100 shares of common, now having a market value of $79,-..., on July 31. He retained 12,240 shares.

He said he gave the shares to members of his family, partly in anticipation of the higher gift taxes.

Edward J. Miller's Report.

Edward J. Miller, president of the St. Louis Screw & Bolt Co., and his wife, Caroline, made gifts of 800 and 700 preferred shares of the company Aug. 21. He retained only 200 and she 400 preferred shares.

Miller said the shares were given to their seven sons and daughters and to a sister of his. The stock's probable value, he said, was $75, the amount for which it last sold a year ago at an unrecorded sale within the company, or $112,500 for the 1500 shares. Par value for it is $100. The gifts were made in anticipation of the higher inheritance taxes, he said.

R. E. Blake, a director of International Shoe Co., made a gift of 60 common shares, now having a market value of $2895, on Oct. 30. He retained 2368 shares.

SIX MORE QUIT COUNTY HOSPITAL; 15 IN THREE DAYS

county, is that responsibility for administration of the hospital should be placed on the County Medical Society and not on men in politics who wish to use it as a football."

Denial of "Rivalry."

Dr. Robert L. Foster, president of the St. Louis County Medical Society, denied yesterday that the resignation of staff physicians at the hospital were due to rivalry between the city and county medical societies," as stated Monday by Dr. Sheahan. The latter, in a letter to the Post-Dispatch yesterday, amended his statement of Monday and said he meant to say the rivalry was between members of the societies, rather than between the organizations.

"There has been no clash between the societies," Dr. Foster said. "The only demand ever made was that county doctors be called to attend pay patients who expressed no preference as to a doctor. No discriminatory action against St. Louis physicians was ever discussed at meetings of the county society."

Dr. John Green, chief of the ophthalmology staff, announced today his staff and six physicians held a conference yesterday and decided not to resign. "We felt it would be unfair to deny treatment to patients because of internal politics in the hospital, and decided to remain at our posts," said Dr. Green.

An investigation of County Court records by the Post-Dispatch disclosed that Dr. Sheahan has discharged 83 employes and hired 89 since his appointment as superintendent last Jan. 1.

The superintendent was at first appointed temporarily and served until June 24, when he was dismissed by the Court after a grand jury reported the institution had been "mismanaged to such an appalling extent that it constitutes a menace to the public health and safety of St. Louis County." The Court reinstated him Sept. 18 and made the appointment permanent, ignoring a Chamber of Commerce recommendation for a successor, which the Court had requested.

Hiring and Firing Resumed.

Before his dismissal in June, Dr. Sheahan fired 63 employes and hired 57. After reinstatement he fired 20 more and hired 32. Those discharged included three nurses, two attendants, an investigator, two orderlies, four clerks, five kitchen employes and three maids. Those hired were 11 nurses, an investigator, an orderly, six clerks, six kitchen employes and seven maids.

New Attempt to Oust Dr. Sheahan Made by County Judge Tighe.

County Judge Eugene G. Tighe, who voted against the reinstatement of Dr. Sheahan, made another unsuccessful attempt to secure the superintendent's removal at the County Court's session today, after a bitter exchange between him and Presiding Judge Thomas H. Thatcher.

Tighe opened the discussion by saying, "I think the Court should take judicial notice of the situation at the County Hospital."

"What's going on?" asked Thatcher. "Why, the resignation of all these doctors," replied Tighe.

"It's a good thing," exclaimed the Presiding Judge. "We ought to kick more of them out. I don't have much respect for anyone who goes off and leaves sick, poor people without care just because they don't get what they want. When the whole staff walks out because one man induces them to walk out with him, they ought to be ashamed of themselves."

He accused Dr. Slocumb of having "induced" the other staff members to resign. "I know Dr. Slocumb well," Thatcher continued. "He tried to get me to retain Dr. Patton as superintendent." Dr. William G. Patton was Dr. Sheahan's predecessor in the office.

Tighe said he had talked to several of the resigning physicians, who told him conditions at the hospital were "outrageous." "Is everybody wrong but us?" he went on. "The newspapers, the physicians, everybody is criticising the hospital. Are they all wrong but the County Court?"

"Well, you know all the nasty things and none of the good things," replied Thatcher. "You and the Prosecuting Attorney started the whole thing. You accused the superintendent of being responsible for what the doctors themselves were doing. If any slaughtering was going on at the hospital, it was not the superintendent but the doctors who were doing it. The grand jury report has never been substantiated."

"Then you think the hospital is all right?" asked Tighe.

"It would be if you left it alone," said Thatcher. He said Prosecuting Attorney Anderson and Tighe had been "crucifying" Sheahan to "get even" with County Counselor John E. Mooney.

J. L. Milligan Improved.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. — Improvement in the condition of former Representative Jacob L. Milligan of Richmond, Mo., was reported yesterday. Dr. Francis Hagner, attending physician, said he was "very much encouraged."

FEDERAL AGENT AND EX-DETECTIVE KILLED AT CLUB

Shot to Death at Resort Near Tulsa; Employes of Place Say They Tried Holdup.

By the Associated Press.

TULSA, Ok., Dec. 4.—Louis Pappan, 42 years old, Federal internal revenue agent, and George Stewart, former police detective captain, were shot to death at the Sheridan Club, a night club east of the city, early today after they had been thrown out of the place by "bouncers."

Two employes of the club, Tyree Parks, doorman, and G. R. (Hickory) McCullough, were held by county officers. Both men said the two killed were attempting a holdup.

Asked who fired the fatal shots, both of the men replied: "I don't know."

Roy Staley, manager of the club, was placed in jail later.

Sheriff Garland Marrs reported that one unfired cartridge was found in Park's pistol, and that one shell was missing from McCullough's weapon.

Tells of Fight.

McCullough told reporters that the first he knew of the affair was when Staley told him the club was being held up.

"I got my gun and went out the back way," he said. "I went around the place and came in through the check room. Stewart was standing with his back to me, holding his gun on Parks. I hit him with my pistol and then reached over and tapped Pappan as he held his gun on Jimmy Burkhead, an employe of the club. Park took Stewart's pistol as he fell and I don't know what happened to Pappan's gun, whether someone got it or not.

"We put them both outside and pretty soon the shooting began."

Pappan had been assigned recently to inspection of dealers' beer licenses, and it could not be learned whether he was on assigned duty at the time of the shooting. Stewart formerly was head of the city vice squad.

The Sheridan Club was closed for several weeks last summer after the County Attorney's office threatened to ask an injunction against the club as for a gambling place.

Verne Hamilton, driver of the taxicab in which Pappan rode to the club with Stewart, said they had been making routine license checks at beer taverns.

Harry Brill, Pappan's superior here, said the agent's record was "good."

Pappan Was an Indian.

Pappan, a Kaw Indian, had been employed by the Revenue Department for the last seven months.

Brill said he did not know whether Pappan was making a required check of the club at the time of the affray.

"His work was such that it might take him anywhere at any time," said Brill. "I cannot understand the situation. Pappan had an exeellent record with the service."

Stewart was one of Eastern Oklahoma's most widely known peace officers and had led forays on robbers' hideouts several times. He was convicted in 1932 at Vinita of transporting liquor and was sentenced by Federal Judge Franklin E. Kennamer to five months in prison. He was dismissed from the police force in 1934 when the administration changed.

County Attorney Anderson said he was confident that on the list of guests in his hands he would find at least one who had seen the shooting.

"I am not satisfied with the stories told by the club employes," Anderson said.

Anderson said today he ordered Sheriff Marrs yesterday to close the Sheridan Club but did not issue a formal order.

CHARITIES FUND $638,000 SHORT, IS PRESENT OUTLOOK

Peter Kasius Declares Some Agencies May Be Forced to Try Other Means to Obtain Money.

Failure of the United Charities campaign to raise substantially more than the $2,282,000 contributed last year might cause some of the agencies to take it upon themselves to find other means of obtaining funds needed to finance their activities, Peter Kasius, director of United Charities, Inc., said today to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

The campaign, which has resulted so far in pledges of $2,002,863, or 70 per cent of the $2,850,000 sought, will end Friday. The campaign organization would be dissolved on that day, Kasius said, but a few volunteers would continue to seek gifts from persons overlooked or missed in the main campaign.

From present indications, Kasius said, the final total probably would be about $70,000 less than the $2,-282,000 raised last year. This, he said, would mean another year of operation on an emergency basis for the agencies, resulting in curtailment of their activities, and impairment of their service.

Collections at Homes Lowest.

The general division of the campaign organization, which conducts a house-to-house canvass for contributions, has the poorest record among the three divisions in the campaign, Kasius said. The larger subscriptions division will raise somewhat more than last year, and the group, or employe division, he said, will approximate last year's record.

He attributed the poor showing of the general division, which raised $270,000 last year and will be $50,000 or more behind that mark this year, to confusion in the public mind over what the Government is doing in the way of relief, and a misunderstanding of the work of United Charities agencies, which include hospitals, clinics, homes for children and the aged, day nurseries, settlement houses and other institutions.

Preventive Work Hampered.

Welfare agencies operated over a period of years on an emergency basis, Kasius said, cannot undertake the constructive, preventive work which they are best qualified to do. Without such work, he said, there is a tendency to develop a class of chronic dependents and paupers.

This impairment in the quality of service rendered, Kasius said, was an added misfortune, on top of that which results when the agencies, for lack of funds, are compelled to deny assistance of any kind to those in need.

Of the total raised so far, $1,176,-700 has been received by the larger subscriptions division; $633,568 by the group division, and $192,593 by the general division.

A contribution of $85,191 by members of the St. Louis Police Department was announced yesterday. Another gift reported by the group division was $1765 by 525 employes of McQuay-Norris Manufacturing Co.

R. Walston Chubb, attorney and chairman of the campaign speakers' bureau, addressed employes of the Monsanto Chemical Co., asking them to visualize the sick and aged and children who are helped by United Charities agencies.

"The average man, if he were directly in contact with the need, would unquestionably help a friend who was sick or injured," Chubb said. "I will ask you to see in your mind's eye the hospital wards and the lines at the clinics, and believe, as I think you will, that these institutions are doing your job. The average man would also feel the appeal of the aged and infirm. His job is being done by the four old folks' homes and eight family relief agencies. And there is no one, I am sure, who does not feel the appeal of a helpless or neglected child. I will ask you to think what it means in terms of childhood that we maintain 12 orphanages, four day nurseries, four fresh-air farms; that we maintain the Children's Aid Society and institutions such as the Visiting Nurse Association, which sends its nurses annually on some 75,000 visits, principally to see that children are properly born and cared for at the threshold of life."

United Charities Statement on Blank Pledges.

In requesting the Post-Dispatch to publish a blank pledge for gift signers, the United Charities Campaign Committee issued this statement:

"Every person in St. Louis or St. Louis County who has not given to the United Charities Campaign, or who desires to increase his gift in view of the extreme emergency, is urged to fill out and mail the following pledge this week. Your contribution will help take care of necessary hospital cases (558,889 days of free or part-free hospital care furnished last year), and will help finance clinical and dispensary services (46,809 patients were treated last year). As an aid to subscribers the following amounts, and services they will furnish, are suggested:

"(a) A contribution of $7.50 will furnish nursing service to a bedridden mother in her own home for one week.

"(b) A contribution of $12 will keep a child in an orphanage for two weeks.

"(c) A contribution of $17.50 will keep an old person in a home for a month."

YOUNGER LIVERMORE BOY HAS LEFT HOME OF HIS MOTHER

Father Expected to Seek Custody of Two Children; Jesse Jr. Still in Grave Condition.

By the Associated Press.

SANTA BARBARA, Cal., Dec. 4.—A court fight over custody of the two sons of Mrs. Dorothy Wendt Longcope and her divorced husband, Jesse Livermore, may arise out of the shooting of Jesse Livermore Jr.

The 16-year-old boy still was in grave condition from a bullet wound inflicted by his mother in a drunken quarrel. She was under a physician's care, after her release on $6000 bond.

Her younger son, Paul Livermore, 14, was with his father, the stock market operator, despite Mrs. Longcope's demand that he return to the home where his brother was shot last Friday. Mrs. Longcope said she hoped Jesse Jr. would forgive her and return home after his recovery.

The father declined to comment, but friends intimated he might institute proceedings to revoke a court order which gave Mrs. Longcope custody of the two boys when they were divorced.

SALE OF PLANT OF BANKRUPT CEMENT FIRM AUTHORIZED

Meramec Concern at Sherman, St. Louis County, Originally Filed for Reorganization.

Elmer E. Pearcy, trustee of the bankrupt Meramec Portland Cement and Material Co., was authorized yesterday by Referee in Bankruptcy John L. Plowman to sell at public auction the firm's sand and gravel plant at Sherman, St. Louis County, on Dec. 17.

A previous application to sell marine equipment, dredges locomotives and a crane at private sale for $15,000 was denied several weeks ago by Referee John A. Hope. The public sale will also include 260 acres of land. The company originally filed for reorganization in Federal Court, but was adjudicated bankrupt Oct. 12 by Federal Judge Davis when the president, Goerge Raterman, informed him the company had failed to make financial arrangements for reorganization.

WOMAN WHO CUT WRIST DIES

Mrs. Leona Fehl Had Been Despondent Over Poor Health.

Mrs. Leona Fehl, 40 years old, 4954 St. Ferdinand avenue, died yesterday at City Hospital of loss of blood and shock suffered Monday when she cut her wrist with a razor blade.

Mrs. Josephine McCarthy, 4903 Highland avenue, an aunt, told police Mrs. Fehl had been despondent over ill health. A short time before she appeared at De Paul Hospital with a severed artery, Mrs. Fehl had called at the home of Mrs. McCarthy.

200 FIGHT TO KEEP WATER OUT OF MINE

Underground Flow From Old Pits Threatens Shaft at Johnston City, Ill.

By the Associated Press.

JOHNSTON CITY, Ill., Dec. 4.—Mine executives expressed belief early today that miners had won their fight against underground flood waters threatening property, lives and this city's future as a coal mining center.

"The battle is not won but it looks like we have things under control," said Howard Lewis, assistant to the superintendent of the Old Ben mines, after a new shift or workers went into Old Ben No. 18 at midnight.

Two hundred men—170 of them underground—worked steadily through the night putting up temporary dams to hold back the rising waters until a concrete fill can be constructed.

The dams are about 300 yards from the old fill through which water began flowing Monday night, threatening both the Old Ben and the city's other mine—Franco No. 1.

Miners underground knew it would be difficult to reach the shaft in safety if the old fill gave way. The water threatening the mine is from abandoned mines south of the city.

Business was at a standstill yesterday as persons gathered at the mine throughout the night to hear reports on the work underground.

FORMER PARK POLICEMAN ACQUITTED OF ROBBERY

William M. Sparks Freed by Jury; Three Others Accused Pleaded Guilty.

William M. Sparks, a former park policeman, was acquitted of a first degree robbery charge in a sealed verdict, which was opened in Circuit Judge Connor's court today. The case had gone to the jury yesterday evening and the verdict reached during the night.

Spark was one of four men charged with the robbery of the offices of the Wilson Land and Lumber Co., 5459 Easton avenue, on Oct. 19, 1934, in which $450 in cash and a number of checks were taken. Three others were sentenced to five years in the penitentiary on their pleas of guilty of the robbery.

ANTON A. GRIESEDIECK, BREWERY HEAD, DIES

In Poor Health for Several Years—Funeral Services Friday.

Anton A. Griesedieck, president of Griesedieck Bros. Brewery Co., died from a complication of ailments at 9:05 o'clock this morning at his home, 3250 Hawthorne boulevard. He was 55 years old.

An internal hemorrhage was the immediate cause of death. He had been in poor health for several years, but continued active in business until last Saturday.

Grandson and namesake of Anton A. Griesedieck, who came to America from Westphalia, Germany, and entered the brewing business here in 1872, Mr. Griesedieck was born in St. Louis. His father was Henry Griesedieck Jr. The immediate family has continued in the same brewery for many years, while relatives have conducted other breweries.

He started about 1900 to learn to make beer at the old National Brewery, which was founded by his grandfather, father and two uncles. He became president of the family company, with a brewery at 1920 Shenandoah avenue, in 1914. The brewery was established in 1911. It was closed in 1924, several years after the advent of prohibition, and reopened in the spring of 1933, upon the legalization of 3.2 beer. At the latter time officers said the property was valued at $1,000,000 and that $100,000 had been spent in modernizing the plant to produce a maximum of 175,000 barrels of beer annually.

Mr. Griesedieck, a bachelor, is survived by a sister, Miss Frances Griesedieck, and a brother, Robert J., vice-president of the company, with whom he resided, and another brother, Edward J., 7155 Washington avenue, University City, secretary and general manager of the company.

The funeral will be held Friday morning, with burial in Calvary Cemetery.

MRS. ROOSEVELT AMUSED BY NEW PLAY 'FIRST LADY'

Says She Thinks Satire Is "Takeoff of Situations—Not People" in Washington.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt after attending the play, "First Lady" here last night, said she "recognized many funny little things" in the Washington political satire, but thought it was "a takeoff of situations—not people." That was her answer to friends who asked if Alice Roosevelt Longworth, Dolly Gann or any other high figures from capital life had been characterized in the comedy.

Theater-goers sitting near her in the fourth row whispered audible "identifications," but Mrs. Roosevelt said: "I think the authors picked out amusing incidents without stressing personalities." She raised an eyebrow in smiling recognition several times, however, at quips about the Washington scene.

The line, "It's all wrong letting a woman be first lady just because her husband is President," drew a hearty laugh from the President's wife, and so did the advice for managing a Washington reception: "Just remember to keep people moving—that's the secret of the whole thing."

The satire is about two rival hostesses in Washington, each of whom is seeking the presidential nomination for her husband.

MARK TWAIN STORIES RELATED AT DINNER

Daniel Carter Beard, Artist, and Others Tell Anecdotes About Humorist.

One story about Mark Twain led to another at the dinner at Hotel Jefferson last night with which the Mark Twain Memorial Association observed the one-hundredth anniversary of the author's birth at Florida, Mo., Nov. 30, 1835. The dinner was attended by 200 persons.

The succession of anecdotes was started by the toastmaster, Cyril Clemens, second cousin of the author and president of the association, which has begun a campaign to raise $30,000 for a monument to Mark Twain in St. Louis. Other tales were added by Daniel Carter Beard, artist, writer, and national commissioner of the Boy Scouts, who knew Twain for 20 years prior to Twain's death in 1910.

When Beard was drawing pictures for Cosmopolitan magazine, he related, Twain sent for him and asked if he would do the illustrations for "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court." His only further suggestion after Beard had agreed to make the drawings, was "I do wish you'd read the story before you begin to illustrate it."

"Can't Tell Truth While Alive."

On another occasion Beard read a manuscript which Twain had just completed. When Beard asked if he intended to publish it, the reply was "In that manuscript I told the truth. I won't publish it because a man can't tell the truth while he is alive."

Clemens related Mark Twain's reply to a friend who whispered, "You know, Andrew Carnegie's money is tainted!" "Well," the author answered, "Tain't yours, and tain't mine."

Once, not many years before his death, Twain returned to Hannibal for a visit. Well-to-do citizens of the town urged him to stop with them at their homes while he was in town, but he declined, although the hotel accommodations were bad. "I want to be downtown where all my friends, drunk or sober, can be free to drop in whenever they want," he explained.

Movies of Author Shown.

Motion pictures made of Twain and his family in 1908, lent for the dinner by President Nicholas Murray Butler of Columbia University, were shown at the conclusion of the program. The white-haired humorist was seen drinking tea and walking briskly in front of his last home which he called "Innocents at Home" and later, "Stormfield," in Redding, Conn.

Others who spoke at the dinner were Frederick C. Hibbard, Chicago sculptor who made the statues of Mark Twain and his most familiar fiction characters, Tom Sawyer and Huck Finn, which were erected at Hannibal; City Counselor Charles M. Hay, Isaac A. Hedges, chairman of the memorial fund committee; Casper Yost and Irving Brant, editors, respectively, of the editorial pages of the Globe-Democrat and the Star-Times.

A poem, "Mark Twain," by the late Clark McAdams, contributing editor of the Post-Dispatch, and communications to the association from President Roosevelt, Premier Mussolini, Helen Keller, and others were read.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Gloris Jackson, 13-year-old school girl, was fatally injured last night by a man who lured her in a hallway, criminally attacked her and shoved her from a second-story window to the back yard of an apartment house. Hurt in Fall Sunday, Dies.

Thomas Holden, 60 years old, who resided at the Ozanam Shelter, 3225 Montgomery street, died at City Hospital yesterday of a fractured skull he suffered last Sunday when he fell and struck his head on the curbing in the 2300 block of St. Louis avenue.

DR. M'BRIDE SAYS WETS PROVE CASE FOR PROHIBITION

General Superintendent Tells Anti-Saloon Delegates Last Two Years Were Blackest of All.

Resolving itself into a workers' conference, the national convention of the Anti-Saloon League of America, at Hotel Statler, took up today the details of local organization in the campaign to restore prohibition.

They were spurred by the speech last night of the Rev. Dr. Francis Scott McBride, general superintendent of the League, who urged them to go "straight ahead, full speed" in a new advance against alcohol.

Dr. Ira Landrith of Winona Lake, Ind., field lecturer of the league, urged the organization to conduct "a steady and persistent campaign of free speech for national sobriety, no matter whose ill-gotten gains or whose political parties or partisans may suffer." He asserted that sincere opponents of prohibition should go dry on observing that promises of the wets were false. Only those favorable to the dry cause should be elected to office "from the county hall to the United States Senate and from the courthouse to the White House," he declared.

"Ten Nights in a Barroom."

The gathering which last night saw the old temperance play, "Ten Nights in a Barroom," in sound movies, watched today a one-act play with amateur actors, "Death Takes the Wheel," written by George Y. Hammond, state superintendent of the League for California. This depicted the trial and conviction of a drunken automobile driver, charged with manslaughter, with the jury recommending mercy on the theory the state was responsible because it legalized the sale of liquor.

Dr. McBride declared, in his address, that prohibition would return "sooner than any of us thought, and when it is back it will be stronger than it has ever been, with more people back of it than ever." The last two years under repeal produced the "blackest conditions" since the wet-dry struggle began a century ago, he continued, saying the wets had furnished 10 reasons "why repeal has failed and why prohibition is the only sure solution of the alcoholic liquor problem."

Outline of Reasons.

These reasons he outlined as follows:

No promise of the wets to regulate liquor has been kept.

Drinking and drunkenness have increased decidedly everywhere, returning the "staggering drunk" to the streets.

Automobile and other accidents caused by alcohol "have made repeal the bloodiest period in our peace-time history."

The bootlegger has remained, furnishing more than half the hard liquor consumed since repeal.

The cocktail hour and other drinking schemes have proved "a greater menace to women and girls than the old-time saloon ever did to men and boys."

One distillery has advertised a "mild" whisky for women, saying as many women as men would be drinking whisky in 25 years, thereby breaking a wet "promise" to sell liquor only to those who would drink anyway.

Revenues from liquor are "less than the relief money squandered for liquor," but "repeal is improvishing both labor and the farmer," and the public must pay for damage and crime caused by alcohol.

Corruption has increased and "Legislatures have again become submissive to liquor."

The saloon has returned; "the better wets are moving toward the saloon as an improvement over present conditions."

Repeal has undermined the veracity of political leaders.

Says Roosevelt Broke Pledge.

Dr. McBride charged President Roosevelt with failure to keep a pledge against return of the saloon. He asserted that illuminated pictures of the President were to be seen over many bars throughout the country, because the wets were not ungrateful for their "breathing spell and their drinking spell," and over such a picture in a California saloon was the inscription, "Our Pal."

There was a decided increase in activity and interest among the drys, the General Superintendent reported, saying they were beginning to realize that liquor would not control itself or permit itself to be controlled without a struggle. He declared the drys could surrender, or get used to liquor, or fight.

"Prohibitoin," he concluded, "is worth fighting to get and keep. We must fight as we did before—by local option, by county option, by state-wide prohibition. Already we have started back that way. More than 1000 units voted dry in the recent elections. All county-wide and state-wide majorities for liquor were reduced. The people voted better. The local issue gets the voters out. It will help us to win by putting the people back of prohibition."

Roll Call of States.

The roll call of states for reports on the liquor situation was completed yesterday. A Nebraska leader said his state legalized whisky by repealing prohibition a year ago, but that only four cities and 31 smaller communities permitted sale of whisky by the drink, and Gov Roy L. Cochran had made liquor licensing "as good as a bad business could be." Tennessee reported "the greatest victory of a quarter of a century" in preventing repeal of state prohibition laws, and promised that the next election would keep the Legislature and Governor's office dry. A Pennsylvania leader said the forces of righteousness had received less consideration at the last legislative session than at any time in the generation.

O. G. Christgau of Washington, who has been assistant general superintendent and convention manager of the league, was promoted yesterday to associate general superintendent, succeeding the 80-year-old founder of the league, the Rev. Dr. Howard H. Russell of Westerville, O.

The convention will close with a banquet tonight, at which addresses will be delivered by Bishop H. M. Du Bose, Nashville, Tenn.; Mrs. Nelle Burger, State president of the W. C. T. U., Springfield, Mo.; "Pussyfoot" Johnson, noted dry campaigner, McDonough, N. Y.; Gus O. Nations, St. Louis lawyer, who had a spectacular career in charge of prohibition enforcement here in 1922-24; Bishop Charles L. Mead, Kansas City, and Mrs. Jeannette H. Mann, State president of the W. C. T. U., Des Moines, Ia.

NANKING GENERAL IN NORTH BALKS AT JAPANESE CONTROL

"Taking No Orders From Foreign Power"; Expects Reforms to Go in Effect.

By the Associated Press.

PEIPING, Dec. 4. — Gen Sung Cheh-yuan, commander of the Peiping-Tientsin garrison, told correspondents today he was "taking no orders from any foreign power."

He added that he expected the reforms advocated from North China by Gen. Ho Ying-chin, War Minister of the Central Government at Nanking, to become effective in "the very near future."

Gen. Ho is in Peiping studying the administrative needs of North China and conferring with Gen. Kenji Doihara, Japanese commander.

Officials expressed the opinion the new five-province council for North China would be patterned after the semi-independent Mongolian political council, which has been operating successfully in inner Mongolia for two years. This council is credited with checking alleged efforts for the Japanese annexation of Mongolia to Manchoukuo.

The presence of three Japanese airplanes in Peiping was officially explained as in celebration of the birth of the Japanese Prince.

HIGH SCHOOL BOY HELD FOR SHOOTING HIS SISTER

Surrenders to Police and Says He Fired Because Girl Quarreled With Mother.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Kan., Dec. 4. — Max Grauberger, 17 years old, a high school football player, was held today for shooting his sister, Margaret, 20, after a family quarrel last night. The girl, wounded in the jaw, is in a serious condition.

"I did it because she was always quarreling with mother," police quoted the boy as saying after he surrendered.

He emptied a six-shooter at the girl, one bullet taking effect, and then struck his sister with a milk bottle as she sought to disarm him. "Both Max and Margaret have hot tempers," said their mother, Mrs. Bertha Grauberger.

"Sis was sitting in a chair, leaning toward the radio and facing in my direction when I entered the door," the boy told police. "I just started shooting. She screamed and began running toward me. I emptied the revolver. She was not more than six or eight feet from me at any time. I guess I ran a mile after I left the house but it was cold and after walking back and forth awhile I lost my nerve and returned to the house to find everybody gone. Then I called the police."

DOCTOR TESTIFIES HULLVERSON HAD HIM ALTER REPORT

Says Lawyer Asked Him to Omit Postscript About Condition of Client, and He Did.

CALLED FACTS IN CASE INCONSISTENT

State of Man's Health Not in Keeping With Term of Employment, He Said in Original Note.

Dr. John S. Young, X-ray specialist, completed his testimony today, the twelfth day of the hearing of the disbarment suit against Everett Hullverson and three associate lawyers, before John S. Farrington, Special Commissioner for the Supreme Court, in the Civil Courts Building.

His final statement related to one case in which, making a report to Hullverson on his examination of a sand company employe, he added a postscript. The "p. s." said the man's condition did not appear to be in keeping with the fact that he had worked but eight weeks for the company.

He said Hullverson wrote to him, saying that, as he often used the physicians' reports in making settlements, he would like to have Dr. Young rewrite this particular report, omitting the "p. s." Dr. Young said he did this, and sent Hullverson the new copy.

Hullverson, questioning Dr. Young brought out that the X-ray showed existence of pneumoconiosis, a milder ailment similar to silicosis. In his questioning of Dr. Young yesterday, Hullverson asked if he had ever requested the physician to alter or modify any finding. In his reply, Dr. Young mentioned the case of the postscript.

Dropped Suit to Get Job Back.

Henry Haynes of Cape Girardeau, an employe of the Marquette Cement Manufacturing Co. there, was a witness today. His testimony was similar to that of several previous witnesses. He said he was solicited by Eugene J. Schmick, co-defendant in the present case, to file a suit against the company through Hullverson; that he did not believe he was ill at the time, but had a medical examination, the result of which he did not know; and that he dismissed his suit in order to get his job back.

Defense Attorney Patrick H. Cullen, cross-examining him, dwelt on dust conditions at the cement plant, asking if the dust did not "cover the roof like snow." The witness, testifying reluctantly, said there was a good deal of dust, and that employes were not required to wear masks.

The next witness, Sam Sullivan, an employe of the same cement company, testified that he never made a formal claim or authorized a suit against the company, but that Thomas Yow, a Cape Girardeau merchant, tried to persuade him to let Hullverson and Schmick handle a suit for him. He said two men, who said they were Hullverson and Schmick, called to see him, but that he rejected their proposal. He could not positively identify Hullverson and Schmick, in the courtroom, as the men who called on him.

"I notice you're coughing," Cullen said to the witness. "Did anybody tell you to?" "No," Sullivan said, "I have a cold." Some witnesses have testified that Hullverson told his clients to cough, as evidence of the effects of dust on their lungs.

Letter From Hullverson.

Joe Haynes of Cape Girardeau, brother of Henry Haynes and employed at the same plant most of the time for the last 12 years, testified that he was solicited by Schmick, signed a Hullverson contract, and that an X-ray examination was made. He decided to withdraw his suit, and when he wrote telling Hullverson of his decision, in September, 1934, he got a letter signed by Hullverson, from which he read:

"I understand the company promised you your job back. I suggest you ask the company what they are going to do for you when you are dying of tuberculosis. Your lungs show a serious condition. If you want to sacrifice yourself and your family on the company's promise, it is all right with me."

Haynes said he was not aware of having any lung trouble. The morning session ended with his direct testimony.

Withdrew His Suit.

Leslie Church of Crystal City, employed for seven years as a machinist by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Co., testified that he asked Attorney Schmick to call and see him as to an injury to one of his eyes, sustained at the plant. He said Schmick told him the injury was covered by the workmen's compensation law, and that a lawyer was not needed in that matter. But, he said, Schmick then asked him about his work in the glass plant, and asked him to go to St. Louis for a medical examination "for silicosis or something." He said Schmick told him the trip and the examination would cost him nothing.

Church said he went to St. Louis, took the medical test, and heard a physician say there was nothing wrong with him. He signed a card which he supposed related to the examination, but which proved to be a contract employing Hullverson to file suit for him. The first he knew of the suit, he said, was when a foreman at the plant told him it had been filed. He withdrew the suit.

Witness Whose Hobby Is Silicosis

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

Hullverson Questions Witness on History of Dust Diseases.

Hullverson took personal charge of questioning at yesterday afternoon's session. With the help of the witness, Dr. Young, he undertook to tell the story of dust through the ages.

Dust, he brought out with Dr. Young's help, has been affecting human lungs from such early times that its ravages were related by Hippocrates, father of medicine, in the fifth century before Christ. Agricola, Lucretius and Pliny the elder wrote on the same theme, and modern medical writers have carried on the subject in treatises printed by the United States Government and by a large insurance company, on "Silicosis."

Silicosis has been the ground of the several hundred damage suits filed by Hullverson on behalf of former employes of mining, sand and quarry companies in counties near St. Louis. The Bar Committee of the Eighth (St. Louis) Judicial Circuit charges Hullverson, Robert L. Pribble, Schmick and Francis O. Curran with unprofessional and unbecoming conduct in handling the silicocis suits; with soliciting cases through "runners,"

Put in EVEREADY PRESTONE
THE GUARANTEED ANTI-FREEZE

Just one shot of Eveready Prestone will protect your car against both freeze-up and rust for the entire winter. Guaranteed. Won't boil off. No odor.

DON'T RISK a freeze-up... a frozen radiator or a bill for a cracked water-jacket. Drive in to your garage or service station today and have Eveready Prestone put in the radiator. Eveready Prestone is guaranteed to give you all-winter protection. It is ALL anti-freeze—concentrated. The chart at right shows you the exact amount your car will need for all-winter protection against both freeze-up and rust. Don't confuse Eveready Prestone with any product containing alcohol or glycerine.

Ask your dealer this one question

More than 100 brands of anti-freeze are being marketed under various names. Most of them are based on alcohol, and because many are not plainly labeled it is easy to become confused. You may buy an alcohol anti-freeze when you think you are buying an all-winter product. Just ask your dealer this simple question about any anti-freeze you are considering buying: "How much of this product is alcohol?" That is important, for alcohol, no matter how disguised or what it is called, is subject to evaporation, leaving you without adequate protection.

Your dealer will tell you that Eveready Prestone contains no glycerine, no alcohol... and that it will not boil off or evaporate. Back of every drop of Eveready Prestone is the following guarantee... your definite assurance of all-winter protection.

A DEFINITE GUARANTEE

"National Carbon Company, Inc., specifically guarantees that Eveready Prestone, if used according to printed directions, in normal water cooling systems, will protect the cooling system of your car against freezing and clogging from rust formations for a full winter, also that it will not boil away, will not cause damage to car finish, or to the metal or rubber parts of the cooling system, and that it will not leak out of a cooling system tight enough to hold water."

FIND YOUR CAR ON THIS CHART

IMPORTANT! The price per gallon of an anti-freeze means nothing unless you know how many gallons you will need during the entire winter. You can't get that information on a boil-away anti-freeze. But you can get it for Eveready Prestone... and here it is. See how reasonably you can get two-way protection all winter long against both freeze-up and rust with one shot of Eveready Prestone—one shot because it won't boil off, no matter how warm the weather gets between the cold snaps. If your car isn't on this chart, your dealer has a chart showing all cars; and amounts needed for temperatures to 62° below zero.

DOCTOR TESTIFIES HULLVERSON HAD HIM ALTER REPORT

splitting fees with non-lawyers and paying medical and other expenses of clients; and with instructing witnesses to feign illness and give false testimony.

A chief point in Hullverson's defense is the contention that silicosis was a major hazard of the employes, and that very little was done by the employers for their protection.

Dr. Young, former director of the X-ray department of Missouri Baptist Hospital, has stated that he resigned his position by request of the superintendent, and that he believed the request was due to pressure from employers who had been sued. At the hospital he X-rayed a large number of Hullverson's clients, and after he left the hospital he continued to do this work for Hullverson. He has testified in a number of silicosis damage suits, for the plaintiffs.

He testified yesterday, in his direct examination by George Wise of the Bar Committee, that he examined 900 to 1200 persons sent to him by Hullverson, and that of these, 17 to 25 per cent were shown by X-ray tests to be disabled "to an extent which would interfere with their routine lives." He said he had "hobbied" in silicosis, and had records of 4000 cases, including those sent him by Hullverson.

"Silicosis," he testified, "is a condition of the lungs induced by inhalation of dust containing silica. Silica is one of the hardest of rocks, and silica dust, taken into the lungs, makes a scar. Shortness of breath is an early symptom. The silicosis sufferer may appear normal, and may be so, except for this shortness of breath.

"In St. Louis we are all exposed to this hazard, but Mr. Hullverson's clients came from occupations where they were peculiarly exposed to it. The incidence of such cases is high in the silica mineral region, and is lower in lead mining and cement districts."

Wrote to Hullverson.

Dr. Young said a number of silicosis patients were getting free clinical treatment at Missouri Baptist Hospital before he learned that a lawyer was representing them. When he heard about the lawyer, he said, he made a request that the lawyer pay for the examinations made by his department.

"I wrote to Hullverson," he said; "and said he should take care of these bills, and he agreed. I made a mistake in writing; the superintendent of the hospital should have written."

He said a rate of $20 a case was agreed on, and that he handled 100 or more cases for Hullverson before meeting him. After leaving the hospital in October, 1933, Dr. Young said, he made a new arrangement on a basis of $25 a case, 40 per cent down and the balance when a case was disposed of, regardless of the outcome.

Hullverson, taking charge of the cross-examination, laid the historic background, and proceeded with an argument, in question form, to show that employers should have been aware of the harmful effects of dust, and should have done more to guard workers against it.

FARLEY DENIES DEMOCRATS HAVE CHOSEN PHILADELPHIA

Highest Bidder Probably Will Get Convention, He Says; Committee to Meet Jan. 7 or 8.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Chairman James A. Farley said today the Democratic National Committee probably would meet Jan. 7 or 8 to select the 1936 convention city.

Farley asserted President Roosevelt would carry as many states next year as he did in 1932, and said there was no doubt about the renomination of Vice-President Garner.

The national chairman said the 1936 convention probably would go "to the highest bidder," provided the city offering the most money had ample facilities to take care of the crowd and the convention.

Questioned about reports that Philadelphia had been virtually selected, Farley denied this, but said he understood it would "make a real bid."

"Politically, it doesn't make any difference where it goes," he said.

Farley said the Literary Digest poll was "inaccurate for the Western States," that Roosevelt would carry Kansas against Gov. Landon, that Senator Borah of Idaho won't be nominated by the Republicans, that former President Hoover is a candidate but "is not getting anywhere," and that the next Democratic convention would "just be a nice time," without any serious fights.

PRIESTS APPARENTLY SAFE

Believed to Have Escaped From Chinese Communists.

UNION CITY, N. J., Dec. 4.—Belief that Passionists priests in Hunan Province escaped safely to the hills during recent advances of Chinese Communists is expressed in a cable received by St. Michael's monastery.

The message was from the Rev. Quentin Olwell, C. P., stationed at Hankow. It said that Communists had swept through several more towns in Hunan, where Passionist priests are doing missionary work.

Varsity Theater Opens Tomorrow.

To End Annoying Cough, Mix This Recipe at Home

Big Saving! No Cooking! So Easy!

Here is the famous old recipe which millions of housewives have found to be the most dependable means of breaking up winter coughs. It takes but a moment to prepare, and costs very little, but it positively has no equal for quick, effective relief.

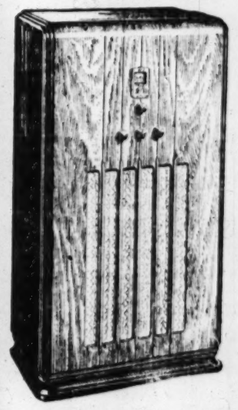

From any druggist, get 2½ ounces of Pinex. Pour this into a pint bottle and fill the bottle with granulated sugar syrup, made with 2 cups of sugar and one cup of water, stirred a few moments until dissolved. No cooking needed—it's so easy! Thus you make a full pint of better remedy than you could buy ready-made, and you get four times as much for your money. It never spoils and tastes fine.

This home mixture soothes the irritated throat membranes with surprising ease. It loosens the phlegm and eases the soreness in a way that is really astonishing.

Pinex is a concentrated compound of Norway Pine, famous for its quick effect in stopping coughs due to colds. Money refunded if it doesn't please you in every way.

DR. WALTER A. MAIER ON BIRTH CONTROL

Lutheran Leader Answers Advocates Who Closed Convention Yesterday.

The Five-State Regional Conference on Birth Control, which closed a two-day session Tuesday at Hotel Chase under auspices of the Maternal Health Association of St. Louis, resulted in attacks by representatives of both the Roman Catholic and Lutheran churches against doctrines promulgated at the conference.

Following a lecture by the Rev. Daniel A. Lord, S. J., delivered at St. Louis University Auditorium and presenting the Catholic viewpoint against birth control from the standpoint of economics, Dr. Walter A. Maier of Concordia Seminary gave out a statement reflecting the opposition of the Lutheran Church to birth control.

Dr. Maier declared that "the great body of Christians throughout the world are opposed to artificial birth control" and asserted this country is threatened with a decrease in population rather than an increase, as claimed by conference speakers. He quoted investigators for the Scripps Foundation for Research In Population Problems as noting a declining birth rate in the past five years and indicating the probability of "a stationary population" within two or three decades.

Restriction of parenthood to the wealthy, said Dr. Meier, would be "basically absurd, un-American and un-Christian." He mentionel national leaders risen from the ranks of the poor.

Small families as well as large sometimes become social liabilities, he said, while in many poor families there is "a rugged independence for which wealth can offer no compensation."

Birth control, he contended, tends toward immorality, encourages divorce, promotes an undesirable decrease in the population, notably "in those elements essential for proper national development. Nor is it justified Scripturally, Dr. Maier said, quoting the injunction to Noah and his sons to "be fruitful and mulitply and replenish the earth."

The final session of the conference Tuesday afternoon consisted of informal discussions of "Family Consultation Service," with speakers dwelling on economic and psychological problems of matrimony.

Dr. Val Satterfield, psychiatrist, pointed out that emotional and intellectual relationships are essentials to happy marriages. Dr. Hyman Meltzer of Washington University stressed the necessity of "personality adjustments." Harmony between different types in a family should be cultivated, he pointed out, making the aim of married life "a dynamic peace that makes for further and further understanding."

After the session delegates visited the clinic of the Maternal Health Association of Missouri at 4817A Delmar boulevard.

JUNK MAN WHO TOOK BOXES OFF MAIL BOX ARRESTED

Says He Thought Some One Had Thrown Them Away; Held on Theft Charge.

Michael Rolkiwski, elderly junk man, who pushes a cart around downtown streets and alleys poking into rubbish piles to salvage something worth while, thought he found it yesterday, when he took two of four wooden boxes from the top of a mail box at Sixth street and Locust street. They were filled with November statements from Thomas W. Garland, Inc., 410 North Sixth street, in envelopes mailed with postage stamps worth about $80.

Placing the boxes in his cart, Rolkowski took them to his shack near the foot of Biddle street, and came back for the other two boxes. He was leaving with them when a traffic patrolman asked him where he was going. "Home," replied Rolkowski. He was arrested and a Federal warrant issued charging him with theft of mail matter. The first two boxes were recovered. Rolkowski, jailed under $1500 bond, which he was unable to furnish, said he thought some one threw the boxes away.

COMMUNITY FUNDS IN U. S. RAISE MORE THAN LAST YEAR

Reports From 90 Cities Show 5 Pct. Increase; High Mark Set in 1931.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Cities with community chests set their goals 12 per cent higher this year than last and more than 90 reporting on their fall campaigns have raised 5 per cent more, Community Chests and Councils, Inc., reported last night.

Allen T. Burns, executive vice-president of the organization, said the record mark for community-chest subscriptions in the United States was set in 1931.

They fell away in 1932 and 1933, but maintained their level in 1934, he said. In this fall's campaign, Detroit went over the $2,000,000 mark; and Baltimore, Minneapolis and Washington went over the $1,000,000 figure, in each case increasing the amounts raised last year.

STRIKERS FIGHT POLICE TWICE IN DETROIT; 25 HURT

Bricks, Nightsticks, Tear Gas Used—Clashes at Motor Products Plant Follow Bar on Picketing.

MARCH OF 500 LED TO FIRST OUTBREAK

Conciliator Left Hour Before—Change From Piece Work to Day Wage, Caused Walkout.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Dec. 4.—Violence broke out anew today at the Motor Products Corporation plant, where 21 persons were injured last night, and two policemen and two strikers were added to the list of casualties.

Carrying out police orders forbidding the formation of picket lines, more than 60 policemen drove back 75 strikers who attempted to resume picketing of the plant entrance.

Two policemen were struck by flying bricks. Two strikers were hit by police night sticks as they retreated to their headquarters, less than a block from the entrance gate to the plant.

One striker was taken to a police station for questioning today. Eleven of the strikers were detained last night.

J. D. Daylor, chairman of the strike committee, said "a policeman tried to take two men out of the picket line and through the plant gate. The other pickets surged after them. After that the trouble started."

An hour after today's disorder started, the strikers were congregated in the headquarters of the Automotive Industrial Workers' Association under close police surveillance.

After Conciliator Left.

Last night's violence occurred less than an hour after the departure from the city of Robert Mythen, Federal conciliator. He said he had made every effort to settle the dispute. Company officers declined to discuss the situation, he reported, and said they referred him to an announcement made Nov. 21 in which they declared no strike existed at the plant.

Mythen came here last week, but in his statement last night, said he was informed that "the plant will continue to be operated, and workers will be given protection."

The Nov. 21 statement said that jobs vacated by workers of the independent group had been filled by new employes and no strike existed in the plant.

Francis J. Dillon, American Federation of Labor organizer in the industry and president of the United Automobile Workers of America, A. F. of L. sponsored, announced at the time the strike was called his local would not participate.

Speakers at the meeting last night declared the Federal conciliator had been given the "run around" by the company.

The First Clash.

The first outbreak followed the march of 500 workers on the plant after a meeting sponsored by the Workers' Association, an independent organization which called a strike in the plant several weeks ago. Union officers said the strike was called after company officers ordered a change from piece work to a day wage basis of pay.

Meeting at Germania Hall, near the plant, the workers first heard an address by Matthew Smith, secretary of the Mechanics Educational Society, which has been associated with the industrial association in a unionization program in the industry, and then heeded the advice of strike leaders to march on the plant. Police estimated 2000 men attended the meeting.

Police and company guards at the plant said they threw tear gas bombs when it appeared the marchers would storm the gates. Driven back by the fumes, the strikers gathered bricks and attacked. Windows were broken in the plant employment office and two officers were injured, but police night sticks caused most of the injuries, with 18 of the workers receiving treatment at a hospital. Two suffered broken arms, and the remainder had head injuries. About 50 affected by gas received treatment.

Lieut. Anton Sorenson, in charge of the police riot detail of 200, was struck in the back by a brick, and Patrolman Bernard Clark reported he was beaten by the strikers when he went to their headquarters a block away to disperse a crowd there. Mrs. Emma Krueger was injured when her automobile was overturned by the workers as she sought to force her way through the lines.

Lieut. Sorenson said police fired several shots in the air in dispersing the men.

ONLY TWO EASTERN PLAYERS NAMED ON ALL-AMERICA TEAM

FAR WEST AND MIDWEST EACH GET 3 PLACES ON THE ELEVEN

By Davis J. Walsh.

(Copyright, 1935.)

NEW YORK, Dec. 4. — Based upon the findings of staff men and qualified observers in all sections of the country, the International News Service today makes public its All-America football team for the season of 1935, as follows:

Position. Player. College.
End—Tinsley — — Louisiana State
Tackle—Smith — — — Minnesota
Guard—Weller — — — —Princeton
Center—Lester — Texas Christian
Guard—Michaels — — —Villanova
Tackle—Widseth — — —Minnesota
End—Moscrip — — — —Stanford
Quarterback—Smith — — Alabama
Halfback—Berwanger — — Chicago
Halfback—Wilson — So. Methodist
Fullback—Grayson — — —Stanford

Thus, we are paying off on first money only and, in some cases, the decisions may seem to have been drawn a little fine. In fact, not more than four choices—Berwanger, Wilson, either Widseth or Smith and Weller—seem to need no defense whatever. They belong so definitely as to defy argument.

Where controversy begins, perhaps, is in awarding a team like Princeton only one place and Minnesota two. But this pair were great because they were teams, with one individual practically as good as another. Many selectors are listing Lea of Princeton, at end but I'm assuming the responsibility of dropping him. I've seen the lad. He's all right—and that's about all.

Grayson Better Than Ever.

It was a struggle to leave Biese, of Minnesota, out of the backfield. But Grayson is better now than at any time in three years—and in 1933 and 1934, this was good enough. Besides, Widseth and Smith, almost equally adept, probably had more to do with Minnesota's success than any other single factor. They got some robust competition for their places, at that, from a field of excellent tackles, including Sarno, of Fordham, and Patterson, of Auburn.

Another Auburn man, Gilbert, put on a spirited bid for the center position, closely pressed by Muller, Stanford; Herwig, California; Jorgensen, St. Mary's, and Jones, Ohio State, among others. Personally, I liked that Cullinan, of Princeton, but yielded to insistent pressure on Lester, so many insisting that he is the finest thing that has happened in years.

Daughters, of Holy Cross, was something that Tinsley, L. S. U. apparently isn't—an inspired pass catcher. But Tinsley topped him in other departments, according to unbiased advices. Train, of Yale, and Wendt of Ohio State, were good men in a field of many. But Moscrip did everything they did—and then won three important games with field goals. It is almost unfair to cite a few isolated cases like these.

Michaels on Obscure Team.

That's frankly an apology for those who may be slighted. For the remaining team members, not yet mentioned, we feel that apologies would be strictly superfluous. Michaels has been a great man on a more or less obscure team for three years. He's therefore, due.

As for Riley Smith of Alabama, there seems no limit to his versatility. Runner, passer, kicker, blocker—and thinker. As a quarterback, they call him "the coach on the playing field." It appears that he can do everything with a football, except masticate it.

Incidentally, the sections seem to be represented proportionately enough, with the East, South, Far West and Southwest getting two places each and the Middlewest—rightfully, it seems—getting three.

Some of those—most certainly, not all—who were given consideration are:

ON TO MIAMI!—University City Squad Heading Southward

Here are the members of the University City football squad which, under the direction of Coach "Stub" Muhl, will depart for Miami, Fla., where they will play the "Stingarees" of Miami High School, next Saturday: Left to right, first row—Eugene Siempelkamp, end; John Braznell, tackle; Russell Dorn, guard; John Miravalle, center; Harvey Fisher, guard; Eugene Blades, tackle; Dick Root, end. Second row—Lawrence Jordan, halfback; Howard Drozda, halfback; Desmond Lee, tackle; Doug Pollock, quarterback; Bill Morgan, guard, and Walter Whitson, end. Third row—Bud Lewis, quarterback; Louis Kaufman, halfback; Leo Shakofsky, halfback; Jack Devor, fullback; Bill Chapman, guard, and Pat Moore, end.

Lee, Injured End, May Be Out of University City's Lineup in Florida Contest

By Harold Tuthill.

Bound for Miami, Fla., a squad of University City Indians, 19 in number, departed from Union Station this afternoon at 4:15 o'clock for an intersectional football game Saturday afternoon. The game will start at 2 o'clock St. Louis time.

The last strenuous workout for the Indians before they reach Miami Friday was given them last night by Coach Stub Muhl and his assistant, Henry E. Schemmer. Coach Muhl felt that it was too cold for his boys to perspire freely, so he concluded the practice with exercises in the gymnasium.

With the exception of Desmond Lee, who is nursing a severe charley-horse, the squad is in top condition. Even Leo Shakofsy and Doug Pollock have recovered from injured shoulders and will be in the starting lineup against the Stingarees.

If Lee cannot play right end, either Dick Root or Pat Moore will start at the position, Muhl said. Eugene Siempelkamp will be on the other end. Eugene Blades and John Braznell will be the tackles. Harvey Fisher and Russell Dorn, the guards; John Miravalle, center; Pollock, quarter; Shakofsky and Kaufman, halbacks, and Jack Devor, fullback.

Two Triple Threat Players.

Reserves making the trip are Howard Drozda and Bud Lewis, quarterbacks; Walter Whitson, end; Bill Morgan and Bill Chapman, guards, and Lawrence Jordan, halfback.

With two good triple-threat players in the backfield—Leo Shakofsky and Doug Pollock—the Indians' attack is fairly well diversified. They gain ground either by passing or running, which explains to a large extent the fact that University City is undefeated in seven starts this season. Miami, of course, has a good team, but it has been defeated twice in as many games as University City has played.

Coach Muhl naturally wants a victory, but even if his boys don't win, they will have a good time. Sunday will be spent in seeing as much of Florida as they can in as many ways as they can or in any manner as they wish. Several of the parents will travel with the squad, providing adequate supervision for the players. Coach Muhl himself wants to go deep-sea fishing.

Travel in Day Coaches.

In order to keep expenses down to a minimum, the squad will travel in day coaches. A huge bundle of slats will be taken along, so that when it comes time to retire the boys can push back the chairs, lay the slats from one seat to another, throw mattresses over the construction and then pile in. That way, according to Muhl, every boy gets a bed the size of a double bed. Just the same, the boys will enjoy sleeping in their Miami hotel rooms when they get there.

After a holiday Sunday, the boys will leave Miami at 11 o'clock Monday morning and arrive in St. Louis next Wednesday.

Texas Christian To Play L. S. U. in Sugar Bowl Game

NEW ORLEANS, Dec. 4.—Football teams of Louisiana State and Texas Christian University will match strength in the Sugar bowl classic here New Year's day.

The selection of L. S. U., Southeastern Conference champion, and T. C. U., runner-up for the Southwestern championship, was announced last night by Warren Miller, president of the Mid-Winter Sports Association, which sponsors the game.

Although both teams have lost one game each, they have been rated among the "first five" squads of the country.

L. S. U. dropped the season's opener to Rice, 10 to 7, and T. C. U. lost last Saturday to Southern Methodist University, 20 to 14, in a thriller which brought S. M. U. an invitation to play in the Rose Bowl game. In the first Sugar Bowl game, last year, Tulane triumphed over Temple, 20—14.

This year's game will pit two of the greatest passers in the country against each other—Abe Mickal of L. S. U. who spurned the late Huey Long's offer of a seat in the State Senate last year, and Sammy Baugh, accurate passing T. C. U. back.

T. C. U has played 11 games, one more than L. S. U., and was en route to California today for a game with Santa Clara Saturday to wind up the regular season.

On the record books, L. S. U. excels in defense and T. C. U. in offense L. S. U. held opponents to 38 points while scoring 211. Opponents scored 65 points on T. C. U. to 252 points scored against them.

Sixty-three entries have been received by Clarence Stein of the Saratoga Recreation Alleys for the semi-annual six-game handicap sweepstakes to be bowled tomorrow, Friday, Saturday and Sunday.

This event drew 106 entries last season, and with the advance entry a new record entry will undoubtedly be made. "Red" Haar of the Century team won last season's event with a score of 1339, and has again filed his entry.

Entry fee, including bowling, is $2. Each entrant may bowl two times, but no more than twice. Phone entries to C. R. Stein, HIland 9633.

CENTRAL FIVE WINS FROM McBRIDE, 10-9

"Sale of Browns Is News to Me," Von Weise Says

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

MONTCLAIR, N. J., Dec. 4.

THOUGH reports from St. Louis put the sale of the St. Louis Browns to a group of business men headed by George Sisler within a few weeks in the "sure thing" class, Louis B. von Weise, president of the club, today disavowed any knowledge of the transaction.

"It's news to me," he said at his home here.

"Of course," he admitted, "the club is for sale. If that 'group of men' offers us a price we think enough, we probably would sell. In the meantime, I am going ahead with the club's business as before."

FAUROT TO GET NEW CONTRACT AT MISSOURI U.

By the Associated Press.

COLUMBIA, Mo., Dec. 4. — Renewal of the contracts of Don Faurot and his University of Missouri coaching staff will probably be favored by the Athletic Advisory Committee, Chairman J. Harrison Brown said last night.

"I am well satisfied with the football situation," Brown said, "and letters I have received from other members of the committee indicate they feel the same way."

The Advisory Committee will meet here tomorrow, simultaneously with a conference of the University Committee on Intercollegiate Athletics. The coaches' contracts expire Jan. 1.

The general feeling in sports circles here is that both committees will recommend to the board of curators retention of the present coaching staff intact.

ED HAVERSTICK AND PRESLEY EDWARDS WIN IN SQUASH RACQUETS

Edward Haverstick and Presley W. Edwards, only scratch entrants in the University Club's handicap squash racquets tournament, are still in the thick of the fight after victories in the first round.

Haverstick won from Austin Leland, with a five handicap, 16-14, 16-14, 15-10, and Edwards defeated Whipple Van Ness Jones, also playing with a five handicap, 18-17, 17-14, 11-15, 12-15, 15-11.

First-round championship results:

George Lane, handicap 5, defeated Harry Langenberg, 3, 18-15, 17-14, 15-12; Preslet Edwards, 0, defeated Whipple Van Ness Jones, 5, 18-17, 17-14, 11-15, 12-15, 15-11; Edward Haverstick, 0, defeated Austin Leland, 5, 16-14, 16-14, 15-10; Charles Fox, 2, defeated Thurston Pettus, 3, 12-15, 15-8, 15-10, 15-8; Isaac Orr, 2, defeated Robert Semple, 5, 15-12, 15-8, 12-15, 6-15, 15-12.

OKLAHOMA SOONERS HAVE RECORD YEAR IN FOOTBALL ATTENDANCE

By the Associated Press.

NORMAN, Ok., Dec. 4. — More fans attended football games at the University of Oklahoma this season than in any previous season in university history, King G. Price, assistant director of athletics, announced yesterday.

Price said 52,925 tickets were sold for the five 1935 home games, surpassing the previous record of 52,286, set in 1933. Total attendance in 1934 was 46,310.

WOMAN FIRST IN FINAL FOOTBALL SCORES TEST, 11 OF 15 WINNERS

Entrants in the Post-Dispatch's last Football Knowledge Test of the season, based on 15 games of last week-end, had a hard time trying to pick winners.

Twenty-eight entrants in the test selected 11 out of 15 winners. This was the best mark reached. Then followed 132 participants who named 10 out of 15.

Awarding of prizes, as in previous weeks, was made on the basis of the most nearly correct scores. On this basis, 22 contestants were selected from the 132 who had 10-5 records, for the minor $1 prizes.

Three tie games upset the selectors' apple carts—Kansas-Missouri, Pitt-Carnegie Tech and St. Marys-Washington State. Other games of the upset variety included Vanderbilt-Alabama, Georgia Tech-Georgia and Mississippi-Mississippi State. Arkansas' victory over Tulsa was also a mild upset. Still further, while S. M. U.'s victory over T. C. U. could not be classified as an upset, plenty of contestants picked T. C. U. to win.

The last week was, all things considered, the toughest week of a tough season for football prophets.

DONELLI, STAR OF HEIDELBERG FORWARD LINE, RATED HIGHLY

By Dent McSkimming

If Bert Patenaude, sharp-shooting forward of the Shamrock club, has a serious rival for the mythical title of greatest soccer center forward in the United States, that gentleman is Aldo "Buff" Donelli, who leads his Heidelberg club against the St. Louis team at Sportsman's Park, Sunday afternoon. Donelli was chosen by the United States Football Association for the center forward position in the U. S. team that played at Rome in June of 1934. Last season, when the New York Americans, under the leadership of Erno Schwarz, booked a series of games at Mexico City, Schwarz reached out to Pittsburgh and picked Donelli for his center forward, conceding thereby that he is a better man than he could get in the entire American Soccer League.

Billy Gonsalves, inside right of the Shamrock club, was with Donelli, Lehman, McLean and Nilsen in the team that played at Rome, and later played with him in Mexico, and it is Gonsalves who ranks Donelli next to Patenaude in all-round efficiency as a center forward. "Buff" is an American-born Italian boy, a former Duquesne University fullback, a fair baseball player and a first-rate allround athlete. He visited here with Heidelberg in the American Olympic soccer trial games of 1928 and returned in 1933 with Curry of Pittsburgh. Bill Lehman, manager of the Shamrocks, today pointed out that Donelli is a much more versatile player following his experience in Europe and Mexico. "I consider him 50 per cent more dangerous now than he was when he came here with the Curry club," said Lehman.

Saved Club From Defeat.

It is worthy of note that Donelli saved his team from defeat in a national callenge club match last Sunday at Pittsburgh. The Anella club held an advantage of 2 goals to 1 as the second half started. Heidelberg had the better of the play on the snow-covered field, but could not get the ball into the net. Minutes flew and defeat seemed imminent. With just seven minutes remaining, Donelli spun around on a pass from Inside Left McCoskey and whipped a 12-yard drive into the goal to tie the score. Two extra periods were played, but neither side could tally. The United States Football Association Cup Committee consented to a postponement of the replay to Dec. 15 in order to permit the playing of Sunday's game here.

Detroit's leading club, Chrysler Motors, was held to a scoreless tie by Detroit Ramblers in a national cup game, Sunday. The Chryslers are tentatively booked to appear here Dec. 15.

To Referee 500th Match.

When Oscar Mossmann toots the starting whistle in the game between the Ben Millers and Burkes in the St. Louis Soccer League double-header at National Park, Sunday, he will be officiating his 500th match. In a career which started in Kaiserslautern, Germany, 15 years ago, Mossmann has been in charge of many international matches, league championships and exhibitions. He was president of the South Germany Referees' Association for several years.

He came to this country in December, 1928, and almost immediately became a referee in the St. Louis Soccer League. He has won recognition as one of the finest officials in America through his expert handling of national cup games, local league contests and intercity matches.

George Caraffi who played so effectively for Slavia of Cleveland here two weeks ago, scored one of the goals which enabled Graphite-Bronze team of Cleveland to defeat the Kickers Club of Cincinnati, 4 to 0, in a national challenge cup match at Cleveland, last Sunday. Plans of the Shamrock club contemplate a visit by Graphite-Bronze possibly during the Christmas holidays.

Ticket selling facilities will be increased for Sunday's game, it was announced today by Phil A. Riley, business manager of the Shamrocks. He says freezing weather makes for slow handling of small change, so will open another window or two.

Free Gate for Women?

A fan advocates the re-establishment of the free gate for ladies at Sportsman's Park, pointing out that they have helped greatly to build the popularity of ice hockey and college football.

It has been suggested to the Shamrock club that they admit the players of the Community Center and Parochial School leagues (all boys under 18 years) to their games. By studying the play of experts, the youngsters will make rapid progress as players. Few can afford the boys' admission charge of 25 cents. There are about 50 teams of boy and junior classification playing in St. Louis.

Philadelphia's German-American club, holders of the American League championship, were held to a 2-2 draw by the Newark Irish-Americans last Sunday, in the only league game played. Wintry weather caused postponements.

WRAY'S COLUMN

The Annual Roundup.

THIS is the season for the annual round-up of "Who's Who" candidates, all-America teams and "most valuables" for the year. That enterprising seeker of facts and opinions for the Associated Press, Alan Gould, conforming to the prevailing trend, has submitted an interesting questionnaire which, no doubt, will result in some heated debates. He wants us to name:

1. Three outstanding performers among men, any sport, amateur or pro.
2. Three outstanding women performers.
3. Three outstanding teams.
4. Three leading comebacks.
5. Three standout surprise victories.
6. Principal trends in sport.
7. Oddest happening in competition.

* * *

The answers to some of these posers are easy enough; but others are certain to result in divided opinion, especially as to the second and third mention under each classification.

* * *

No Doubt About Joe.

THE standout under No. 1, Joe Louis, will probably be unanimous choice. His amazing record as a professional fighter, achieved at the age of 21 and within a few months after his graduation from amateur ranks, is without a parallel.

A score of knockouts and a total of 25 victories in a few months, without a defeat, make a record without equal in fistic annals. Even though it has not yet brought him a title, two former champions were among his victims.

But the next two candidates under this heading will have the experts guessing as between Lawson Little, "Little Slam" golf celebrity; Jesse Owens, who excelled or tied four world track records in one day; Fred Perry, world's greatest tennis player; Dizzy Dean, who led all the pitchers in baseball in games won, and other athletes who might be considered.

* * *

Helen Stephens a Standout.

ANSWERING No. 2, we note another standout in Helen Stephens, whose remarkable record in track and field sent her rocketing from an unknown smalltown schoolgirl into national athletic fame. Her surprising time in sprints makes her appear the greatest woman athlete of the day.

There will be some debate over the other women to catch the popular fancy, with Lenore Kight's great swimming feats, Helen Wills' victory at Wimbledon and other performances by representatives of the fair sex to consider.

* * *

Hand It to the Tigers.

AS TO the surprising team of the year, we'll have to pick the Tigers as the answer to that No. 3 query. Mickey Cochrane's team proved itself to be above all rivals in Organized Baseball by winning the league flag for the second successive time and then following through with a world championship victory.

The runner-up, at this time, appears to be the Southern Methodist University's football team. The Mustangs have won 11 games thus far with no defeats or ties, and will win their twelfth victory in their next start unless the heavens fall. S. M. U. will be a stout favorite over Stanford in the Rose Bowl contest.

Perhaps the most surprising team in the whole world, however, is that "Edmonton Grads" girl basketball team of Edmonton, Canada, which defeated with ease all teams on its schedule, including American and British rivals. This team has now dominated women's basketball internationally for several seasons and its continued success is without a parallel in any sport, minor or major. Ask our Shaw-Stephens girls.

* * *

Here's a Tough One.

ANSWERING No. 4, concerning outstanding comebacks, the decision is just a matter of personal opinion as to several candidates. This writer thinks that Lefty Grove, who was all washed up at 35 years of age, and last season won 20 games and lost 12, ranking right up with the great pitchers of the game.

But, also to be considered are Helen Wills, Wesley Ferrell, Tony Canzoneri, Max Schmeling and others. All of them pulled surprising returns to top form during the year now closing.

As to the three popeyed surprises of 1935 (question No. 5), you can't very well get away from Jim Braddock's amazing victory in the championship fight with Max Baer; Notre Dame's last-ditch, three-touchdown final quarter, that threw Ohio State for a defeat, ranks close to the top; and the surprising victory of Wilmer Allison over the great Fred Perry in the United States singles tennis championship final.

There will be numerous other shocks to public opinion submitted; but the world wasn't ever more surprised than when a has-been, light-heavyweight mastered the proud and sneering Max Baer to capture the world's heavyweight ring crown. That surely deserves first rating.

* * *

That Softball Trend.

AS to No. 6, the most notable trend in 1935 sports was toward softball, which has spread from coast to coast with amazing swiftness and is now causing baseball people to pause and consider if the new fad is not hacking at the very roots of Organized Baseball, by diverting youthful interest.

There is also to be considered a trend toward major league night baseball, which has yet to show real strength; and another strong trend toward pari-mutuel gambling that may give the entire country serious cause for worry, before long, unless it is modified. With many states now virtually partners in racing promotion there is not much likelihood of a change of legislative heart about racing.

As to No. 7, the final question as to the oddest happening in the sport world, last year. That took place in a exhibition baseball game on the Pacific Coast. After this contest the box score showed that Dizzy Dean was the losing pitcher on one team and the winning pitcher for the opposing nine!

Early in this game Dizzy was nicked for five hits and two runs in three innings, when he was removed and sent to the mound for the other club. His new team proceeded to pound the opposing pitcher and went on to victory over the nine for which Dizzy originally started.

Dizzy was therefore charged with the defeat of his first team. The pitcher whom he replaced on the winning club had only hurled three innings and was therefore below the limit required to obtain credit for a starting pitcher victory.

Cardinal Office Enjoys Day of Good Reports on Cripples

Several cripples of the Cardinal organization called in person or reported by mail at the office today and the news from all of them was good.

Johnny Mize, youthful first baseman, who underwent a serious operation recently, dropped in and said that he felt fine and the report on him was that he is in such good condition that he will likely start physical conditioning immediately.

A letter from Lyle Judy's mother stated that the second baseman had recovered from the injuries suffered in an automobile accident and felt no ill effects whatsoever.

Pat Ankenman, pint-size shortstop, who starred with the Columbus club during the last season and is counted upon as an infield reserve for the Cardinals, called to say that an injury which had affected a foot was coming along nicely and that he expected to be completely cured shortly.

WICHITA, Kan., Dec. 4.—Mike Goodman, player-manager of the Wichita Skyhawks, was up bright and early this morning to assemble the remnants of his "freshman" team, torn to shreds by the fast, clever passing attack of the St. Louis Flyers in an American Hockey Association game here last night. The league leading Flyers easily made away with the contest, 6 to 1, for their sixth victory of the season.

The superiority of the Flyers became apparent before the game was two minutes old. Wichita's team, recruited largely from the amateur ranks, was unable to solve the St. Louis drive and Goalie Paul Goodman was one of the busiest players in the game. He was bombarded almost constantly from far and near throughout the entire first two periods and except for some sterling goal tending, the Flyers might have scored an even more decisive victory.

Wichita threatened only once in the first period and a faulty pass in front of the net cost what appeared to have been an easy chance to score. From then on until the last period, the Skyhawks dogged the puck and the defense played far out to force St. Louis into long range shooting.

Oddson Gets First Goal.

Oddson put St. Louis out in front in less than two minutes after the game started, scoring on a pass from Matte. Purpur counted the second score, skating through the Wichita defense to sink the puck unassisted. Near the close of the opening period, Burmister grabbed a pass from Palangio and scored in a wild battle in the net, the puck flying over Goodman's prostate form and bounding out again.

The score brought a storm of protest from Wichita players who contended that it had not been made.

Oddson counted his second score of the game in the second period with the aid of McLeod, and two minutes later, Teel, McPherson and Paddon drove the length of the rink to outmaneuver Goalie Goodman and score again, Teel getting credit for the tally.

The final St. Louis score came out a fluke play. Oddson looped a shot from wing position, the puck sailing wide. Goalie Goodman moved out of position to knock it out of danger but deflected it to Breckheimer, who pushed it into the unguarded net.

Wichita Finally Scores.

Wichita took command of the game for a few minutes of the final period and scored near the close Erickson, DeLeeuw and Mike Goodman picked the puck out of a vicious scrimmage and drew Goalie Murray out of position for the harmless score.

Murray was credited with only two stops in the first period, seven in the second and five in the third, indicating the strong St. Louis defense.

Saints Rout Greyhounds.

By the Associated Press.

KANSAS CITY, Dec. 4. — The St. Paul Saints opened their famous attack on the Kansas City Greyhounds to win 5-2 in their American Association hockey game here last night.

The Saints alternated two fast forward walls, one consisting of the Hansom brothers, Oscar, Emil and Emory, of which Oscar was the star, scoring two unassisted goals. Virgil Johnson equalled Oscar's mark, however, scoring without assistance in the second and third frames.

Dahlstrom scored the other Saint tally, taking a pass from H. Johnson.

Taylor scored first for Kansas City in the early moments of the second period, taking his own rebound and beating Almquist at the net. Brink took a pass from Ahlin for Kansas City's other score.

Ready to Settle Argument Started in Amateur Ranks

OTIS THOMAS (left) and IRWIN STRIEBEL, who will meet in the feature bout of the professional boxing show at the Coliseum tonight. Striebel was caught by the camera while carrying on at his work as a grocer's cle rk.

Otis Thomas, Undefeated in Pro Ranks, Meets Striebel In Coliseum Ring Tonight

By W. J. McGoogan.

An echo of the National A. A. U. boxing tournament here last spring will be heard tonight at the Coliseum when Irwin Striebel, South Side butcher boy, meets Otis Thomas, well-built Chicago Negro, in the eight-round main event of Solly Kessler's show.

Striebel lost a three-round deci- sion to Thomas in the semifinals of the heavyweight division of the amateur tournament and precipi- tated an argument which lasted far into the night, in fact, all the next day and into the next night.

Ringsiders were of the opinion that Striebel had won the match and were highly incensed when the tabulations of the officials' cards showed Thomas the victor.

Then Thomas went into the final and lost to Louis Nova of San Francisco in the title match which most everyone thought Thomas had won.

Since the tournament both Strie- bel and Thomas have turned pro- fessional and have been successful. Thomas has not lost a pro fight and the only one to gain a tie with him was Adolph Wiater, Chicago heavyweight, who Joe Louis de- clared gave him his hardest profes- sional fight.

Big Weight Difference.

Thomas was a southpaw when he was an amateur but his trainers have worked on him to change his stance to that of a righthander. He has increased his weight to about 208 pounds now, while Striebel like- ly will go into the ring weighing about 235 pounds.

Irwin has worked hard for the match because he knows it will be the toughest he has had in the money ranks and it is important that he win it if he can.

Supporting the main contest will be four other bouts totaling, with the main event, 34 rounds. The first battle is scheduled to start at 8:30 o'clock.

In the semi-finals two St. Louis featherweights, Elmer Savage and Merl Thompson, are to box eight rounds. Both are clever boxers with Savage possessing the better punch of the two.

Local Boys Against Visitors.

Ocie Merritt, south side feather- weight is scheduled for a six-round bout with Young Simington of Springfield, Mo., while Scrap Caster of Alton meets Joe La Pelle, Louis- ville featherweight, in six rounds and Babe Davis, St. Louis and Frank Smith, Fort Worth, Tex., heavyweights clash in another six- rounder.

Jimmy Webb, middleweight, has deserted the banner of the Kessler brothers and is boxing in Chicago under the direction of Benny Ray.

Harry Kessler said yesterday he had notified his lawyers to bring action to collect the percentage of Webb's earnings stipulated under the contract, 33 1-3 per cent.

Jimmy has had three bouts at Marigold Gardens, Chicago, win- ning one of them on a knockout and the other two by decision.

COLISEUM PROGRAM

Irwin Striebel, St. Louis (243) vs. Otis Thomas, Chicago (202). Eight rounds.

Betting Figures Show Increase in Maryland Tracks

By the Associated Press.

BALTIMORE, Dec. 4.

If betting figures are any cri- terion, the four major race- tracks in Maryland have found the corner prosperity's been just around for so long.

The State Racing Comaission announced 1935 betting on the tracks exceeded the 1934 to- tal by $1,893,180. Havre de Grace, Bowie, Laurel and Pim- lico turned in reports which ran the aggregate figure to $27,200,- 977. In 1934, the total was $25,- 307,797.

Havre de Grace this season reported $6,687,329 bet, as against $5,977,416 last year; Laurel, this year $6,134,470, last year $5,566,- 149; Pimlico, this year $7,892,683, last year $7,378,500; Bowie, this year $6,486,495, last year $6,185,- 732.

COACH HELLMICH HAS 5 POSITIONS OPEN ON BEARS BASKET TEAM

With the Notre Dame game less than a week away, Coach Hudson Hellmich of Washington University is still in a quandary about his starting lineup for the Bears' open- ing basketball game next Tuesday.

Hellmich was asked for an ap- proximate guess as to the starting five last night and, after scratching his head, said, "Gosh, I don't know. They all look so terrible I can't make up my mind which ones to start. I'll know more about that after these fellows who have just reported get some practice."

Those who just recently mode their appearance are the football players and it is from these that Hellmich hopes to find a fitting team to meet the Ramblers. There are six lettermen on the Bears' squad. They are Tommy Ozment, Capt. Roy Martintoni, Dwight Ha- feli, all football players, and Lou Sauer, Steve Williams and Bill Ens. Chick Droke, also a veteran, has not made his appearance, while Ray Hobbs and Bob Hudgens may not report for basketball.

Hobbs, it is understood, wants to better his grades, and Hudgens feels that he wants to concentrate on football. However, either or both may show up later on.

Buckin' Joe Bukant is a bas- keteer and may land a guard job. While watching Joe work out the average spectators expects to see him rifle a forward pass as he does from the fullback position on the football team, but then Mr. Spec- tator remembers that he is on a basketball floor and relaxes.

Coach Hellmich let it be known that if there are any "All-Confer- ence" basketball stars lurking about the Washington campus he wishes they would report to him, because at the present time there are five positions vacant and he would like awfully much to fill them before Notre Dame arrives.

BOXING COMMISSION SECRETARY REVERSES TWO JUDGES, REFEREE

By the Associated Press.

FARGO, N. D., Dec. 4. — North Dakota's new boxing law, which gives the secretary of the State Boxing Commission the final word in awarding a decision, today had deprived Wen Lambert of Proctor, Minn., of a victory over Rusty Grambling of Bismarck, N. D.

Lambert, 143, got the nod from two judges and the referee in last night's six-round bout, but Jimmy Moran, commission secretary, ruled that Grambling, 140, had earned a draw.

M'KENDREE WILL USE 6 FT. 8 IN. CENTER AGAINST BILLIKEN FIVE

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

LEBANON, Ill., Dec. 4.—With only three official practice sessions in which to look over the 1935-36 McKendree College basketball as- pirants, Coach Paul Waldorf inti- mated yesterday that he had no idea who would get the call to start in the Bearcats' opener against St. Louis U. Thursday night.

Returning lettermen on the Mc- Kendree squad are Kenny Wilson, guard; Gus Krizek, guard; Jim Beers, guard; Joe Crawford, for- ward; Wayne Bise, center; Roy Jaeckel, forward; Chuck Norris, for- ward. Coach Waldorf has Captain Kenneth (Spike) Wilson as a nucle- us about which to build his 1935- 36 quintet.

Three freshmen who are almost certain to see action in the opener are Millard Manis, 6-foot 8-inch cen- ter from Benton; John Larsh, 6-foot 3-inch guard, East St. Louis, and Saline Harris, forward, Lebanon. Larsh, who won his letter as a reg- ular on the football team, has an especially good prep record.

With the possible exception of three men, the entire McKendree squad has been busy on the grid- iron until only a few days ago. An added disadvantage to the McKen- dree players is the fact that they will not have the use of their own floor this week, and will be forced to resort to practice sessions at the local high school gymnasium. His- toric Eisenmayer gym, perhaps the oldest college p[illegible]house in the State, is being red[illegible]orated, and will be ready for use with a new floor, but not until after the St. Louis U. game.

McKendree's basketball schedule:

Dec. 5—St. Louis University, St. Louis.
Dec. 11—Granite City Y. M. C. A., Granite City.
Dec. 13—Sparks Business College, here.
Dec. 14—Carlinville All-Stars, here.
Jan. 3—Sparks Business College, Shel- byville.
Jan. 11—Illinois Wesleyan, here.
Jan. 18—Northern State Teachers, here.
Jan. 25—Blackburn College, Carlinville.
Jan. 31—Shurtleff College, here.
Feb. 1—Illinois College, Jacksonville.
Feb. 6—Western State Teachers, Ma- comb.
Feb. 7—Carthage College, Carthage.
Feb. 14—Southern State Teachers, Car- bondale.
Feb. 15—Principia, here.
Feb. 22—Shurtleff, Alton.
Feb. 29—Blackburn College, here.

Starting Lineup Chosen.

After dinner practice was St. Louis University's portion in yes- terday's preparation for the Mc- Kendree Bearcats in the opening collegiate basketball game tomor- row night. The game will be played in the St. Louis University gym- nasium, starting at 8:30 o'clock.

The team that Mike will start against McKendree will be able to hold its own. Dave Mattis and Frank Keaney, former McBride star, will be at the forwards; Henry Huettner at center and Capt. Herb Fash and Mike Ryan at the guards. Huettner and Ryan are newcomers who look pretty good in spite of Nyikos' lament.

For reserves there will be Les Cagle and Tom Fleming, centers; Al Gorman, Sid Mudd and Ray Scott, forwards, and Red Henry Krause, Jack Williams, Babe Con- nors, Woodrow Herrmany, Martin Rossini and Joe Halloran, guards.

L. S. U. GETS THREE PLAYERS ON ALL-STAR SOUTHEASTERN TEAM

ATLANTA, Dec. 4. — Louisiana State University, a football cham- pion for the first time in 27 years, contributed three players to the 1935 honor roll of the Southeastern Conference.

On the All-Star eleven, selected for the Associated Press by coaches and sports writers, the three Tiger representatives are Gaynell Tinsley, end; Jesse Fatherree, halfback, and William Crass, fullback.

The lion's share of the votes, however, went to big Riley Smith, Alabama's husky quarterback and "jack of all trades." He was se- lected by all the 84 participants in the annual poll.

Seven of the 13 schools in the conference were represented.

All players are newcomers to the roll of honor. Two of Louisiana State's stars who gained the first team in 1934—Tackle Justin Rukas and Fullback Abe Mickal—were crowded off by narrow margins.

The line averages better than 198 pounds, and the backfield about 186 pounds.

The team:

| Player and College. | Position. |
|---|---|
| William Geny, Vanderbilt, | end. |
| James Whatley, Alabama, | tackle. |
| Frank Johnson, Georgia, | guard. |
| Walter Gilbert, Auburn, | center. |
| M. Fitzsimmons, Georgia Tech, | guard. |
| Haygood Paterson, Auburn, | tackle. |
| Gaynell Tinsley, L. S. U., | end. |
| Riley Smith, Alabama, | quarterback. |
| Ike Pickle, Mississippi State, | halfback. |
| Jesse Fatherree, L. S. U., | halfback. |
| William Crass, L. S. U., | fullback. |

The Worm Turned.

University of Arkansas had to wait 10 years for a football victory over Tulsa. The Razorbacks won this year, 14 to 7.

In Joliet.

American Steel & Wire Co. an- nounces plans to construct new rod mills at Joliet, Ill.—Industrial note. For toting "rods" the gunmen get A good long stretch in Joliet.

Hee, Haw!

Well, anyway, as the feller says, old Missouri can bask in the re- flected glory of Army's victory over Navy. Everybody knows where the army mules come from.

Navy was all right, too, but her goat wasn't strong enough to over- come the Army mule.

Speaking of reflected glory, Cen- ter College will come in for her share, no matter who wins the Rose Bowl game. Tiny Thornhill, Stan- ford coach, was assistant coach at Center when Matty Bell, coach of the Mustangs, played center for the Praying Colonels.

Thornhill says all he knew about Columbia in 1933 and Alabama in 1934 was what he read in the pa- pers. This year he is going to per- sonally scout the S. M. U.-Texas A. and M. game and find out by an ocular demonstration what South- ern Methodist has besides a punt, pass and a prayer.

'Group to Act On Browns' Purchase Next Week."

The Browns have been on their uppers for some time, but they are practically half sold right now. If the financial backing materializes, they ought to be well heeled by the Ides of March.

The tail goes with the hide, but Jimmy Foxx says his present con- tract with the Athletics doesn't go with him if he is sold to some other club. Caveat emptor!

See where Man Mountain Dean is back again. Isn't it funny how some day you see a man you nev- er saw before in your life and aft- er that you keep on seeing him?

Man Mountain may be only a glorified Hillbilly from Georgia, but he certainly is an eyeful.

Babe Ruth, who severed his con- nections with the Boston Braves in order to meet the liner Norman- die on her arrival in New York on her initial trip, gave his moral sup- port to Navy in the big Service game last Saturday. Babe, who is by way of being a golfer of parts seems to favor the water hazards.

After losing 27 straight games since 1920, Knox College (Old Si- wash) snapped out of it and won five, tied two and lost two games in 1935.

Although for five years not a game they may win,

Keep your eye on old Knox when reaction set in.

The Kick's the Thing.

Judge Landis gave the world se- ries back to the umpires. Now the football coaches propose to give the goal posts back to the players.

Five coaches of the "Abraham Lincoln" stream-liner left the track the other day, tearing up 35 feet of rails. Must have been trying to live up to the name of the old "Rail Splitter."

Despite claims and counter claims to the dubious honor, the identity of the man who jumped into the breach for dear old Dartmouth is still shrouded in doubt. It will probably go down in history as one of those unsolved mysteries, along with the man in the Iron Mask, the man who struck Billy Patterson and the guy that stole the lock on the henhouse door.

"MOST VALUABLE" MAN NAMED IN INDIANA

By the Associated Press.

BLOOMINGTON, Ind., Dec. 4.— Wendel Walker of Vincennes, Ind., 200-pound senior halfback, was the "most valuable player" on Indiana University's 1935 football team, the varsity squad decided yesterday.

The chunky back was Indiana's most consistent ground-gainer this year and for the past two years has hurled "touchdown passes" con- tributing to victories over Purdue.

SORENSON WINS 30-LAP FEATURE OF MIDGET AUTO CARD AT ARENA

By Harry McKanna.

"Shorty" Sorenson, Chicago rac- ing pilot, wasn't the best man at the public wedding of Marshall Lewis and Miss Edna Jeanette O'Donnell of Chicago, which opened the auto racing program at the Arena last night, but "Shorty" was the best man in the 30-lap feature race which shared top-line honors with the wedding. Soren- son drove his Deusenberg motored vest pocket car to victory in the race, after a slight mishap had thrown him out of the lead soon after the start. Time for the race, about three miles, was 6:45.21.

Harry McQuinn of Indianapolis took down second money with Tony Willman of Milwaukee, third; Ronney Householder of Los Ange- les fourth and Wally Zale, another Chicagoan, fifth.

Three-Way Collision.

Jimmy Snyder of St. Louis, who was in a triple collision with Will- man and Curly Mills of Los Ange- les, finished back in the field after holding the lead for a third of the race. The mishap was Jimmy's un- doing.

Lewis, southwest indoor cham- pion, started out after his wed- ding, to make it a big evening, by winning the 12-lap elimination race, but later, in the big race, he was forced out early because of a balky motor.

Willman, driving Tony Marchese's Miller-motored midget, with double rear wheels won a five-car match race from Mills, Householder, Sny- der and Lewis in the good time of 2:02.72.

The Chicago team of Willman, Zale and Sorenson, defeated the St. Louis trio, Snyder, Lewis and Har- old Shaw. The score was 6 to 3.

The races attracted a crowd es- mated at 5400.

Two Fail to Show Up.

Sig Haughdahl, the veteran dirt track driver, and his pilot, Tony Gulotta, failed to put in their ap- pearance. Frank Brisk of Milwau- kee and Wally Zale of Chicago, were on hand but their cars failed to arrive by truck so Zale drove one of McQuinn's machines.

Promoter Earl Reflow an- nounced that the next series of races would be held Dec. 17.

NO CENTER JUMP RULE ADVOCATED BY COACH

BERKELEY, Cal., Dec. 4.—Elim- ination of the center jump in the basketball game between the Uni- versity of California and New York University at Madison Square Gar- den, Dec. 18, was advocated yester- day by Coach C. M. "Nibs" Price of the Bears' quintet.

Price said omission of the jump speeded up the game and some- times stopped unavoidable fouling to gain possession of the ball.

"I hope to persuade Coach How- ard Cann of N. Y. U. to play the coast rule," Price said. "I'd like the New York crowd to see that it really adds a lot to the game of basketball."

Twelve California players will make the trip, leaving Dec. 14. Other opponents will include Tem- ple, Purdue, Northwestern and Illi- nois.

PAOLINO AND LOUIS IN WORKOUTS FOR FIGHT NEXT WEEK

BANOVIC, ONE OF SPARMATES IN 'BOMBER'S' CAMP, LEAVES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

ORANGEBURG, N. Y., Dec. 4. — Paolino Uzcudun, Spain's wood-chopping basque, squared off for a jury of boxing experts yesterday and before a blow was struck he had Mike Jacobs on the verge of a kayo.

Jacobs is only the promoter of the Paolino-Joe Louis bout next week and he gasped when the basque made his appearance with an adhesive pad four inches long pasted over the corner of his left eye and his forehead.

Trainer Whitey Bimstein began to put on Paolino's gloves when Jacobs revived sufficiently to shout:

"Where's his head guard?"

"He won't wear one," said Bimstein.

Jacobs moaned:

"You guys know I have a weak heart. Make him put on that headgear. He might get bumped. What's the matter with his eye?"

Lou Brix, Paolino's American manager, replied:

"Nothing. Just a little nick he got boxing last Thursday. He won't wear a headguard—says he can't box with that contraption on so Whitney puts on the pad."

Jacobs' insistence that Paolino put one on failed and the wood-chopper went through six rounds while Jacobs stood watching, writhing and suffering. After the workout, the bandages were removed and not until then did Jacobs heave a sigh of relief. The nick over Paolino's eye was just the size of a pinhead. Jacobs said:

"The way it was bound up I thought it was a mortal wound."

Sparring Partner Quits.

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

POMPTON LAKES, N. J., Dec. 4. —Joseph Banovic of Binghamton, N. Y., currently employed as a sparmate for Joe Louis, yesterday decided that discretion, after all, was the better part of valor.

Banovic resigned his post as one of Louis' sparring partners, and explained:

"I'm only out of the hospital a little while now and I'm not going to let Louis punch me back into it."

Banovic's decision to quit the Louis camp followed a workout with the Brown bomber. Banovic was bleeding at the conclusion of the two-round session.

He Advocates a Twelfth Man on Every "Eleven"

—Associated Press Wirephoto.

Coach Jack West, University of North Dakota, who has proposed that a twelfth man be used by all football teams—a man who would not play, but who would be the "brains" of the team in directing offense. West is pointing to diagram indicating position of the twelfth man on attack. On defense the twelfth man would leave the field. At no time would he take part in the actual play.

Notre Dame Played to 483,108 In Nine Games; Football Crowds Increased 10 Per Cent This Year

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—The combination of more games and more "big" games brought football attendance back to something like the good old days in the 1935 season.

That the gain—averaging about 10 per cent on the nation-wide front of 47 major colleges covered in the annual Associated Press poll—depended largely on the team's records was shown by the leading figures.

Notre Dame, with its best team in five years, was the biggest drawing card with an attendance total of 483,108 for nine games. Navy led the East with 399,000 fans watching a fine squad play nine teams. It was the first time on record the midshipmen had outdrawn Army, which attracted 354,000.

The biggest attendance figures and the biggest gains were registered in the Eastern sector, where increases as high as 40 per cent were reported. In all, 29 of the 47 colleges reported improved attendance and several more said they were "about even" with 1934. A few preferred to keep their records secret.

Besides the service schools, Yale, Pennsylvania and Princeton were above the 300,000 mark in the East. The undefeated Tigers drew 306,000 at nine games in comparison to last year's mark of 175,000 in eight contests.

The co-champions of the Big Ten, Ohio State and Minnesota, shared honors as drawing cards. The Buckeyes, who had 81,018 fans at their thrilling game with Notre Dame, led with a total of 359,219 against Minnesota's 346,500.

California and Stanford, as usual, were rival attractions on the Pacific Coast. The Golden Bears attracted 394,000 fans at 10 games, and the Indians in eight games drew 314,000.

Tulane topped the South with 175,000 in 10 games, but Duke and North Carolina, who set a Dixie record of 46,800 at their game at Durham Nov. 16, both were above the 100,000 mark.

The Southern Methodist-Texas Christian rivalry for Southwest conference honors and the Rose Bowl invitation, brought out 32,000, the second largest crowd in conference history. Their totals so far, each with 11 games down and one to go, are 166,800 for S. M. U. and 121,570 for T. C. U.

RIGHTMIRE SIGNS TO FIGHT MOON MULLINS

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4. — Everett (Young) Rightmire, Sioux City, Ia., featherweight, signed yesterday to meet Winfred (Moon) Mullins of Vincennes, Ind., in a bout to select a Midwest contender for the 126-pound championship.

Mullins is expected to sign within the one week time limit specified by the Illinois State Athletic Commission. The bout is tentatively set for Dec. 30 at the Marigold Gardens and may be at 15 rounds. The winner will meet the victor in a New York elimination between Mike Belloise of New York, and Claude Varner of Boston.

The ultimate winner then will be matched against Baby Arizmendi of Mexico, and the victor of this fight will be regarded by the Illinois and New York State commissions as world champion.

Six months ago the Illinois and New York authorities advised Freddie Miller they would allow him six months to engage in a title fight in either State before recognizing the N. B. A. championship. No such fight has taken place because Miller has held out for a $10,000 guarantee.

BOWL, BOWL, WHO HASN'T GOT A BOWL

By the Associated Press.

DALLAS, Tex., Dec. 4.—Dallas football fans found the State's interest in New Year's "bowl" games too divided today to support another New Year's day game.

Fans seeking to promote a Blue Bonnett Bowl game here gave up when they learned Texas Christian University had accepted a bid to the Sugar Bowl classic at New Orleans.

Southern Methodist University will play Stanford in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Cal., and Hardin-Simmons College of Abilene will play New Mexico State College in the Sun Bowl game at El Paso.

Moscrip Expects to Be Ready To Stop Wilson in Bowl Game

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

PALO ALTO, Cal., Dec. 4.—The Indians picked a tartar when they invited Southern Methodist Mustangs to play a bit of football with them in the Rose Bowl on New Year's day.

"Tiny" Thornhill knows it, the senior Indians are well aware of it and the general public is convinced that Stanford obtained the very best opponent available in these whole United States.

The effete old East may look upon the venture as just another wrangle between boastful Westerners, but the Western United States declare that if the Indians conquer the best rounded Mustang team in the history of Texas, then they will be recognibed as one of the greatest teams in the nation.

Incidentally the Rose Bowl officials should recognize the fact that the East and Middle West are no longer interested in their contest. They are hiding the old "post season" excuse, and with some reason. With climatic conditions what they are it is more difficult to keep a team in training for five weeks that elapse between Thanksgiving day when most of the teams end their schedules and Jan. 1.

Rose Bowl opposition for Pacific Coast Conference teams is going to come out of the South or Southwest hereafter because teams can be conditioned there with less difficulty, and because these regions annually produce more colorful football teams than any other sections of the country.

Stanford seniors are strictly up against it, and their attitude indicates they mean to do something about it. James "Monk" Moscrip, the only cripple from the big game, think he's going to be able to man that left end when Bobby Wilson, 145-pound runner of the Mustangs, comes swinging around.

Stanford must win from a team that has running and plunging, exceptional passing including wild but effective laterals, and great punting. If the Indians go into that bowl for the third successive time and come out defeated they will be the laughing stock of the football world. Their all-time bowl record will then show only one victory and one tie in seven trips, and six of these games played since 1925.

ENGLISH SOCCER TEAM DEFEATS GERMANY, 3 TO 0

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 4.—A crowd of 60,000 cheering spectators saw England defeat Germany today, 3-0, in the first international soccer match between the two countries on English soil since 1901. England led, 1-0, at half time.

Anti-Nazi demonstrations, feared in some quarters, did not materialize.

A few Nazi flags were waved and a large German following, including nearly 100 sports writers, sang lustily when the band played a Nazi song. When the song was concluded the crowd, bareheaded, clapped and cheered.

British and German flags hung at half-staff in respect for Princess Victoria, the King's sister, who died yesterday. The teams stood at salute as the German and British national anthems were played.

INDUSTRIAL BASKET LEAGUE WILL OPEN ITS SEASON TONIGHT

Six games will open play in the Y. M. C. A. Industrial Basketball League at the 138th Infantry Armory tonight. In Division No. 1, Stix, Baer & Fuller, last year's Division No. 3 champions, will meet Wagner Electric on the south court at 7:45 and at the same time Fouke Fur will meet U. S. Engineers, Division No. 2 champions last year on the center court. International Shoe will tackle Wabash in the third game of this division, on the south court, beginning at 9 o'clock.

In Division No. 2 Monsanto Chemical will meet Laclede-Christy in the first game at 7:45 on the north court. Wohl A. C. will clash with Rawlings at 9 o'clock, and Alligator will meet Monsanto-East St. Louis at the same time on the center court.

Pitt Captains Are Appointed.

Pitt doesn't elect football captains. They are appointed by the coach. But Nick Kliskey, 1936 captain, is the unanimous selection of his mates, who petitioned Jock Sutherland to name him.

SEVEN ALTON PLAYERS GAIN POSITIONS ON ALL-STAR TEAM

Seven members of Coach Ray Jackson's Alton High School football machine, champions of the Madison - St. Clair Conference, gained places on the official all-star team selected by coaches of the seven schools at Granite City last night. Three of the Alton players, Leroy Harrison, Archie Kodras and Ralph Bennett, were unanimous choices.

Coaches making the selections included: Jack Nolen, East St. Louis; Hal Barton, Wood River; Ray Jackson, Alton; Lawson Fletcher, Collinsville; Hubert Tabor, Belleville; Karl Berninger, Madison, and Byron Bozarth, Granite City. Each coach had a first and second team vote, with 10 points for a first team selection and five for the second team.

First team players were selected by big majorities, with the exception of one guard post. LaVern Allen, Alton, and Jennings Musick, East St. Louis, share the right guard position, each getting 25 points. Wally Wegener, East St. Louis, and Charles Turner, Granite City, gave the first stringers a run for that position as each counted 20 points. Oskie Reynolds of Alton gained the other guard position by counting 55 points.

Deserved High Honors.

Harrison, Kodras and Bennett, unanimous choices, well deserved the honors. Harrison was rated as one of the best ends in the State and is expected to be selected on the Illinios State mythical eleven. Kodras rates as the best center developed on the East Side in several seasons. One of the hardest charging backs in the league, Bennett's play was greatly responsible for Alton's nine straight victories.

Harry Jones and Bill Usinger were the other Alton players to land berths. Two brothers, Ralph and Charles Skinner, who proved to be Madison's outstanding players were given positions on the first eleven. Ralph plays an end position, while Charles is quarterback.

Wilbur Saeger proved one of Belleville's principal assets in gaining second place in the final standings of the league and his selection at tackle was well deserved. Few times during the season did the opposition gain through his side of the line. Ralph Bridges of Collinsville gained the fullback berth.

Track Dates Announced.

Two tie positions were made on the second team choice as Freddie Gunn, East St. Louis, and Elwood Hoelscher, Granite City, share the center berth, while Tommy Hayes, East St. Louis, and Eddie Evers, Collinsville, are ends placed on the right side of the line. The four backfield positions on the second team were not hard to make as Ray Ashlock, Alton; McKelvey, Belleville; Eddie Posage, East St. Louis, and Eubanks, Granite City, were regarded as suitable replacements for the first team.

Including first and second teams, along with honorable mentions, the championship Alton team placed eight players, while East St. Louis garnered seven. Next in line were Belleville and Madison with four each, while Collinsville, Wood River and Granite City had three each.

Tipoffs

By Harold Tuthill.

A recent Western Conference basketball interpretation of rules that when a player is fouled and then goes on, despite the illegal interference, to make a field goal, the score shall count and he shall get one or two free throws.

About the only case to which the Big Ten interpretation is applicable is that where the foul occurs simultaneously with the try for goal, then the player shall be awarded one free throw if the goal is made and two if the try is missed, which is the way it has been for the past several years.

Meet "Stretch" Riegel.

Remember "Stretch" Murphy of Purdue? Well, Illinois has a candidate for the elongated honors in Bob Riegel, six-foot-four-inch center, who is a junior. Riegel ranked sixth in Western Conference scoring with 99 points last year and although a sophomore, was selected for the second "All-Star" five. St. Louis University will have a job on its hands to stop him Saturday.

extra innings

By Herman Wecke.

Low hit games were plentiful in the major leagues during the 1935 campaign, statistics indicate. The records show that in 141 battles—71 in the National and 70 in the American—one of the teams was held to four hits or fewer.

The outstanding hurling performance of the year was turned in by Vernon Kennedy, young right-hander of the White Sox, who on Aug. 31 blanked the Cleveland club without a safety. It was the only no-hit effort of the season. In 1934, the only no-hitter was credited to Paul Dean, then a first-year man with the Cardinals.

During the season, members of the Redbird staff turned in 10 low-hit efforts, while those of the Browns were credited with but five.

Hallahan Topped Dizzy.

In the matter of stopping the enemy with few hits, Bill Hallahan was the leader for the Cardinals. The southpaw hurled one two-hit game, against the Phillies; on two occasions he set the Pirates down with three safeties, while he had a four-hit game against the Braves. Dizzy Dean pitched two three-hit battles, one against the Phillies and the other against the Giants, while once he stopped the Phillies with four safeties. Bill Walker and Rookie McGee were others to pitch three-hitters, while Paul Dean stopped the Giants with four swats in one of his contests.

Jack Knott was the low-hit leader for the Browns. The right-hander had a two-hit effort against the White Sox and another contest against Jimmy Dykes' club in which he yielded three swats. Thomas and Andrews combined to stop the Red Sox with three safeties, while youngster Caldwell held the Tigers to three swats. The only four-hitter was credited to Thomas, who since the close of the year has passed out of the major leagues.

Cards Held to One Hit.

There were four one-hit games in the National League against but two in the American. American League twirlers, however, were credited with 11 three-hit battles against six for those in the National. There were 22 three-hit contests in each circuit, while the National had 39 four-hit battles and the American 34.

The one-hit games in the National were credited to Cy Blanton of the Pirates, who performed the feat against the Cardinals, April 19, in his first major league start; Babich of the Dodgers vs. the Phillies; Hal Schumacher against the Phillies and Roy Henshaw of the Cubs against the Pirates. Mel Harder of the Indians stopped the Red Sox with one hit, while Fischer of the White Sox hurled one against the Senators.

Wesley Ferrell, veteran right hander of the Red Sox was credited with a pair of two-hitters, one against the Yankees and the other against the White Sox. The veteran also had a three-hit game to his credit that coming against the Athletics.

Local Failures to Hit.

On eight occasions, the Cardinals were stopped with four hits or under, while the Browns suffered a similar fate nine times. Blanton halted the Birds with one swat; Warneke with two, while Walters, Bush, Freitas, Lucas and Weaver hurled four-hit battles against Frank Frisch's crew. In another, Root and Henshaw collaborated in a four-hit effort against the Cardinals.

Johnny Broaca of the Yankees stopped the Browns with two swats; Bridges, Grove, Tietje and Pearson hurled three-hit battles against the men of Hornsby, while Marcum, Wilshere, Auker and Rowe stopped the St. Louis Americans with a quartet of safeties.

SMUKLER, TEMPLE STAR, QUITS SCHOOL

By the Associated Press.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 4.—Dave Smukler, star back of the Temple University football team, resigned from the university yesterday after he was refused leave of absence to undergo an operation on his right knee.

His request was denied, college officials said, because he already had used up the allotted leaves for a semester.

There also were rumors on the Temple campus that Vince Renzo and Joseph Egan, also star backs on the team, would turn in their resignations. But officials of Temple said they were unaware either contemplated such action.

138 OUT OF 139 ATHLETES FAVOR TAKING PART IN OLYMPIC GAMES

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Avery Brundage, president of the American Olympic Committee, said today United States athletes favor going to 1936 Olympics at Berlin even if they must pay their own expenses.

Despite opposition by groups urging non-participation because of alleged Nazi religious and racial discrimination, 138 out of 139 athletes who have written to him favored taking part, Brundage said.

"Our women skiers, competing in the Olympics for the first time, raised their own funds in a few days," commented Brundage. "If malicious propaganda makes it necessary,' he concluded, "the members of the summer teams will do the same.

"Our athletes and patriotic sports-men are showing the world that they will not be made martyrs to a cause not their own, and cannot be handicapped by subversive influences.'

Because of inadequate funds, Brundage said, the men's ski team had to be divided into three sections according to ability. There was money enough for the first group's expenses. For the second group there was enough to pay part of the expense. There was no money for the third section.

"As a result," Brundage said, "all except one athlete selected have completed, by personal activity, the fund needed for their expenses. There are 15 on the team."

PRICE ON SIMMONS TOO HIGH FOR TIGERS, COCHRANE DECLARES

Special to the Post-Dispatch.

DETROIT, Dec. 4.—"I wouldn't give that much for Simmons," today commented Manager Mickey Cochrane of the Detroit Tigers, in reply to the report that Al Simmons, veteran Chicago White Sox outfielder, would come to the Tigers for $25,000 and two players.

The players mentioned in the deal were Gerald Walker, Tiger outfielder, and Gilbert English, a Detroit infielder.

Cochrane said he had no intention of letting Walker go from the Tigers. He also claimed the deal with Chicago had not been discussed since the minor league meeting at Dayton, O., recently, when he told the White Sox officials that the price tag on Simmons was too high.

12-MAN TEAM IDEA IS AGAIN REVIVED

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—Jack West of the University of North Dakota has revived the idea of a 12-man football team on which the extra man would direct the team of the offense but not take part in the play. West maintains it would save the troubles besetting teams which lose their quarterbacks by injuries and improve the same by having one man carry out the coach's ideas in calling plays.

RESEARCH HAS PROVED IT!

The researches (of these Doctors) led them to believe that colds result from an acid condition of the body. To overcome this they prescribe various alkalies.

MEDICAL AUTHORITIES STRESS IT!

Tests and clinical experiments made to date indicate that a cold is a lowering of the alkaline balance, or reserve...in other words a mild acidosis.

TESTIFIES SOME IN UNION OPPOSED SALEM ORGANIZER

Non-Union Brown Shoe Co. Employe Says They Asked Him to Take Action Against M. L. Norris

TELLS OF PETITIONS AND DEMONSTRATION

20-Year-Old Shoe Cutter Denies Mentioning Tar and Feathers When Mob Went to Home.

Dissension within union ranks caused the demonstration against M. L. Norris, organizer for the Boot and Shoe Workers' Union, at Salem, Ill., last October, witnesses testified at the National Labor Relations Board hearing of charges that the Brown Shoe Co. was guilty of unfair labor practices. The hearing continued today before Dean A. G. Eberle of St. Louis University, examiner.

Conrad Garner, 20-year-old shoe cutter, who said his father had instructed him to "stay out of the union or find a new home," testified that he and another non-union employe originated petitions directed against "trouble-makers" at the instance of union workers who "were fed up with Norris." The witness said it was his belief that the union organizer was responsible for unrest in the factory. Asked if he had taken it upon himself to correct this condition, Garner replied that dissatisfied union men asked him to take action. "They wanted an outsider, because they did not want to come out against their union," Garner explained.

Story of Demonstration.

The witness admitted he was in the mob of 175 shoe workers who followed a "committee" to the Norris home on the night of Oct. 11. The crowd gathered in front of the shoe factory and sent the "committee," consisting of two union and two non-union men, ahead to suggest to Norris that he become inactive in union affairs in Salem, Garner testified. Asked by David C. Shaw, regional attorney, if the purpose of the display of force was to frighten Norris into leaving Salem, Garner replied in the negative. "The idea was to show him how the people at the shoe factory felt about all the petty grievances that were causing trouble," the youth explained. The witness said he had no part in calling the crowd together, and he denied emphatically making any reference to "tar and feathers."

On the following day, Garner testified, he and Ray Sollis, cutting room instructor, sought the advice of City Attorney Harry Johnson about the petition against "trouble-makers." Johnson put the document into "legal language" and the petitions were circulated among shoe factory employes. One purpose behind the petitions, Garner said, was his belief that "the Labor Board would like to know how the Salem shoe workers stood on the trouble in the factory." According to previous testimony, the signed petitions were sent to the Brown Shoe Co. main offices at St. Louis.

Sollis Put on Stand.

Sollis, called to the witness stand by E. A. H. Shepley, attorney for the shoe company, stated that he helped with the petitions and was in the crowd in front of the Norris home, but did not arrange that gathering.

Under cross-examination by Shaw and Albert Schweitzer, counsel for the union, Sollis denied that his job carried any authority except as a "mouthpiece for the foreman."

Sollis said he discussed the ptition with Fred Tressler, head of the Salem Chamber of Commerce, and his personal friend, before the final draft was made. "Everybody was talking about conditions at the shoe factory, and all the business men were interested," the witness explained. Sollis gave it as his opinion that Norris was the source of all the trouble at the plant.

HOLDING COMPANY PRESIDENT REGRETS DEMOCRATIC GIFT

Head of Commonwealth & Southern Says He Wishes He Had His $150 Back.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Wendell L. Willkie, president of Commonwealth & Southern Corporation, utility holding company, asserted yesterday a "personal representative" of President Roosevelt obtained from hime a $150 Democratic campaign donation in 1932 and now "I wish I had my money back."

Charging that utilities have become "the favorite mare to ride" for political critics, he said in a luncheon address that the $150 contribution had never been listed.

"I contributed to F. D. R. personally," Willkie said, "but, of course, that was not publicized, and I don't mind telling you I wish I had my money back. A personal representative of the President asked me for $5000 and I gave $150. But I gave it as a lifelong Democrat, not as a public utility operator."

MOST OF THOSE WHO ENTERED KING TUT'S TOMB STILL ALIVE

Chicago U. Egyptologist Says Supposed Curse and Inscription Are 'Fabrications.'

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—William F. Edgerton, associate Professor of Egyptology at the Oriental Institute, commented yesterday on "the absurd superstition of 'Tut's curse,'" and any theoretical connection it might have with the death of Dr. James H. Breasted. Dr. Breasted himself called it "tommyrot."

"The often quoted 'inscription' in which Tutenkhamen allegedly called down curses on any who should violate his tomb is a pure fabrication," declared Dr. Edgerton. "Mr. Howard Carter, the one man directly 'violating' the tomb, piercing the outermost door with his own hands, Nov. 5, 1922, is still alive and well. It was also Mr. Carter who opened the third sealed doorway that leads to the burial chamber where Tutankhamen's body lay and still lies in royal estate. This was done in the presence of Dr. Breasted and some 20 other persons. So far as I can discover, most of them are still alive and well.

"After Mr. Carter had begun to remove the masonry blocking this doorway, he was assisted by Mr. Arthur C. Mace and Mrs. Thomas Callender. Only one of these three men (Mace) has died in the intervening years. Callender, like Carter, is alive and well."

MICHIGAN WPA STRIKE ENDS

Work Hours a Month Reduced and Wage Is Uniform at $44.

By the Associated Press.

ECANABA, Mich., Dec. 4.—WPA projects in Delta County were reopened today with work schedules reduced from 140 to 128 hours a month.

The decision to resume operations on the Government projects was reached Tuesday night, when spokesmen for the strikers promised that men returning to their jobs would not be molested. The reduction in hours will be effective throughout the Upper Peninsla, Joseph Pryal, district WPA labor manager, announced. He added that counties with a lower wage rate than $44, now prevailing in Delta, would be raised to that level. The strikers originally asked for an 88-hour month and a 10 per cent increase in wages. The walkout made 1400 men idle.

BEET MEN FILE BRIEF IN SUPPORT OF AAA PROGRAM

Associations Urge Supreme Court to Uphold Law on Ground Economic Results Justify It.

TAXES LIKENED TO PROTECTIVE TARIFF

Cotton Manufacturers in Another Document Before Tribunal Charge Act Is Unconstitutional.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Support for the New Deal's farm program on the ground it provides "economic as well as political democracy" was contained in a brief filed with the Supreme Court today by the Mountain States' Beet Sugar Growers' Marketing Association and the National Beet Growers' Association. The organizations filed the document as a "friend of the court" preliminary to arguments next Monday on constitutionality of the AAA in the Hoosac Mills case. The brief said:

"That farmers are not being 'regimented' in any harmful manner under the act seems to be clearly shown by the overwhelming vote they have just registered for the continuation of these programs.

"Just as under a protective tariff those engaged in industry have not been compelled to participate in, or refrain from, production, so under the agricultural adjustment act each and every farmer is entitled to the same right.

"Whether or not and to what extent a man may engage in agriculture is a matter of his own economic ability and his own free will."

Three Main Contentions.

Summarizing their contentions, the beet sugar organizations asserted:

"1. That Congress has not attempted any unlawful delegation of legislative power.

"2. That the taxes provided by the AAA are excises and meet the requirements for uniformity throughout the United States.

"3. That Congress has power to lay excise taxes and appropriate the moneys received to provide for the general welfare of the United States."

"It is submitted," the brief concluded, "that not only the economic results justify the judgment of Congress in passing the act, but that the decisions of this court sustaining the long-established use of the taxing power for the production of like results in industry make it proper that the law be declared constitutional.

"To deny the exercise of the same power for the encouragement of that great portion of our population engaged in agriculture would seem not only inconsistent with the ruling of this court, but also contrary to the general welfare of the United States, because when the farm population has lost its purchasing power, the economic welfare of the nation as a whole must collapse."

Attack by Cotton Manufacturers.

A brief filed in the Supreme Court by the National Association of Cotton Manufacturers yesterday charges that the Agricultural Adjustment Act is unconstitutional, nullifies the division of power between state and nation, and extends almost unlimited Federal power over local affairs.

Summarizing, the brief asks: "Is too much to say that the issue in this case involves the fundamental right of the states to control their internal affairs and the question whether or not the Constitution gives Congress power virtually to destroy this authority?"

The association contends Congress cannot use its right to appropriate to bring about the regulation of agriculture, and exceeds its power in levying taxes for this regulation.

President's Science Advisory Board Says Planned Use of Resources, Particularly Land, Is Imperative

It Urges Retirement of 25,000,000 Sub-Marginal Acres From Production—Reports Great Plains One of Most Pressing Problems.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. — The Science Advisory Board said yesterday that national planning was a fundamental economic necessity and not a political issue.

Members of the board, appointed by President Roosevelt in 1933 to assist in the application of science to national problems, unanimously agreed in a final report to the President that planned use of the nation's resources, particularly land, was imperative.

A section of the report, written by Dr. W. L. G. Joerg of the American Geographical Society, declared that "whatever difference of opinion there may be about policies of relocating our population, there can be none as to the public interest wherever agriculture is writing its own death sentence."

Study of Land Problem Urged.

The board, which made an intensive study of the problem of land use, told the President: "Where cultivation has become self-destructive, the issue is clear-cut. Here national land policy will inscribe on the map of the United States the boundary lines of areas to be placed under protective management."

Among the principal recommendations were: Completion of the mapping of the United States; intense study and establishment of areas of "climatic risk" where farming is hazardous; cessation of irrigation development except in areas where a little water is needed to supplement natural supplies at critical times, and a "phenologic" survey, possibly by school children, to determine when plants and trees flower, bear fruit and lose their leaves in various areas of the country. The latter might be of more value than intense weather studies, the board said.

Anticipating the probable needs of the nation for farm products 25 years hence, it recommended that 25,000,000 acres of sub-marginal agricultural acres be retired permanently from production and that between now and 1960 an area of 46,000,000 acres of good land be gradually brought into production.

On Production of Electricity.

The board termed production of electricity by water power, usually associated with Western irrigation projects, as more expensive than production of electricity by the use of fuels.

The board said that "whereas from the long-run viewpoint the desirability of conserving coal, gas or oil makes the full utilization of all available water power seem highly desirable, from the short-term commercial viewpoint the comparative merits of water and fuels as sources of electric power wear a different complexion.

"As a result of the recent great improvement in furnaces and engines, the low present price of fuels and the possibility of building the fuel electric plants near the markets for current and yet where fuels can be delivered cheaply, it is commonly less costly to provide electricity by combustion methods than by harnessing water power and building transmission lines."

The report added, however, that there has been considerable progress toward water power circuits.

Problem of Great Plains.

"Proper, permanent and balanced use of the Great Plains in the national economy is one of the most pressing problems before the nation," said the board. "It's successful resolution will be a major achievement for American science and administration."

A Great Plains commission was suggested to "strike at the heart of the agricultural surplus problem directly."

"The increase in field area in that section in the past quarter century," the report said, "has been far in excess of the estimated 40,000,000 acres of present surplus crop land in the United States.

"The area annually harvested in the Great Plains is distinctly in excess of this amount, and the amount of land in reserve, that has been planted in boom years and may come into production again, is huge. Our wheat and barley surplus, and in large measure that of cotton, are accounted for by the Great Plains.

"The plowing up of the Great Plains and the release of crop land from feed production for food production throughout the country are the two primary elements that have produced and maintained agricultural unbalance in the United States."

Crop Hazards in Many Parts.

The board said crop hazards in many parts of the Great Plains were such that establishment of economically healthful communities was doubtful and that "in no other part of the country could an extensive program of land retirement be initiated with equal effects on crop surpluses and with as little disturbance of population or at such low cost.'

"Improvements," the report noted, "in many sections are meager, population is sparse, and, at present, large amounts of land are held by mortgages that are tax delinquent and tax reverted."

Members of the board said the term "Great Plains" was used to include the land west of the ninety-sixth meridian to the foothills of the Rocky Mountains. This would run the eastern border of the Great Plains through Central Kansas, Central Nebraska and the central portions of the Dakotas, with the westward limits running through Eastern Colorado, Wyoming and Montana. The panhandle of Oklahoma and Texas and part of the Texas big bend country are included.

GRANDPARENTS' CERTIFICATES REQUIRED AT NAZI WEDDINGS

Berlin Edict Gives Magistrates the Regulations for Marriages.

By the Associated Press.

BERLIN, Dec. 4.—An edict, circulated among provincial authorities to guide them in carrying out the provisions of the Nurnberg law, for the protection of the purity of the German race, authorizes magistrates to demand that prospective bridal pairs produce the wedding certificates of their grandparents.

Engaged pairs, on demand, must also give details of their grandparents' lives, so far as they can be supplied.

For the sake of uniformity in public records, a person with two Jewish grandparents will be classified as a "first degree hybrid," while one Jewish grandparent makes him a "second degree hybrid."

On the basis of the Nurnberg law, a marriage between a first degree hybrid and a full blooded German, or between first and second degree hybrids, requires a permit from the Ministry of Interior.

Marriages between Germans and Jews are forbidden, a person with three or more Jewish grandparents being rated as a Jew. The decree makes marriages between German kypsies and Negroes subject to similar restrictions.

SHAKEUP IN ROPER'S ADVISERS

26 of 42 Members of Business Council Retired Under New Plan.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.—Retirement Jan. 1 of 26 of the 42 members of Secretary of Commerce Roper's business advisory council was announced today by him. He explained, at a press conference, that retirements had been arranged under a new organization plan for the council.

Harry P. Kendall, retiring chairman, told reporters "several" members would have resigned had not their withdrawal been arranged. He attributed projected resignations to "lack of time" on the part of the business men members.

Japanese in Lead, October Customs Figures Show.

SHANGHAI, Dec. 4.—Japan has usurped the leadership long held by the United States in the Chinese markets, customs statistics for October disclosed today. American exports to China dropped to a low of about $3,966,000 while Japanese exports to China passed the $4,400,000 mark.

The United States trade balance with China was unfavorable for the first time in years, imports from China to America amounting to about $4,400,000.

FRENCH PHYSIOLOGIST DIES

PARIS, Dec. 4.—Prof. Charles Richet, French physiologist, who won a Nobel prize in 1913, died yesterday at the age of 85.

M. Richet was a professor of medicine and a member of the French Academy of Medicine and the Academy of Sciences. He also was a commander of the Legion of Honor and the author of books and plays.

COTTON BELT TO DEFAULT ON BOND INTEREST JAN. 1

Board Announces Railroad Will Not Pay More Than $490,000 Due on Five Issue.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Interest payments of more than $490,000 on five issues of the St. Louis Southwestern Railway Co. will go unpaid on Jan. 1.

Announcing the decision yesterday, directors of the Cotton Belt road said it had been made "in view of the estimated cash position" of the company as of Dec. 31 based on estimated receipts and disbursements for current operation and maintenance.

The decision will affect the following bonds, issued or guaranteed by the company: Second mortgage income 4s of 1989, first terminal and unifying mortgage 5s of 1952, general and refunding mortgage 5s of 1990, Central Arkansas & Eastern 5s of 1940, and Stephenville North & South Texas 5s of 1940.

The Cotton Belt board's decision to stop interest payment was seen in financial circles as bearing out recent reports that the company's parent concern, Southern Pacific was no longer willing to give financial aid. Southern Pacific's investment in the Cotton Belt amounts to $24,000,000, through ownership of more than 87 per cent of the preferred and common stocks.

ECUADOR'S LANDSLIDE COVERS TWO MILES; 27 DEAD, 14 HURT

Relief Workers Sent to Buried Village; Rocks and Eearth Give Way Without Warning.

By the Associated Press.

GUAYAQUIL, Ecuador, Dec. 4.—The Ecuadorian Government has sent relief workers into the Andes area where a slide buried the village of Verde Cocha and its 50 inhabitants as it rolled over a front of nearly two miles.

First official figures on the landslide said 27 persons were killed and 14 hurt. Some of the bodies were found several kilometers from the village The catastrophe was attributed to subterranean infiltrations.

Without warning a mass of rocks and earth broke from the mountainside and, accompanied by an underground rumbling, fell on the village as the inhabitants slept.

Large portions of widely known ranches were destroyed by the slide —the haciendas known as Yinancay and Guayagsi. Herds were buried under the tumbling rocks and dirt.

Verde Cocha was 50 miles east of Guayaquil, Ecuador's chief seaport.

HITLER NEVER WILL PERMIT INFLATION, SCHACHT SAYS

Minister of Economics Urges Nazis to Concentrate on Rearmament and Jobs.

By the Associated Press.

LEIPZIG, Germany, Dec. 4.—Dr. Hjalmar Schacht told a convention of Labor Front officials today he would resign as Minister of Economics rather than tolerate currency inflation. "I guarantee you that I will never be a party to such fraud," he said, "and you have Der Fuehrer's word for it he will never permit it."

Schacht admonished his listeners not to try to make the entire Nazi program effective immediately, but rather to concentrate on rearmament and creation of jobs.

Tax reductions, he said, were impossible at present, and on the contrary "enormous sacrifices must be made yet."

Schacht pleaded for the preservation of capitalism, asserting that "art and beauty never can be brought into the world unless there are persons glad to spend money for them."

"Germany will always need many wealthy people," Schacht said.

TRANS-ATLANTIC AIR MAIL SERVICE PROPOSED BY FARLEY

Postmaster-General Says He Will Ask Congress for Funds for Experimental Flight.

By the Associated Press.

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4. — Postmaster-General Farley said today he would ask the coming session of Congress for funds to start trans-Atlantic air mail service.

He said if the fund were granted, experimental flights would be started next summer and operation over the route would be begun probably the following year.

Postal officials said Pan-American Airways, which operate the new Trans-Pacific route, was the only American company interested in the route now.

PLEA BY HOPKINS FOR 'MILLIONS ON BOTTOM OF HEAP'

He Asserts in St. Louis Talk Way Must Be Found to Divide National Wealth and Income.

Federal Relief Administrator Harry L. Hopkins told a large and friendly audience last night at Soldan High School, where he spoke under the auspices of the Washington University Association, that the United States must find a new way of dividing up its national wealth and income to provide a new way of living and a new justice for "millions and millions of people on the bottom of the heap."

Hopkins touched briefly on the Works Progress Administration, of which he is head, and devoted the main part of his speech to an outline of the expanded social security program he hoped to see enacted—unemployment and sickness insurance, old age and widows' pensions, a permanent works program, and Government housing and resettlement activities.

"All these things are going to cost a lot of money, and the money is not going to come out of the thin air," he said. "My thesis is that our national income every year, and our national wealth is ample to provide them."

Takes Critics to Task.

Critics of the Government's security program, Hopkins said, are either ignorant of the extent of want and suffering or are "deliberately and maliciously" attacking the sort of people to be helped by such a program.

He spoke scornfully of these critics, mentioning "a panting peripatetic publisher from Chicago," alluding apparently to Frank Knox, Republican presidential aspirant, and referred to "pious resolutions" of the Manufacturers' Association, and the American Liberty League, "which may have a few suckers in St. Louis supporting it, for all I know."

"There is one thing behind all these attacks," Hopkins said. "What they mean to say is that they don't intend to let this crowd on the bottom of the heap have any part of the national income. They want to divide it up just as it was in 1929."

Defense of "Bottom of Heap."

The "Lord Bountiful" of the Roosevelt administration, who had answered in casual, take-it-or-leave-it fashion, criticisms of himself and those associated with him in the relief program, rose to a new pitch of enthusiasm when he came to the defense of the "crowd at the bottom of the heap."

"I'm tired of brickbats being thrown at these people," he said. "They are not very articulate, they haven't got any spokesman to get their side of the story into the press. They've taken a terrible beating in the last few years, and the Government is not going to let them down just because a small handful of rich and powerful men want to let them shift for themselves. The Government should and will provide for them."

Describing his security program, Hopkins said that the Government must care for "hundreds of thousands" through pension schemes, for the aged, widows, and the blind. The only decent manner in which these people could be treated, he said, was to hand them regularly, month after month, a pension check and say to them, "Here, you are entitled to this."

Unemployment Insurance.

The problem of unemployment, he said, could be met in no other way than by insurance. "And unemployment insurance on a voluntary basis is all washed up. It never worked anywhere in the world. It must be compulsory, by legislative enactment." To take care of those who would not participate in the insurance fund, about half of all workers, Hopkins said, the Government should maintain a permanent works program, somewhat along the lines of the CCC.

"One of the scandalous things in America," he continued, "is the sort of homes we permit our children to live in. We build them fine schools, and provide great parks and playgrounds for them, and then we tell them that all their lives they must live in dirty, dark tenements. The time is coming when the Government will build homes for the poor. Private capital never built a home anywhere in the world for the poor. They have always had to take what was left." Another phase of this housing program, he said, would be putting people back on the land, where they could work out their own problems and get along on their own efforts.

Telling of the WPA program in Missouri, Hopkins said that 3300 undertakings have been approved. The State's allotment of WPA funds, which he did not mention, is $20,747,528. Thirty per cent of all the money, he said, will be used to build farm-to-market roads; 18 per cent for the building and repair of city streets; 12 per cent for sewer and water systems; 10 per cent for flood control and sanitation; 8 per cent for parks and playgrounds; 6 per cent for school buildings; 3½ per cent for hospitals; 3½ per cent on other public buildings; 1 per cent for flying fields, and 8 per cent for "white collar" jobs for men and women.

All of the "boondoggling" criticism against the Government's work program, Hopkins said, is directed against the "white collar" jobs which represent 8 per cent of the total. He defended these as useful jobs, mentioning that they included sewing rooms, employment of nurses for the poor, binding of books for school and libraries, and translation of books into Braille for the blind.

FASCISM THREATENS AMERICA, SAYS ICKES

Communism a Bugaboo Employed by Rugged Individualists, He Adds.

By the Associated Press.

DETROIT, Mich., Dec. 4.—Secretary of the Interior Ickes declared today that economic security must be assured the average citizen if democracy in the United States is not to be supplanted by Fascism.

"Our rugged individualists have already undertaken an active and well-financed campaign looking toward a return to power that will make it possible for them to continue to grow ever richer while the great mass of the people becomes poorer and poorer," he said in an address in the Town Hall here. ". . . I warn them that they are putting a lighted match to a keg of powder.

"The issue is Fascism or the America of the founding fathers. I say this fully conscious of the deliberate effort that is being made to cause us to believe that Communism constitutes the real threat to our liberties. Communism is merely a convenient bugaboo. . . . It is the Fascist-minded men of America who are the real enemies of our institutions through . . . their solidarity, . . . and their ability and willingness to turn the wealth of America against the welfare of America."

Ickes said that the Brookings Institution had reported 16,000,000 American families, or 60 per cent of the total number, received an annual income of less than $2000, although "a family income of $2000 may be regarded as sufficient to supply only basic necessities," at 1929 prices.

"What we are face to face with is the proposition whether the American standard of living is such as to assure the minimum requirements of our people as to comfort, health and general well-being," he said. "If our standard of living is not that high, it is not high enough."

Ickes said that while groups in Detroit and elsewhere had assisted the administration in its numerous slum clearance projects, that "their help and encouragement . . . have been nothing as compared with the opposition that we have had to meet from men who have nothing but extreme distaste for an undertaking by the Government that would clean out those festering pestholes that we call the slums . . . and replace them with decent dwellings."

Ickes said opponents of the Roosevelt administration "are as lacking in effective remedies for our social and economic ills as was their administration prior to March 4, 1933. They are the modern exponents of do-nothingism."

LETTERS FROM THE PEOPLE

A City Employe's Tribulations.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

THE writer believes in Democratic principles but is opposed to dictatorship under the pretense of democracy. Our city administration seems to be Hitlerized. The Mayor, during the riverfront bond issue campaign, which was entirely non-political, plainly told city employes he would count noses after the election. They, of course, knew what this meant: to work and vote as he directed, regardless of their own opinions.

Our City Charter states that no city employe shall be assessed for campaign funds; but if you are a city employe, you are required to join your ward Democratic club and pay 1 per cent of your monthly salary as club dues, and other assessments the dictator may see fit to impose. Even then, you may be fired for the unpardonable offense of having been recommended by an official against whom the dictator has a grudge.

You are told what you are expected to contribute to Father Dempsey and to the United Charities and to the Mayor's free dinner, regardless of whether you can afford a Christmas dinner for your own family or not.

I don't object to these charities. They are all worthy. But the employe should be consulted as to his ability to give, as the business man is. The latter donates what he pleases and that settles the matter. Also, employes are expected to go to the polls on election days and work, and to vote to keep the incumbents in office.

To sum up the whole matter: to be a city employe, you must forfeit your constitutional right as an American citizen to vote according to the dictates of your conscience. Isn't it time the self-respecting citizens of St. Louis were waking up to the fact that this city is not in Russia, Germany or Italy, but in America, where the Constitution guarantees free speech and suffrage? A DEMOCRAT.

Tweed and Taffeta.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

IN THE book "Europa," the author has one of his characters tell the hero that problems and people are flesh and blood. It is common practice, however, he goes on, to talk of them as tweed and taffeta.

Peace guarantees and broken treaties are the tweed and taffeta in the Italian situation. Let us look at the Ethiopian adventure from the flesh-and-blood angle. Mussolini wants Italy to be a first-class Power. To be a modern Power, intense industrialization is necessary. Italy has water power but lacks sufficient raw materials. With prohibitive tariffs and a lonely gold standard, she finds it increasingly difficult to exchange manufactured goods for them. The alternative is colonies. Most of the globe is pre-empted and the present Italian colonies are poor in content. Ethiopia is the only undeveloped, independent state left in Africa, Liberia excepted. As the French say, "What would you?" GUERRILLA.

A Georgian on "Tobacco Road."

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

I WOULD like to make a few observations about "Tobacco Road." I was born and raised in Georgia, and the play is supposed to depict conditions in the backwoods of my State. I have been in every rural district of the State and I failed to see the type of people or the conditions shown in this play anywhere. Notwithstanding claims by the author that other persons doubting the story visited the exact replica of the scenes pictured to us and were convinced, I still say no such folks and no such conditions exist anywhere in Georgia, or elsewhere in these United States.

This play is, evidently, propaganda backed by Soviet Russia. Communistic money and influence can shape newspaper criticisms as well as buy a favorable personal verdict from some people. It is known that country people avoid outright profanity and vulgarity. The nearest to swearing they ever reach is to use such terms as "by gum," "by golly," "by heck," etc. Then the women folks keep a close watch on their neighbors and relatives, in respect to moral conduct. Their censorship is held in too much dread to be easily brooked. So I have to say that this folk-play is a gross slander and will itself be killed by its own filthiness. E. MASON ROBERTS.

Putting the Farmer on His Feet.

To the Editor of the Post-Dispatch:

FOR years American industry has been protected from foreign-made goods by a high tariff. The first law of nature is that of survival. The American farmer has recognized that law in the policy of the AAA.

Suppose that it does cause farm commodities to go higher? Suppose that it causes living costs in the city to rise? For years the men employed in the city have gone along smoothly while the farmer has battled against heavy odds. Now he is being put on his feet and you of the city put up the mournful howl. Be sporting about it; your time is coming as fast as the administration can possibly make it. Give the farmer these prices a year, with good crops, and he will put men back to work with his buying power, for he needs everything. Are not conditions better? I think so. Let us forget the old order and look to the future.

THE DILEMMA OF OIL SANCTIONS.

Italy is worried about oil. Its people and dictator know full well that addition of this commodity to the sanctions list would mean that the war machine in Africa, like any other machine, would cease to function, for lack of lubrication and fuel. The domestic economic machine, too, would be forced to run in low gear by a stoppage of oil supplies. Other products may be hoarded or produced at home. For oil, however, Italy depends heavily on imports.

The grave significance of a possible oil blockade explains the wood-burning busses now plying the streets of Rome, the high taxes and drastic conservation measures on petroleum products, the appropriation of 70,000,000 lire to hasten development of possible oil fields in Italy's satellite state, Albania, and the dire threats voiced by Mussolini as to the consequences of such a step by the League Powers.

So the other nations, too, are worried about oil. There is genuine fear in the chancelleries of Europe that Mussolini will resort to desperate measures if the proposed step is taken. France in particular still hopes for conciliation. Britain does not wish to push Mussolini too far. The British attitude is sardonically described by a New York Times correspondent as "somewhat like saying that Britain wants to choke Mussolini economically, but without hurting his feelings."

Oil thus poses a major dilemma for all the nations concerned. It is reported that the British Government has decided to approve the sanctions plan, and that the League will impose the embargo after the meeting of its Sanctions Committee on Dec. 12. This would mean a continuance of the policies previously adopted. When Mussolini began his attack on Ethiopia, the other nations were faced by a choice of standing by and approving his conquest by inaction, or of taking steps to check the aggression. The decision of 51 nations to invoke sanctions meant adoption of the latter course. If oil is not added to the list, it means a weakening of the original plan, perhaps failure. Failure of sanctions is likely to bring failure of the League. And that would be a disaster of greater weight than the fall of Ethiopia to the invader.

If the nations at length decide to shut off Italy's oil supply, they will be taking a risk, it is true, but a risk in the cause of peace—a form of hazard too seldom seen in a world of bristling militarism. Stopping the war would be a victory for humanitarianism; effective united action against an aggressor a victory for safeguarding the peace. Oil sanctions offer an opportunity for courageous statesmanship. The alternatives, acceptance of Italian aggression and resort to the old diplomacy, are fraught with far greater perils.

THE DRY DON QUIXOTE.

The Anti-Saloon League convention brings back to the news the name and smiling face of William (Pussyfoot) Johnson. The public, we believe, is glad to see him.

Of all the professional enemies of the Demon Rum, he was the gayest. His fellow-warriors were pretty sad chaps in their mission as crusaders. Pussyfoot, as he was universally known, got a lot of fun out of the fighting. He lost an eye on the field of battle, and turned the experience into a laugh. He practiced the black arts of duplicity against the treacherous foe, winning here, losing there, and told all about it with chuckling candor. In the full bloom of the American triumph, he set forth, in Alexandrian mood, to conquer the whole wide world in the name of the wholesome cup that biteth not like an adder. He sat his Rosinante as merrily as Cervantes' "lean and foolish knight," tilting at gin mills. Toddy or cocktail or highball or fizz—whatever impish incarnation John Barleycorn elected—he rode it down "in the hammer of galloping all day long."

Repeal came, sentencing him, with so many others, to the exile of obscurity. Once more the war drums roll and, clad in the shining or tattered armor of their own righteousness, they are spurring their mounts.

BUILDING STARTS BACK.

There is good news from the building construction front. For the first 10 months of 1935, the Bureau of Labor Statistics of the Department of Labor announces, permits were issued for buildings valued at more than $674,000,000. This is an increase of $264,000,000, or more than 64 per cent, over the figures for the same period in 1934. Residential construction begun in October totaled $34,312,021, or 146.7 per cent greater in volume and 197.7 per cent in value than for similar building in the same month last year. Residential construction for the first 10 months of the year totaled $232,000,000, or 162 per cent more than the same period last year.

These large amounts and high percentages of gain are impressive figures. They represent merely a moderate revival, however, and fall far short of recovery. To appraise them at their true value, the figures must be compared with past records of building. It then becomes obvious to what an appalling extent the building industry has been beaten down in the depression years.

In 1928, the peak year, total construction in the country was estimated at more than 11 billion dollars. Residential building alone reached a total of $3,095,000,000, or about three times the probable value of all construction in 1935. In 1932, residence building was down to $311,000,000, a fall of almost 90 per cent. In 1933, total construction fell to $2,960,000,000, a loss of about 75 per cent from 1928.

It is true that a large part of the building in boom years contributed to an unhealthful surplus. Too many hotels, office buildings and large apartments were put up, and mortgage holders still are paying the price of over-expansion. As to dwellings, however, the same cannot be said, for the supply seldom was far ahead of the demand. The five years of almost complete home-building cessation produced a situation that means a housing shortage even with normal demand. The past average of 400,000 new houses a year has provided only for replacements and the normal needs of families. The figure fell to 50,000 annually in the more severe years of the depression.

The building industry thus has far to go before it becomes its normal self again. The rising figures are a healthful sign, pointing as they do to greater employment, both on the building sites and in the manufacture of materials. The building business went down such a long way, however, that it has a great distance to return. There is cheer in the news of its progress along the comeback trail.

TOWARD A 2 A. M. NOMINATION?

This Republican problem of picking a presidential candidate is getting knottier every day. Here's Col. Frank Knox of Chicago, arch-foe of the administration's spending policies, flirting with the soldier bonus and thereby getting himself into the bad graces of Henry Curran's National Economy League. We said the other day, speaking mildly, that the Colonel was obviously making a candidate's gesture when he proposed prepayment of the bonus, to the tune of two billion dollars, out of the four-billion-dollar work-relief fund. The National Economy League says, more bluntly, that the Chicago newspaper publisher has made an about-face on the bonus question and is now "playing politics with the whole thing."

As if that wasn't enough to give Republican Chairman Fletcher a headache, here is the Anti-Saloon League, at its convention in St. Louis, telling the world through its applause that the real man of the hour is Gov. Alf Landon of the dry State of Kansas. How will that go down in the wicked wet areas?

Senator Borah has "soft money" predilections, believes in the payment of the bonus and holds other views that are anathema to the more "regular" members of the G. O. P. high command. Senator Vandenberg has had nice things to say about some parts of the New Deal program. Mr. Hoover—well, Hoover is Hoover.

Are events on the G. O. P. front shaping up for a dark horse to come galloping in?

CLEAR FIELD FOR CROSSING REMOVAL.

It is belated news but good news for St. Louis that the Government will approve six grade-crossing projects in the city. Belated news, because of 18 crossing removals recommended by the city, seven had been approved by Federal engineers as long ago as last April. Good news, because at last the city is to be rid of six death-traps and will benefit by the expenditure of $1,330,000 in Government funds for construction. The cost of acquiring the land, $560,000, is to be paid by the city.

Grade-crossing removal has long been an urgent need throughout the country as a safety measure to help reduce the horrifying toll of motor car fatalities. It was hoped that its inclusion by the Government in the public-works program would make speedy progress possible, but delay has been caused by the fact that the percentage of outlay going directly to labor was lower than the adopted standard. Now the difficulty has been ironed out. It is regrettable that the work here cannot start before next spring, but there is consolation in the fact that the program has come safely through the many obstacles it encountered.

ACCORDING TO THE CODE.

Collectors of things that are quaint and curious have a new one to put on the shelves of their whatnots along with the Tennessee Scopes case and other quirks and whatisits—the verdict of the jury in the case of Edith Maxwell, Virginia mountain girl. This girl, when her father was beating her, snatched up a slipper and whacked him with it and after a while he died. Although she was defending herself and it was not shown at her trial that the blow caused her father's death, a jury of mountain men, in the town and county of Wise, found her guilty and fixed her punishment at 25 years in prison.

Mountain men, it seems, have a code of their own that is held in higher respect than the law and the evidence, more persuasive than the unwritten law that prevails in the lowlands and other parts. It is the patriarchal pronouncement that a man is master of his house and ruler of his wife and children, sole judge of when to whip them and how, and that it is their bounden duty to take it and like it. There is special condemnation in the code for the undutiful child who raises a hand against a sire.

Edith Maxwell, when her father was beating her, raised a hand with a slipper in it and swatted her sire to such effect that he left off beating her to bemoan the degeneracy that denied a man's right to whip his own children. When he died from some unidentified cause, the law as it is administered in Wise County, Va., called it murder and a jury gave it the same name. Now the girl is asking for a new trial, and if that is denied, her case will be taken to a higher court. A surge of sympathy has come to her as she waits in Wise County Jail and Clarence Darrow has come barging out of his retirement to joust again, as he did in the Scopes case, with the archaic adversary.

Virginia seems to need a little of the evolution that was not wanted in Tennessee.

ALWAYS IN HARNESS.

Pasadena's Rose Bowl is yet to be filled, and the Sugar Bowl at New Orleans will be heaped high, but they really might be called posthumous events. The season is done. The shouting and the tumult have died. And the football coaches may temporarily take their ease, or unease, in Zion, as acclaim or razzberry drifts echoingly in on slippered meditation.

Not so with Ned Brant at Carter. For him there is no rest, no other side of Jordan. While yet the last crowd is swirling out of the stadium, and the air is yet filled with the trajectories of unforgotten footballs, the imperative of basketball summons Brant and his Fidus Achates, Shotgun Sheldon. Sisyphus rolling his hoop (oh, make it a stone, ye servile votaries of accuracy) was given about as steady a job as mythological vengeance could contrive, but Brant's athletic mentorship of that comic-strip Siwash is certainly no NRA schedule.

Of course Carter must eventually come a cropper. Lady Luck is a swell gal, but constancy is not one of her shining virtues. As arbiter of his protege's destiny, Bob Zuppke knows—how well he knows!—that a "Red" Light isn't cradled in every freshman class. How many autumns have blazed and faded, in the realities of Urbana, since the Galloping Ghost that was "Red" Grange disappeared below the academic horizon? Perhaps the dawning basketball wars will enroll Brant among the casualties. Anyhow, the fellow is entitled to a leisurely, loafing week-end.

TODAY AND TOMORROW

By Walter Lippmann

The Breathing Spell

Mr. Lippmann resumes his articles today after a vacation period of three months.—Editor's note.

EVEN if there were not other reasons for hoping that the administration will promptly reduce and simplify its activities, there is the decisive reason presented by the danger of another world war. For it is impossible to believe that the administration, which is trying to do so many things, can really attend to the most important ones. Yet if war breaks out, if the United States is not adequately protected against the shock, above all, if it becomes entangled in the war, the problems which now worry the country will sink into insignificance.

The question is no longer merely theoretical. There is an actual war in progress. In one way or another, every great Power in Europe is already involved in it. And already the United States is being forced to decide issues of the most difficult kind.

To be sure, there is not much actual fighting. The participation of the great Powers is at present limited and half-hearted. And there is no serious danger that the United States will become entangled in the war between Italy and Ethiopia. But, and it is a very great but, the position we now take in this minor war may not only determine in some degree whether it becomes a general war: it will inevitably establish precedents which will bind us in a general war. What we do now in respect to Italy and Ethiopia may well make it excessively difficult not to become entangled in a general war.

The only precaution that the American people can take is to make sure that these momentous decisions are thoroughly examined and carefully debated, that they are not taken absent-mindedly and casually by overworked officials and accepted inattentively by the public.

On Oct. 5, for example, the President declared a policy which reverses the position taken by the United States throughout its history. He renounced in the Italian-Ethiopian war that freedom of the seas for which the United States has fought three wars, for which the United States has stood from Washington to Wilson. Probably the time had come to reverse the historic policy. But, surely, remarkably little attention has been paid to this momentous decision, and there has been almost no public discussion, let alone official explanation, of its enormously far-reaching consequences.

It is a dangerous procedure to make decisions of this sort in this way. Perhaps the chief reason why these great issues are are being decided so casually and so inattentively is that the administration, the Republican opposition and the general public are preoccupied by issues arising from the emergency programs and the hurried reforms.

The President has given his pledge that he will keep America "unentangled and free" in the event of another great war. If he is to honor that pledge, he will keep himself unentangled and free of the thousands of little questions raised by the fact that he has more power than any President has ever had in time of peace, and more money to spend. For if he allows himself to remain responsible for deciding whether there shall be a new sewer in Kokomo, whether Mr. Hopkins shall dig ditches, whether Mr. Ickes shall build bridges, whether Mr. Tugwell shall build houses for happily married farmers—if he allows himself to remain embroiled in a hundred guerrilla actions with business men—he will give little of his mind and little of his attention to decisions that may have infinite consequences for the American people.

The remedy for the unmanageable complexities of his duties is not merely to have a breathing spell. It will not cure the condition merely to refrain from undertaking any more new and vast projects. The existing burden is already too great, and if the achievements of the New Deal that are worth saving are to be saved, there is only one thing to do and that is to get rid promptly of activities, duties, projects and responsibilities that can never conceivably be permanent functions of the Federal Government.

The main problem of the Federal Government today, it seems to me, is not how to stimulate recovery, provide relief or institute reform. It is how to reduce the scope and the procedure of government to a workable scale, how to restore the normal Constitution and how to encourage the resumption of that local and private self-reliance upon which depend not only the vitality but the essential liberties of the American people.

It cannot, for example, permanently be the business of the Federal Government to decide how a few hundred families in Atlanta, Ga., shall be housed. If it were desirable, it would be beyond human powers. It is just as impossible for the Federal Government to rebuild the slums as it is for it to regulate wages paid for slaughtering chickens in Brooklyn or the price charged for pressing pants in Florida.

A program of restoration, not a mere breathing spell, alone can save the country and the administration from becoming confused in a tangle of unreal problems. Once it is determined that the situation calls, not for a pause on the road to higher and vaster projects, but for a restoration of the normal balance of powers in the Government and a resumption of local and individual responsibility, the specific issues at home will become fairly simple.

It will not be difficult to balance the budget if it is decided that relief is again to be primarily a local or a private responsibility. It will not be difficult to bring about some sort of decent feeling between government and business if it is determined that business is to operate under considered statutes and judicial procedure rather than under administrative fiat and political crusading.

Such a restoration would be necessary in any event. It is imperative in view of the fact that very serious dangers are threatening in the whole world from the west of Europe to Eastern Asia. To prepare for these dangers is now the great task of the national Government. For upon the preparations we now make may depend the perpetuation of a truly independent democracy in the United States.

Conscription on the Campus

From the Christian Science Monitor.

OBJECTORS to compulsory military training in American universities are fighting a good fight. A campaign now being carried on by some of them to guard against encroachment of militarism on education is worthy of support.

Senator Nye and Congressman Kvale introduced bills in both houses to amend the National Defense Act so that no Reserve Officers' Training Corps unit shall be established or maintained at any school or college "until such institution shall have satisfied the Secretary of War that enrollment in such unit (except in the case of essentially military schools) is elective and not compulsory."

Insistence on compulsory military training in many American schools has been hard to understand. Parents and no doubt some students have been confused as to the origin of the compulsion, believing it to lie with the War Department, or in Government grants to colleges, whereas it seems to lie actually with the directorates of the colleges themselves.

In 1924, the Secretary of War wrote to a correspondent: "So far as the War Department is concerned, it is optional with the authorities of the school, college or university whether military training shall be an elective or a compulsory course in the curriculum."

And six years later, the United States Attorney-General said: "The (Federal) statutes nowhere require that the offered course in military tactics must be compulsory."

Compulsory military training thus exists in many colleges apparently because the administrators of those schools find in it some special advantage to the school which maintains it, although it is of doubtful advantage to many students and, indeed, even to the military units it is supposed to support.

Military men in charge of R. O. T. C. work have declared that voluntary military training is more successful than compulsory drill because of the different effect which each system has on morale. Some colleges which previously compelled their students to study military tactics have since put this study on an elective basis.

Many citizens are convinced that conscription of students for military training is un-American in spirit and a violation of the American tradition.

The fight against compulsory training has not been an easy one. Little ground has been gained, and that little has been hard to hold. It is the tenacity of the fighters for liberty of conscience, and the soundness of their cause, both from the point of view of the objector and with respect to the efficiency of the military corps, that promises ultimate success.

"POLITICAL SEX APPEAL."

Raymond Clapper in the Washington Post.

FORMER Senator David A. Reed of Pennsylvania eliminates himself as a Republican presidential possibility with the explanation that he lacks "political sex appeal."

That is too bad, because, among conservatives, Senator Reed ranks as one of the ablest. However, ability is a minor element in political sex appeal. It is desirable, but not essential.

One trouble with the former Senator was that although he was a gentleman, he was unable to lie like one. For instance, after his State voted for the late Bill Vare, Senator Reed, who had a low estimate of Vare, rose in the Senate and declared that the voters of Pennsylvania were a lot of "dunderheads."

The DAILY WASH... MERRY GO...

By DREW PEARSON and ROB...

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.

THERE are several A B C's to be kept in mind in gauging the ups and downs of the European barometer.

Probably the most essential is the fact that almost everything in the United States does in Europe is a direct result of developments in the Far East.

Among these the most important the unprecedented liaison between the United States State Department and the British Foreign Office. This began some time ago in dealing with China's currency problem.

Long before that the determination of a small group of Senators from a bloc of Far Western States to force up the price of silver had resulted in a policy of silver purchase by the United States Treasury. This, in turn, forced up the cost of living in China, eventually caused the abandonment of the silver standard by the Chinese Government.

Japan's military march into the northern provinces of China was partly an outgrowth of this silver policy. Japanese invasion would have come anyway, especially because of the preoccupation of the British fleet in the Mediterranean. But the silver policy hastened it.

Chinese Silver.

THE abandonment of silver and the depreciation of the Chinese dollar made it more difficult for Japanese goods to find a Chinese market. Japanese merchants found their wares piling up on the docks of Kobe and Osaka. Japanese factories began to close down.

This gave the Japanese military clique their excuse. They raised a hue and cry for the occupation of North China. And despite the protests of Great Britain and the hesitancy of the Japanese Foreign Office, eventually they got their way.

Meanwhile the British Foreign Office and the American State Department continue to play a close game. Occasionally there are slight signs of disharmony.

One of these came when Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, British adviser to China on its new currency policy, passed through Canada. He telegraphed Henry Morgenthau to meet him in Ottawa.

Henry, who felt that any Britisher who wanted to see him should come to Washington, wired back telling Sir Frederick, in effect, where he could get off.

But aside from this, Anglo-American policy in the Far East is almost hand-in-glove.

Stranger.

UP to his ears in work recently, Col. Horatio B. Hackett, assistant administrator of Public Works, gave strict orders he was not to be interrupted "by anyone."

A few hours after laying down this edict, Secretary Ickes, Administrator of Public Works, came into Hackett's outer office, started into the inner sanctum beyond.

"Here, here," snapped a receptionist, new to her job, "what are you doin? You can't go in there."

"Oh, the Colonel will see me," said Ickes mildly.

"He is seeing no one!" reprimanded the young lady.

"Not even the Secretary?"

"Well, perhaps, the Secretary, but no... you!"

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.

IN COMBING byways for current opinion at the grass roots, the outstanding impression is public indifference to the "big pieces" — the plain essentials of current events. The people ignore, for example:

That the sudden flickering of life in the League of Nations is not a flaring up of international idealism. It is England using the most available weapon against a potential deadly enemy — making a cat's paw out of France and the League and trying to make one out of us;

That the loss of half our farm export markets, of half our share of the world's total export trade, of all our favorable balance of total international trade and our rapid recession from the position of a creditor among the nations is not just a momentary dip in an established condition, but an established and fateful adverse trend;

That "inflation" is not government monkey-business with money or bank credit, but the public panic fear that may flow from it—and that, since panic cannot be con-

The DAILY WASHINGTON MERRY GO ROUND

By DREW PEARSON and ROBERT S. ALLEN

WASHINGTON, Dec. 4.

THERE are several A B C's to be kept in mind in gauging the ups and downs of the European barometer.

Probably the most essential is the fact that almost everything in the United States does in Europe is a direct result of developments in the Far East.

Among these the most important is the unprecedented liaison between the United States State Department and the British Foreign Office. This began some time ago in dealing with China's currency problem.

Long before that the determination of a small group of Senators from a bloc of Far Western States to force up the price of silver had resulted in a policy of silver purchase by the United States Treasury. This, in turn, forced up the cost of living in China, eventually caused the abandonment of the silver standard by the Chinese Government.

Japan's military march into the northern provinces of China was partly an outgrowth of this silver policy. Japanese invasion would have come anyway, especially because of the preoccupation of the British fleet in the Mediterranean. But the silver policy hastened it.

Chinese Silver.

THE abandonment of silver and the depreciation of the Chinese dollar made it more difficult for Japanese goods to find a Chinese market. Japanese merchants found their wares piling up on the docks of Kobe and Osaka. Japanese factories began to close down.

This gave the Japanese military clique their excuse. They raised a hue and cry for the occupation of North China. And despite the protests of Great Britain and the hesitancy of the Japanese Foreign Office, eventually they got their way.

Meanwhile the British Foreign Office and the American State Department continue to play a close game. Occasionally there are slight signs of disharmony.

One of these came when Sir Frederick Leith-Ross, British adviser to China on its new currency policy, passed through Canada. He telegraphed Henry Morgenthau to meet him in Ottawa.

Henry, who felt that any Britisher who wanted to see him should come to Washington, wired back telling Sir Frederick, in effect, where he could get off.

But aside from this, Anglo-American policy in the Far East is almost hand-in-glove.

Stranger.

UP to his ears in work recently, Col. Horatio B. Hackett, assistant administrator of Public Works, gave strict orders he was not to be interrupted "by anyone."

A few hours after laying down this edict, Secretary Ickes, Administrator of Public Works, came into Hackett's outer office, started into the inner sanctum beyond.

"Here, here," snapped a receptionist, new to her job, "what are you doin'? You can't go in there."

"Oh, the Colonel will see me," said Ickes mildly.

"He is seeing no one!" reprimanded the young lady.

"Not even the Secretary?"

"Well, perhaps, the Secretary, but no! you!"

Father vs. Son.

WHEN the Securities-Exchange Commission tested out the legality of the Holding Corporation Act, it sued Electric Bond and Share, of which the most important subsidiary is American and Foreign Power.

Director and one of the most important stockholders of American and Foreign Power is Owen D. Young, prominent Democrat.

Member of the Securities-Exchange Commission, which is suing his father's firm, is Philip Young.

Business Regulator.

THE next time Gov. Alf Landon makes a pass at the New Deal for regulating business, administrationists are prepared to blast right back at him with his own words.

In his recent Cleveland speech before the Ohio Chamber of Commerce, the Kansan deplored Roosevelt an efforts to regulate business. Later, Democratic marksmen began digging into the files and uncovered a prize bit of ammunition against Landon.

It consists of a telegram sent by him on Nov. 13, 1934, to Representative William P. Cole, chairman of the Congressional Oil Investigating Committee. In it, Landon, who is an oil operator himself, enthusiastically acclaims the Federal Government's regulatory measures in the industry. The wire reads:

"National and local benefits secured through co-operation of Federal Government with oil producing states and industry have been one of the largest factors toward increasing the purchasing power of the entire Southwest during the past year, encouraging general business improvements, enlarging pay rolls and proving that progress toward recovery can be made by honest co-ordinated efforts of states and Federal administration and industry. . . . . .

"Alf M. Landon, Governor."

Merry-Go-Round.

WHEN Amos and Andy missed a program—the first time in years—they were frolicking at the Maryland hunting lodge of Larry Richey, sleuth-secretary of ex-President Hoover. . . . Conspicuous on the second floor of the Archives Building—"designed in classic spirit and conceived in allegory"—is a door marked with large letters, "CUSPIDOR ROOM." It is a retreat in which a functionary washes spittoons. . . . Electric heaters used last winter to warm the homes of TVA's model town, Norris, Tenn., are being replaced by new heaters. . . . As a result of budget slashes not yet announced, the Bureau of Air Commerce will ground 35 of its inspectors. The bureau will have $100,000 less for inspection next year than this year. . . . The Old Age Townsend organization has between 600 and 700 paid organizers in the field working on a commission basis. Officials declined to say what they earn. . . . Secret Service blames repeal for increase in counterfeiting from 663 cases in 1925 to 3003 cases this year. Bootleggers, thrown out of work, have turned to making money in another sense. . . . The Department of Agriculture keeps a fruit archive of its own. In order to have a permanent record of varieties of fruits, the department employs an artist who does nothing but make and decorate true wax models of fruit.

John Lewis, With 700,000 Miners' Votes Behind Him, a Power to Be Reckoned With in Public Affairs.

By GEN. HUGH S. JOHNSON.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.

IN COMBING byways for current opinion at the grass roots, the outstanding impression is public indifference to the "big pieces" — the plain essentials of current events. The people ignore, for example:

That the sudden flickering of life in the League of Nations is not a flaring up of international idealism. It is England using the most available weapon against a potential deadly enemy — making a cat's paw out of France and the League and trying to make one out of us;

That the loss of half our farm export markets, of half our share of the world's total export trade, of all our favorable balance of total international trade and our rapid recession from the position of a creditor among the nations is not just a momentary dip in an established condition, but an established and baleful adverse trend;

That "inflation" is not government monkey-business with money or bank credit, but the public panic fear that may flow from it—and that, since panic cannot be controlled, you might as well talk about firing off a gun gradually as to talk about "gradual, controlled" inflation.

There are a dozen such examples, but the one that impresses me most just now is the apparent total public oversight of the stature of John Lewis in public affairs.

Seven hundred thousand miner voters follow him. He literally presented the rock-ribbed state of Pennsylvania to the Administration. "Happy" Chandler's Kentucky victory was a ninety-odd thousand majority. John Lewis' advice carried 10,000 votes—mostly traditionally Republican—to Happy. He has the balance of power in West Viriginia in his vest-pocket, and is the greatest single influence in Ohio. He has a magnificent war-chest. In an election in which the Democrats enter busted, he is their biggest possibility.

Another way to say all this is that he stands as a political colossus. The country can take comfort in the fact that he is a man—honest, courageous, patriotic, conservative—and with more common sense than 20 Brain Trusts.

DON C. SEITZ, WRITER, NEWSPAPER MAN, DIES

Former Business Manager of New York World—Author of Biographies.

By the Associated Press.

BROOKLYN, N. Y., Dec. 4.—Don C. Seitz, 73 years old, newspaper man, author and lecturer, died at his home here today of heart disease.

He was business manager of the old New York World, and had been city editor of the Brooklyn Eagle. Author of several books, he also had appeared frequently on the lecture platform.

Seitz, on the staff of the World for more than a quarter of a century, was especially critical of his own craft. Once he said newspapers were becoming prosperous but were useless as watchdogs of the public's interests.

In a series of articles on newspaper work which he wrote for the magazine Outlook, of which he served as associate editor for a short time, he reviewed the field of newspaper publishing as a constructive critic.

He went to the New York World as advertising manager in 1895, and from 1898 to 1923 was business manager of the World. From 1923 to 1926 he was manager of the Evening World.

He was actively connected with daily newspapers for 39 years. After leaving the Outlook in 1928, he became associate editor of the Churchman, serving there until 1932.

One of his best known books was "Joseph Pulitzer, His Life and Letters," published in 1924.

One of his early books was, "Training for the Newspaper Trade," published in 1916. He wrote several other books on travel and biography, including, "Horace Greeley," published in 1926; "The James Gordon Bennetts," 1928, and "Lincoln, the Politician," 1931.

'UNCLE DAN' A GUEST OF CITY'S BOY SCOUTS

Commissioner Beard in St. Louis for Opening of Merit Badge Show.

"Uncle Dan" Beard, 85-year-old commissioner of the Boy Scouts of America, who would have boys live in the open like pioneers most months of the year, came to St. Louis yesterday to talk at the Mark Twain dinner last night and to see the opening of the scout Merit Badge Show at the Arena tomorrow night.

He illustrated Mark Twain's "A Connecticut Yankee in King Arthur's Court," to begin an association with the famous author which lasted 20 years. He has done drawings for many other books and magazines, including his own numerous stories of animals and Indians and the better ways of sleeping outdoors and cooking pancakes on stones.

Accompanied by Mrs. Beard, he was greeted on arrival by scouts and scout officers at Union Station, and taken to the Park Plaza Hotel, where he will stay until Friday.

He told a reporter that college teachers and presidents had done more to break the morale of American youth than all the scout leaders in the country had done to build it up. He blamed their thoroughly scientific attitude for having destroyed the better things of the spirit.

Like most professional outdoor men, he scorned the vertigo city life brings and the tender feet of the city dweller who would venture into wild places. "Why, when a forest or a mountain area is set apart as a preserve, they insist on cutting a big road into the middle of it so they can ride to see things they ought to walk to."

St. Louis, he recalled, was as smoky when he visited it in 1875 as it is today, but the waterfront was a busier, better place. He was then engaged in mapping the city for a commercial map company, quite a task since all the houses and the names of the occupants had to be entered on the chart.

His rank as commissioner is the highest for volunteer leaders in the scout movement. He has been identified with scouting ("putting the 'out' in scouting," he said) since its beginning 25 years ago. A similar organization, the Sons of Daniel Boone, which he founded, was absorbed by the Boy Scouts.

St. Louis scout leaders entertained him with luncheon at Hotel Jefferson today. Tomorrow morning he will talk to students at John Burroughs School, and in the evening will hold reception at the show in the Arena. He and Mrs. Beard will leave for Suffern, N. Y., their home, on Friday.

HARVARD PROFESSOR SHOOTS SELF TO DEATH ACCIDENTALLY

Milman Parry Fatally Wounded Soon After Arrival With Wife at Los Angeles.

By the Associated Press

LOS ANGELES, Dec. 4.—The accidental discharge of a pistol, police said, caused the death late yesterday of Milman Parry, 32 years old, assistant professor of languages at Harvard University. Detectives said the weapon was discharged when Parry reached into a suitcase.

His wife was in another room of an apartment where the accident occurred.

They rented the apartment yesterday morning when they arrived by airplane to settle an estate in which Mrs. Parry's mother, Mrs. Mildred Tanhauser, Los Angeles, is interested.

By the Associated Press

CAMBRIDGE, Mass., Dec. 4.—Milman Parry was assistant professor of Greek and Latin and a tutor in the division of ancient languages at Harvard University.

EMPLOYE ADMITS HE STOLE AND FORGED PAYROLL CHECKS

Myron Shapiro, Head of Firm, Discovers Situation in Trying to Reconcile Accounts.

Forgery warrants against Ray Oglesby, 2739 Arsenal street, were issued yesterday after police had obtained a statement in which he admitted stealing blank payroll checks from the office of the Globe Poster Co., 2310 Locust street, forging the name of Myron R. Shapiro, president, and cashing eight of them for a total of $225.

Attempting to reconcile his accounts, Shapiro found canceled payroll checks which he recognized as forgeries. Unable to work because of an injury to his hand, Oglesby, an employe of the company, recently had spent his leisure time about the office.

New Nazi Order Against Jews.

BERLIN, Dec. 4 (Jewish Telegraphic Agency).—Instructions published in the German police gazette, the Deutsche Polizeibeamte, empower policemen to arrest without a warrant Jews seen with "Aryan" women in restaurants and other public places.

VARIETY IN CROWD AT PARCEL POST SALE

Housewives Vie With Second-Hand Dealers in Bidding on Unclaimed Matter.

There was almost as much variety in the crowd that attended an auction of articles from the dead parcel post office at the Progress Postal Station yesterday as there was in the fascinating jumble of goods.

Several hundred persons filled the benches and lined the walls of high, sky-lighted ceiling of the shipping room of the branch, at 807 North Seventeenth street. A jovial postal employe with a gray cotton work coat, horn-rimmed glasses and a delivery in plain English instead of the usual machine-gun jargon, was the auctioneer, standing on an improvised platform. Bidding was done by raising a numbered wooden paddle as the auctioneer called a price.

Bidding casually and with placid expressions, were the second-hand dealers, jobbers and cut-rate merchants to whom it was all in the day's work. Many of them had marked their ultimated bid, determined from expert inspection the day before, beside each article on the printed auction list, and beyond that the auctioneer could not cajole them.

Eager, sometimes excited, determined to get a bargain and visibly disappointed when the bidding went too high, were the housewives whose clothes indicated they were of moderate means. But that bargain-hunting had its appeal as a pastime as well as a budget-paring device was shown by the presence of more expensively dressed women here and there, particularly one smartly-groomed and sleek in a mink coat, who examined many of the articles in canvas baskets along the side. She grew bored and left, however, when the sale lingered too long among the second-hand clothing.

There was the young man who bought a diamond engagement ring—"genuine, not glass, folks,"—for $10, and whose embarrassment made him a fair target for the inevitable auctioneer's joke. There were families—father with weary eyes, mother harassed and thin-shouldered, children pinch-faced trying to get something very cheap in "worn winter coats" and unable to meet bids of $1 or $1.50; youths in caps fascinated by watches, razors, pocket knives, rings, pen and pencil sets, spark plugs and other automobile accessories, and gadgets. Negroes, many of them from the neighborhood and "jus' lookin' on."

A lot of the articles sold for about what they would have in a second-hand store or pawnshop. Dresses and women's suits brought from 75 cents up to $4 or $5, cigarets $1 a carton, pen and pencil sets $1.50 or so, 12 pairs of used spectacles $2 for the lot, a 17-jewel gold watch $15, 15 used pocket knives $1.75 for the lot, 37 pieces of silverware, $3.25.

STATE TO SHIFT RELIEF BURDEN STARTING JAN. 1

Administrator Crossley Notifies St. Louis and Counties They Must Take It Over Then.

$1,700,000 LAST OF FEDERAL FUNDS

Estimates 60,000 Will Require Direct Aid—Suggests Campaign for Private Contributions.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 4.—Wallace Crossley, State Relief Administrator, today notified the City of St. Louis and the county courts of each of the 114 counties in Missouri that the Missouri Relief Commission would expect local governments to take over the care of unemployable persons, now on relief, after Jan. 1.

He said the State had received what was declared to be its last allotment of Federal funds for direct relief and after Jan. 1 no State funds would be allotted to the counties for the support of unemployables.

Crossley said this policy had been agreed on by the executive committee of the Missouri Relief Commission and Gov. Park, who supervises the distribution of State funds, as a result of an order by Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator in Washington, for liquidation of the relief work, as of Dec. 1.

$1,200,000 Federal Allotment.

The State last week received an allotment of $1,200,000 of Federal relief money, which was said to be the final one. This allotment, with a balance of about $500,000 of Federal money, will make $1,700,000 of Federal funds available for December and the closing up of the direct relief work, so far as Federal funds are concerned, unless the next Congress, which meets in January, makes provisions for continuance of the work.

A balance of about $2,000,000 remains in a State appropriation of $6,000,000 made by the 1935 Legislature for the State's share of the cost of relief work during the biennial period of 1935 and 1936. The act provides that not more than $500,000 of this appropriation may be expended for relief in any one month. This appropriation will be exhausted by April 1, if the Relief Commission continues to draw on it for the maximum amount monthly, as it has done since the appropriation was approved.

"The Government expects the State, counties and communities to assume full responsibility, so far as direct relief is concerned," Crossley said in the notice, "and of course the State cannot carry the entire burden of what is known as outdoor relief."

Estimate of Number on Relief.

Crossley has estimated that the relief load in Missouri was about 140,000 cases on Dec. 1 after deducting cases of persons transferred from relief rolls to employment on Federal Works Progress Administration projects, he estimated 60,000 or 65,000 cases requiring direct relief would remain after Jan. 1.

"The Federal Government is doing its part in providing a long-time work relief program under the Works Progress Administration and other governmental agencies," Crossley said, "and is employing, upon a security wage basis, most of those on relief rolls who are able to work. But all cannot be given employment so the residue of employables who are destitute and dependent, as well as all unemployables, have become a State and local responsibility."

Crossley said the change in policy would mean a heavy burden for some of the counties, "but a way must be found to meet the emergency." He said that for a long time the burden had been carried, wholly or in part, by the Relief Commission. This is a friendly, but firm notice to the effect that after Jan. 1, no State or Federal funds will be available for the relief of your unemployable dependent," he said.

Suggests Private Aid.

Virtually all of the county courts now are engaged in making up their budgets for 1936, under the State budget law.

Crossley recalled that State laws had been enacted by the 1935 Legislature transferring the bulk of the cost of caring for insane patients in State hospitals from the counties to the State, and establishing a State old age pension system. The pension system is not yet in full operation.

He said these acts would relieve the counties of former heavy costs for support of insane patients, and the old age pension would care for a considerable portion of the unemployables now on relief.

He suggested the county courts should place a share of the responsibility upon the cities and towns in their counties, and that efforts should be made to raise funds in every community by voluntary contribution, to supplement local public funds in caring for the destitute.

STATE TO SHIFT RELIEF BURDEN STARTING JAN. 1

Administrator Crossley Notifies St. Louis and Counties They Must Take It Over Then.

$1,700,000 LAST OF FEDERAL FUNDS

Estimates 60,000 Will Require Direct Aid—Suggests Campaign for Private Contributions.

By the Jefferson City Correspondent of the Post-Dispatch.

JEFFERSON CITY, Dec. 4.—Wallace Crossley, State Relief Administrator, today notified the City of St. Louis and the county courts of each of the 114 counties in Missouri that the Missouri Relief Commission would expect local governments to take over the care of unemployable persons, now on relief, after Jan. 1.

He said the State had received what was declared to be its last allotment of Federal funds for direct relief and after Jan. 1 no State funds would be allotted to the counties for the support of unemployables.

Crossley said this policy had been agreed on by the executive committee of the Missouri Relief Commission and Gov. Park, who supervises the distribution of State funds, as a result of an order by Harry L. Hopkins, Federal Relief Administrator in Washington, for liquidation of the relief work, as of Dec. 1.

$1,200,000 Federal Allotment.

The State last week received an allotment of $1,200,000 of Federal relief money, which was said to be the final one. This allotment, with a balance of about $500,000 of Federal money, will make $1,700,000 of Federal funds available for December and the closing up of the direct relief work, so far as Federal funds are concerned, unless the next Congress, which meets in January, makes provisions for continuance of the work.

A balance of about $2,000,000 remains in a State appropriation of $6,000,000 made by the 1935 Legislature for the State's share of the cost of relief work during the biennial period of 1935 and 1936. The Government expects the State, counties and communities to assume full responsibility, so far as direct relief is concerned," Crossley said in the notice, "and of course the State cannot carry the entire burden of what is known as outdoor relief."

Estimate of Number on Relief.

He said that for a long time the burden had been carried, wholly or in part, by the Relief Commission. This is a friendly, but firm notice to the effect that after Jan. 1, no State or Federal funds will be available for the relief of your unemployable dependent," he said.

Dr. Stahlheber, who has offices at 2013A Salisbury street, filed an entry of appearance but did not contest the suit.

The body of John J. Warden, 53 years old, an unemployed salesman, was found hanging from a rafter in the basement of his home at 5215 Minerva avenue yesterday by his brother-in-law, Raymond Ahern, with whom he lived.

Ahern, who found the body when he went into the basement to fire the furnace, said Warden apparently had kicked a box from under his feet after securing the rope. He told police Warden had been out of work for three years and had been ill. Mrs. Warden also survives.

DRAINAGE DITCH WORK GIVES 7000 JOBS ON EAST SIDE

Men Taken Off St. Clair and Madison County Relief Rolls—WPA Allotment of $3,561,536.

More than 7000 men have been taken off St. Clair and Madison County relief rolls and assigned to work on drainage ditches of the East St. Louis Levee and Sanitary District under a $3,561,536 WPA allotment, one of the largest approved in Illinois.

Employment of the men began with 200 last Wednesday and the full quota, fixed at 11,000, is expected to be completed Saturday. On the basis of the full quota, the payroll every two weeks will amount to about $250,000 and the allotment will last until July 1, Richard Favorau, Assistant WPA director of the East St. Louis district, said today to a Post-Dispatch reporter.

A beginning allotment of $100,000 was released a week ago to the East St. Louis district and $1,500,000 has been received by the State WPA office at Chicago for proportionate distribution in the State.

Of the $3,561,536 allotment, $2,047,320 is to be spent in St. Clair County and $1,514,261 in Madison County. Employment was divided on a basis of 6500 in St. Clair County and 4500 in Madison County. Of those employed 40 per cent are Negroes.

The work, which is entirely hand labor, consists mainly of building 2½ miles of dirt levees bordering a canal in the Cahokia section of the Levee District, which comprises parts of St. Clair and Madison counties; four and a half miles of new drainage ditches, mostly in St. Clair County; widening ditch bottoms; increasing the height of canal levees; and cleaning out ditches where plant growth and silt has impeded drainage.

In Madison County the rate of pay is $52 a month for a 30-hour week, and in St. Clair County, $55, based on living costs and other factors as determined by WPA officials. Supervision of the work is under WPA engineers, who drafted the work plans with the Levee District engineers. About 10 per cent of those employed are labor foremen, time keepers and others, not from the relief roles. They receive $58 or $60 a month. All those employed had been on relief before last Nov. 1, and preference in assigning jobs was given to those on relief before last May 1.

A continuous pay for the men will be maintained, Favreau said. Even if inclement weather does not permit work every day, all men who report will be credited with 30 hours a week, Favreau said, and he expects the average hours of work actually will be close to that figure.

At present there is a shortage of picks and shovels. In some districts the men take turns with the few that are available, and in others they report and are unable to work. Favreau said a shipment of tools was expected in a few days.

RETAIL DRY GOODS HEAD TURNS BACK ON CONFERENCE ON NRA

David Ovens Tells Co-Ordinator Berry Business Codes Can Not Be Enforced.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—David Ovens, president of the National Retail Dry Goods Association, announced today he had declined an invitation to attend a conference to be held in Washington Monday under call of George L. Berry, co-ordinator of industrial co-operation.

"The experiences of retailers under the general NRA retail code," Ovens said in a letter to Berry "proved that such a code is impossible of effective administration and that those retailers who observed its provisions were placed at a competitive disadvantage with those who paid little or no attention to them."

Ovens further stated "It appears from the proposed organization of the Council of Industrial Progress that the consumer, neither directly or indirectly by adequate retail representation on the proposed council is to be given an equal voice with representatives of industry and labor."

OTIS SKINNER.

OTIS SKINNER RECALLS OLD DAYS 'ON ROAD'

Contrasts Acting With Lecturing—How Theda Bara Sold War Bonds.

Otis Skinner, the actor, has been in St. Louis for the last few days taking things easy between lectures on a three-month tour of the country. It is the first time in his more than 50 years of "going on the road" that he is appearing solely at the lectern and not behind the footlights.

He finds the change rather interesting and says he is learning a lot of new things. There is a great deal of difference, even for an experienced actor, between giving a lecture and acting in a play. "When you're in a play," he said, "you co-operate with the other actors and more or less ignore the audience. But in a lecture you've got to put yourself over to the audience—you've really got to mingle with the people."

His Three Lectures.

He has three lectures prepared from which whoever is arranging for the talk may choose. Two of them are wholly autobiographical and he gives them the titles, "Footlights and Spotlights" (the title of his written autobiography) and "A Thousand and One Night Stands." In the first he talks mainly about the plays in which he has been and in the second he tells anecdotes of stage life. The third lecture is devoted entirely to other actors he knew and is called, "Giants of the Past."

The one called "Footlights and Spotlights" is the most popular. He will deliver that at a girls' college in Terre Haute tonight, and then return here to deliver it at The Principia on Friday night. In this he not only lectures, but occasionally stops and acts bits from some of the plays in which he became famous.

He doesn't mind the lecturing itself—"it's easy to lecture if you do nothing but talk about yourself," he said—but he is somewhat abashed at the social functions that he has to attend. "When I went on the road on the stage," he said, "I was able to keep pretty much to myself. But now every group that invites me to their town feels it must take me in tow. So this person and that person is introduced to me and I am told I must go here and go there, and all that's pretty hard for a 77-year-old man."

Still Ruddy and Spry.

Skinner hardly looks his years. He was last here with Maude Adams in "The Merchant of Venice" in 1932. He is still ruddy and spry and vigorous in his language, and still careful in dress. During the interview he wore a morning suit.

It was a rambling interview and toward the end went from one subject to the next about as follows: He thought people were getting a little "fed up" with movies and were welcoming "the comeback" of the stage. The last movie he had seen was "Midsummer Night's Dream," which he didn't like. He thought Shakespeare wasn't any good for the movies, anyway; the lines were too long, the action not swift enough. He wondered how Norma Shearer would play Juliet, and then he thought he remembered that Theda Bara had played Juliet in the silent films. He wasn't sure, but at any rate it reminded him of a story about Theda Bara.

"I met her once, and only once, and under somewhat unusual conditions," he said. "It was during the war and all of us in the theater were supposed to get down on our knees and whoop things up for the great American bonds. Why, we even had to go out between acts of a show and reel off all this fake patriotism and that sort of stuff.

"There was one time when they had a big meeting right where Park avenue runs into the Grand Central Building. I was there shouting my lungs out and there were thousands of people there, all of whom had come to see the stage folk and not a one of whom was going to buy a damn bond.

"All of a sudden while I was talking, I heard a band coming down the street. It was Sousa's band with old John Philip at the head, twirling his stick and doing all kinds of stunts. And right behind the band was an open car with Theda Bara in it. The band came closer and all of a sudden a whole flock of Fox press agents—Fox was filming Theda Bara in all those snaky pictures—swarmed over the speaker's stand and I was pushed neatly aside.

"The crowd cheered and went wild while Theda Bara was brought to the speaker's stand. Then they put a big table of pictures of herself in front of her and told the crowd that everyone who bought a bond would get an autographed picture of Theda Bara. And, boy, the bonds went like hot cakes."

PARENTS AGREE TO BAR LIQUOR IN HOME TO GET SON FREED

U. S. Judge Puts Youth on Probation After Making Him Promise Not to Drink.

The parents of Joseph Rice, 20 years old, of Granite City, had to pledge themselves not to violate the liquor laws or to have liquor in their home before Federal Judge Fred L. Wham placed their son on probation for two years in East St. Louis today. Joseph himself had to promise not to drink liquor.

Joseph was caught by revenue agents with five gallons of untaxed alcohol in an automobile. He told the judge he bought it for $12 and had intended to sell it. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Tony Rice, were called before the judge.

To the father, a gray-haired bricklayer, the judge said: "You have been convicted twice for liquor law violations. The probation officer's investigation has disclosed your reputation in your neighborhood for such violations is bad. Probation for your son depends on whether he goes back to a good home. Joseph can't go straight if his father continues to violate the law." To them both he said: "Will you pledge yourselves not to violate the law and to have no intoxicating liquor in your home, legal or illegal?" They nodded their heads.

WHEAT MARKET DECLINES WITH WINNIPEG GRAIN

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—More than 1½ cents a bushel fall of Chicago wheat prices late today accompanied downturns of the Winnipeg wheat market.

Inferences were drawn by Chicago traders that Canadian wheat would be available whenever wanted, and that since Canadian wheat is being imported into the United States weakness of Winnipeg quotations could be disregarded. Competition of Canadian wheat receipts in the Chicago market was illustrated by arrival of 300,000 bushels of bonded wheat here today from Fort William, Ontario.

Wheat closed unsettled, ⅜@½c under yesterday's finish; May 95½@⅝c; corn ½c off to ¼c up; May 58⅜@½c; oats at ¼@½c decline, and provisions 2 cents to 7 cents down.

Only slight downturns of Chicago prices early today followed official announcement the Canadian wheat surplus would be merchandized conservatively at world competitive prices.

In various quarters it was held the announcement should tend to restore market confidence, as indicating an anti-dumping policy.

Opening ⅛@⅜c lower, May 96⅜@½c, Chicago wheat futures held near then to these limits. Corn started ⅛@½c up, May 58⅝, and for the time being altered little. Later in the morning wheat was off over cent and corn share off to as much up.

Although formal disclosure of Canadian Government wheat selling plans had some temporary unsettling effect, the immediate extreme net result on Chicago values was a dip of less than a cent a bushel. Liverpool Cables said Canada's notice of intention of disposing of her wheat surplus at competitive prices had been more or less generally expected in English trade circles.

Some wheat specialists here asserted the Canadian Government statement of policy would bring a feeling of relief to the grain trade the world over, especially as specifying there would be no "fire sale" and that neither would Canada's surplus be held at exorbitant premiums over other wheat. Chicago estimates of Canada's surplus were that it aggregated around 200,000,000 bushels Aug. 1. Since then, fairly liberal sales abroad had been made, and about 20,000,000 bushels disposed of to the United States.

Corn, oats and provisions prices showed little change.

Wheat futures purchases yesterday totaled 11,793,000 bushels, corn 6,215,000. Open interest in wheat was 124,304,000 bushels and in corn 29,765,000.

ST. LOUIS MERCHANTS' EXCHANGE, Dec. 4.—Wheat and corn futures closed lower, reflecting factor that caused similar price movements on other markets.

Winnipeg wheat opened ¼@⅜c lower. After noon it was off 1c. The close was 1@1⅛c net lower.

Liverpool wheat started ¼@½d higher and in a subsequent cable was ⅜@⅝d up. The close was unchanged to ½d lower.

St. Louis Cash Grain.

In the cash grain market today wheat was 1c lower. Corn unchanged to 1c higher and oats unchanged.

Sales of cash grain made on the floor of the exchange were as follows:

Wheat: No. 2 red winter wheat $1.01@1.02; No. 4 red winter wheat 98c. Corn: No. 5 mixed corn 52½c; No. 3 yellow corn 57c; No. 4 yellow corn 55½@56c; No. 5 yellow corn 52¾@54c; sample grade yellow corn 51c; No. 2 white corn 60c; No. 5 white corn 54@55c. Oats: No. 3 white oats 30½c.

Local wheat receipts, which were 10,500 bushels, compared with 27,000 a week ago and 4500 a year ago, included six cars local and one through. Corn receipts, which were 57,000 bu., compared with 42,000 a week ago and 61,500 a year ago included 36 cars local and two through. Oats receipts which were 4000 bushels, compared with 8000 a week ago and 4000 a year ago, included two cars local. Hay receipts were two cars through.

STEEL INGOT OUTPUT BEST SINCE JUNE, 1934

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—"Pig iron production in November totaled 2,065,913 tons, or 68,864 tons a day, compared with 1,978,411 tons, or 63,820 tons daily, in October," says the Iron Age. "The gain, in terms of daily rate, was 7.9 per cent. Furnaces in blast on Dec. 1 numbered 122, as against 116 Nov. 1. A net increase of six. The production rate Dec. 1 was 70,095 tons per day, compared with 67,655 tons one month previous.

"Steel production, despite the failure of a broad advance of finished steel prices to develop, continues to rise. At 57 per cent, one point higher than last week, ingot output is at the highest level since the third week in June, 1934, when production was sharply stimulated by forward covering prior to an increase in code prices. Anticipatory buying may have helped swell current tonnage, though the fact that operations have continued to expand following the reaffirmation of prices suggests that protective commitments were not heavy. In many cases such orders were merely tentative, scheduled to go into effect when word came through that prices were actually being advanced. Pressure for deliveries of finished steel on order has been relieved, but few buyers have orderd shipments suspended, nothwithstanding the approach of the inventory period.

"In the case of sheet steel the specifications of the leading mill have increased rather than declined, raising its operations to 80 per cent of capacity and sustaining the average for the sheet industry at 75 per cent. At Chicago a leading steel producer has postponed necessary mill alterations for a second time, and ingot output in the district has risen one and one-half points to 63½ per cent of capacity. Raw steel production is also up two points to 60 per cent in the valleys, one point to 41 per cent in the Philadelphia district, two points to 82 per cent at Cleveland, nine points to 42 per cent at Buffalo and four points to 50 per cent in the south. The Pittsburgh district alone shows a decline—from 46 to 44 per cent.

A private end-November report placed the indicated crop at 10,962,000 bales compared with an estimate of 11,622,000 by the same authority last month.

The weekly reports of the Weather Bureau said that after the rains early in the week, conditions were favorable for cotton picking in the Northwestern belt but that further damage to open cotton in the fields had been reported, with considerable cotton remaining to be picked in Eastern Arkansas.

The market was quiet later in the morning, and prices moved within a narrow range. At mid-day December was ruling around 11.85c and October 11.30c, with the general list showing net losses of about 6 to 12 points.

RAILS SURGE FORWARD IN LATE TRADE, AIDING LIST

Market Becomes Active at Start of Final Hour After a Resting Spell During Which Early Gains Were Shaded by Profit Taking —Exceptions to Final Upturn.

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—A heavy demand for railroad shares that lifted some into new high ground for the recovery movement held the stock market firmly in the advancing column today.

Closing prices, generally under the day's best, ranged from small fractions to around 3 points, with the exception of an occasional soft spot among issues that were singled out for profit taking, all groups were well represented. Sales approximated 2,850,000 shares.

The commodity trend was backward throughout the day. Wheat dipped more than a cent a bushel, corn was nearly that much lower and cotton lost 15 to around 40 cents a bale. Corporate bonds were mostly higher and U. S. Governments continued in demand. Foreign exchanges were about a standoff.

Shares showing extreme firmness included Union Pacific, Santa Fe, Pennsylvania, Great Northern, Delaware & Hudson, Central of New Jersey, U. S. Smelting, Kennecott, Howe Sound, Cerro de Pasco, American Radiator, U. S. Steel, Youngstown Sheet & Tube, Johns-Manville, Westinghouse, American Telephone, Schenley and U. S. Industrial Alcohol. Easing tendencies held such shares as Chrysler, American Can, Montgomery Ward and du Pont.

Wheat finished unsettled ⅜ to 1½ cents a bushel lower, while corn and oats were ½ off to about that much higher. Cotton lost 45 to 95 cents a bale.

In foreign exchanges, sterling was ¼ of a cent higher at $4.93½ and French francs were unchanged at 6.58¾ cents in mid-afternoon market.

News of the Day.

The financial community head talk of an impending rise in the price of crude oil in the Mid-Continent area, but a careful check at the offices of most of the large concerns failed to substantiate the rumors. Recent advances in the price of gasoline and various grades of fuel oils in several sections were believed to have started the gossip.

Dividend news and corporation earnings reports continued to reflect expansion in domestic industry and railroad carloadings reports of some of the larger carriers, while slightly below the preceding week, showed a gratifying gain over the same period a year ago. Additional statistics covering net railway operating income for November tended to bear out previous forecasts that it would beat the October showing, the best in several years.

Midweek Trade Summaries.

Improved prospects for European peace, as reported by overnight cables, and another strong stock market in London, drew most attention prior to the opening. The strength of British funds and heavy demands for shares of American companies listed on the London Exchange were features.

Although seasonal influences were evident in some sections of midweek trade reports, there was much to encourage the bullish element. Earnings reports and dividend news contained the brightest elements.

Electric power output last week receded somewhat more than was expected, the Associated Press adjusted index declining to 104.2 from 104.9 in the preceding week. The output of 1,876,684,000 kilowatt hours, as reported by the Edison Electric Institute, was, however, more than 11 per cent greater than in the same week a year ago.

In its regular view of the steel industry, "Iron Age" found production rising despite the fact that the general advance in prices that had been expected last week failed to materialize. "Anticipatory buying may have helped to swell the current total," the publication said, "although the fact that operations have continued to expand following the reaffirmation of prices suggests that protective commitments were not large." Automobile makers continue to take large tonnages, the review says, adding that a sharp increase in orders for certain types of steel is in prospect after Dec. 15.

Closing prices and net change of the 15 most active stocks:

Radio 12, up ⅛; N. Y. Central 29¼, up 1⅛; Anaconda 27⅞, up 1½; Consol. Oil 10⅜, up ¼; North Am. Avia. 6⅛, up ⅛; Penn R. R. 32⅜, up 1⅛; Great North. Ry. pf. 34½, up 2; Mont. Elected Anheuser-Busch Vice-President.

All officers and directors of Anheuser-Busch, Inc., were re-elected at stockholders' a directors' meetings. In addition Homer F. Ziegler, manager of the yeast department and an employe of the company for 35 years, was elected a vice-president.

MORE THAN SEASONAL DECLINE IN POWER OUTPUT LAST WEEK

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Registering a more than seasonal decline in electric power output for the week ended Nov. 30, the Associated Press adjusted index declined to 104.2 from 104.9 the week previous. A year ago it was 97.0.

The total of 1,876,684,000 kilowatt hours reported today for the week ended Nov. 30 by the Edison Electric Institute represented a drop of 3.9 per cent from the preceding week.

It was the first recession since the week ended Oct. 19. During the past five weeks power production has risen steadily to new record highs.

The decline reflected to some extent the Thanksgiving day holiday.

The Associated Press index, which is based on 1929-30 as 100, is adjusted for seasonal and long-term trends. The range of recent years follows:

| | 1935 | 1934 | 1933 |
|---|---|---|---|
| High | 105.5 | 97.4 | 91.9 |
| Low | 94.1 | 91.9 | 80.2 |

The week's total as reported by the institute was 11.5 per cent above the like week a year ago. For the week ended Nov. 23, it was 14.5 per cent ahead of the corresponding week of 1934.

All major geographic regions scored gains over the week last year. Percentage advances were: New England, 11.5; Middle Atlantic, 9.6; central industrial, 18.6; west central, 9.2; Southern states, 12.2; Rocky Mountain, 17.1, and Pacific Coast, 12.8.

$20,540,000 BOND TRADE; RAILS LEAD

By the Associated Press.

NEW YORK, Dec. 4.—Continued accumulation of railroad bonds gave the listed market its greatest source of activity and strength today. Gains ranged from small fractions to more than a point, and a few issues were lifted into new 1935 high ground. Closing prices were in most cases close to the best of the day.

U. S. Government issues dropped back toward the close, to end mixed, 2-32ds lower to 5-32ds higher. At one time during the day advances were uniform and ranged up to 9-32ds. Foreign bonds were given a boost by substantial recovery in Italian issues.

Final prices of active bonds in the domestic corporation division included Delaware & Hudson 4s, up 1 point at 78; Great Northern 4½s, up ⅞ at 93⅞; Katy 5s, up 1¾ at 57; Federal Light & Traction 5s, up ⅞ at 97⅛, and New England Telephone 5s, up ½ at 121¾.

Some of the Italian bonds got up more than 4 points at one time and a generally steady tone ruled other foreign issues. Germa nDawes 7s were 1⅞ higher at 39⅞.

Bond sales today reached $20,540,000.

TRUST COMPANY LOSES ACTION AGAINST MRS. WINNER

Referee Refuses to Dismiss Debt Extension Plea by Midwife in Muench-Ware Baby Case.

The petition of the Mississippi Valley Trust Co. to dismiss a debtor's proposal for an extension of time in which to pay debts, which was granted last June to Mrs. Rebecca Winner, 6015 Maple avenue, the midwife in the Muench-Ware baby case, was denied yesterday by Referee in Bankruptcy John L. Plowman.

The trust company alleged Mrs. Winner had failed to submit monthly statements concerning the collection of rents and operating expenses of her Maple avenue apartment, where the Ware baby was born. The company had requested the dismissal of the proceedings, and also that the referee recommend to the Federal Court that a restraining order be set aside and it be allowed to foreclose the property under a $14,000 mortgage.

Cecil Winner, son of Mrs. Winner, explained the staements were late for October and September because his mother's records had been subpenaed by the St. Louis Court of Appeals for the baby hearing. John M. Hadley, attorney for the trust company, pointed out the records had been subpenaed Oct. 12, two days after the October statement was due.

After hearing evidence that all back statements had been submitted, Referee Plowman denied the petition, without prejudice. Mrs. Winner filed a debtor's petition Dec. 26, 1934, and obtained an extension of time in which to pay her debts June 24 when Referee Hope approved her proposal, under which she has retained ownership of the property.

DOCTOR HONORED

—By a Post-Dispatch Staff Photographer.

WOMAN DOCTOR TELLS OF 40-YEAR CAREER

Henrietta Borck Drove Team in Early Days to Visit Patients.

Dr. Henrietta A. S. Borck, who was elected recently a second vice-president of the St. Louis Medical Society in conformity with its practice of occasionally honoring woman members, has been a practicing physician here for 40 years and still maintains offices at 4118 North Grand boulevard.

The widow of Dr. Edward Borck, a surgeon in the Union Army during the Civil War, who practiced here from 1872 until his death in 1912, she recalled today to A Post-Dispatch reporter that she assisted her husband in his operations and often drove a team to visit patients.

Diminutive and alert, with her hair combed tightly back, she has been a familiar figure at medical society meetings for years, participating in discussions from the floor, proud, she said today, "of my willingness to discuss any subject with anyone." She was among those who campaigned for the erection of the society's building at 3839 Lindell boulevard and has been active in urging higher medical educational standards.

Germany to St. Louis.

Although she never fails to read of current medical developments, she likes now to recall the old days, disclosing that she met her prospective husband when she was a girl in Emden, Germany.

Dr. Borck, who was her father's brother-in-law, visited their Emden home when he was a delegate to an international medical congress at Berlin. She returned with him to St. Louis, started as an office girl at his private hospital at Ninth and Salisbury streets, became so interested in medicine that she studied nursing, then entered medical school, obtaining an M. D. degree from the Missouri Woman's Medical College of St. Louis in 1894. Three years later she obtained another degree from the Homeopathic College of Missouri and the following year was married.

After their marriage she shared offices with her husband in their 20-room house at 3928 North Twentieth street, moving only six months ago "because the house was too big for me."

"Consultations Cash."

Dr. Borck receives most of her patients at her office which adjoins her living quarters. Her diplomas hang on the walls. A sign, "Consultations Invariably Cash," reflects the trend of the times.

Without much patience for "medical fads" she thinks the greatest fundamental advance made in medical science in her day is the development of preventive medicine, and regards as especially important the creation of anti-toxin serum and serums protecting against scarlet fever and diphtheria.

The X-ray, too, she said, in a marked German accent, is "first-class," and recalled in her early days that "it was operate and an end to it."

But all the textbooks and research facilities in the world won't help a physician unless he used "good judgment," Dr. Borck said.

"Always, it is necessary to think first," she observed, "and the doctor who forgets there is common sense in medicine like in anything else had better stop practicing."

NEW G.O.P. COMMITTEEWOMAN

City Organization Seats Mrs. Otto H. Hempelmann for 12th Ward.

The Republican City Committee, holding its monthly meeting last night, seated Mrs. Otto H. Hempelmann, 6218 South Kingshighway, as a Twelfth Ward committeewoman. She succeeded Mrs. Marie Ammon, who resigned some time ago. Mrs. Hempelmann has been active in politics in the Carondelet district for a number of years.

The committee refrained from action in connection with the visit here Dec. 16 of former President Herbert Hoover. As spokesman for teh committee told a Post-Dispatch reporter the members were "not tnthusiastic" over the visit. Hoover will address the John Marshall Republican Club, consisting of about 70 St. Louis lawyers, and his speech will be broadcast nationally.

WPA LEADERS REFUSE UNION PAY DEMANDS

Labor Men Confer for Three Hours With Matthew Murray in Mayor's Office.

A delegation from Central Trades and Labor Union and the Building Trades Council conferred with Matthew S. Murray, State administrator of the WPA, and others at Mayor Dickmann's office for nearly three hours yesterday in a fruitless effort to arranget for employment of union men at union wage scales on WPA work.

The union group, numbering about 30, argued for employment at union pay rates for monthly time equivalent to the security wage provision. They were led by Thomas Quinn and Jonh C. Church, president and secretary, respectively, of Building Trades Council; William M. Brandt, secretary of Central Trades and Labor Union, and P. J. Morrin, president of the International Ironworkers' Union.

Others present included Joseph A. Amend, local district director of the WPA; Mayor Dickmann, City Counselor Hay and President Brown of the Board of Public Service.

Union Delegation's Complaint.

It was complained by the union delegation that a WPA rule giving preference in employment to persons on relief rolls bared many unemployed union men who had been kept off the relief lists by contributions from the unions. They declared that the Typographical Union here had spent $500,000 in this way and the building trades $300,000. Various orders were cited in an effort to show that the WPA had exempted 10 per cent of its working force from the relief roll and security wage scale provisions.

However, Murray, who complimented the unions for what they had done for their own men, said the primary idea of the WPA under President Roosevelt's order was to remove persons from the relief rolls. He said the WPA had put 79,473 persons to work in Missouri, including about 27,000 in St. Louis and 11,700 in Kansas City.

His office approved applications for $90,000,000 worth of work in the State, but only $19,000,000 was allotted by Washington, he continued. Therefore, he insisted, he could not accept the union request, for lack of money. He agreed to try to arrange for using skilled workers from the unions to finish specific individual improvements, if the supply of workers from the relief rolls ran out, but declared it would be impossible to adopt such a practice for the whole program. He added that he knew of some union men who had been earning no more than the equivalent of the security wage because of lack of activity in their trades.

Strikes as an Alternative.

Morrin and some of the other union representatives said it appeared to them the only recourse to gain their point would be to call strikes, as had been done elsewhere. The Mayor said that would be unwise and Hay argued that the city had tried to be fair and helpful to the unions. Dickmann urged the unions to "try to work it out." Brown predicted that about $3,000,000 worth of heavy construction for the city, aided by the PWA, would be placed under contract within the next few months.

The delegation proposed to see Harry L. Hopkins, National WPA Administrator, who was here for a speech last night, but Murray told them Hopkins' time would be entirely taken up with other matters while here.

The union men also expressed fear that acceptance by them of security wage rates would encourage private employers to reduce their pay to the same level from union scales.

THREE STEPS TO RELIEVING CONSTIPATION

Measure-out a cleansing dose of liquid laxative, regulating the amount to suit the age, condition and individual need.

Tomorrow, take less; let the regular muscular action of the bowels do part of the work—

Reduce the dose each time, until regularity has been completely restored.

It has the approval of the doctors

Any mother knows the reason when her child stops playing, eats little, is hard to manage. Constipation. But what a pity so few know the sensible way to set things right!

The ordinary laxatives, of even ordinary strength, should be given in very moderate amounts.

A liquid laxative is the answer, mothers. The answer to all your worries over constipation. A liquid can be measured. The dose can be exactly suited to any age or need. Just reduce the dose each time, until the bowels are moving of their own accord and need no help.

This treatment will succeed with any child and with any adult.

Physicians use liquid laxatives. Hospitals use the liquid form. If it is best for their use, it is best for home use. And today, there are at least a million families that would have no other kind in the house.

The liquid laxative generally used is Dr. Caldwell's Syrup Pepsin. It is a doctor's prescription, now so widely known that you can get it all ready for use at any drugstore, anywhere. It contains senna and cascara — both natural laxatives that form no habit.

Try Syrup Pepsin! It will make you wonder how you could ever get along with any cathartic that disturbs the system, and actually retards your return to regularity.

"My Empire" Wants Peace.
"Me, Too," Says Selassie.
The Three Umbrellas.

By ARTHUR BRISBANE.
(Copyright, 1935.)

ENGLAND'S Lord High Chancellor, Viscount Hailsham, read the King's speech, written by the King's Cabinet. The King's reference to steps "urgently necessary to safeguard my empire" are recommended to this Government. We haven't any "empire," exactly, but we have a republic worth defending. Some of our loose billions might be well spent in that direction.

Ignoring some Italian friction, the King went on to say "my relations with foreign Powers continue friendly."

Mentioning the Italian misunderstanding, he said "My Government will continue to exert their influence in favor of peace." If it does, peace will come.

Haile Selassie, Emperor of Ethiopia, sensibly asked the Patriarch Johannes, supreme authority of the Ethiopian Coptic Church, to arrange peace, if he can, with Mussolini, and Abuna Cyril, high bishop of his church, is also asked by Haile Selassie to do his best.

And now comes the important report that Haile Selassie has agreed to give part of his territory to Italy in return for peace.

Prince Sumi of Japan, brother of the Mikado, fourth son of the late Emperor Yoshihito, takes the title "Prince Mikasa," meaning, literally "Prince of the Three Umbrellas." The name "Three Umbrellas" is taken from a Japanese mountain, and is also the much revered name of the flagship on which Admiral Togo fought the battle of the Japan sea.

"Three Umbrellas" seems appropriate, one for Japan, one for China, one for the Philippines, all JAPANESE.

Democrats are trying to decide on a convention city. President Roosevelt, asked if he had suggested Philadelphia, replied smiling: "You will be asking me the same question about other cities." For him, Chicago might be lucky enough.

Republicans, still trying to pick a candidate, would do well to hurry.

When President Roosevelt was asked whether he would be a candidate, he replied in the words of the late Tammany Chief Murphy, "The convention will decide." He likes a joke.

Uncle Sam sold his latest $900,000,000 batch of bonds before anybody could say "Jack Robinson," and now the administration has $2,000,000,000 good American cash on hand. Come on, you Republicans, let us see what kind of a "bankroll" you have.

The village of Verde Cocha, near Guayaquil, in Ecuador, exists no longer. A landslide wiped out everything, instantly killing the 50 inhabitants. A slice of green mountainside, two miles wide, came roaring down; and there was no trace of the village and no man lived to tell about it.

But other men will rebuild Verde Cocha, for men are as persistent as ants that rebuild their little villages when the gardener's hose sweeps them away.

Farmers do not get all the Government money. Administrator Ridder says WPA will spend hereafter in New York City at the rate of $5,550,000 a week on new jobs, which ought to help substantially. It was at first proposed to pay skilled mechanics only $93 a month, but union labor protested, and now skilled mechanics will get $90 a month and be required to work only seven days. That arrangement would seem almost like luxury to farmers—seven days' work a month and 23 days to discuss politics.

FARMERS DENOUNCE AAA

Leader Says Continuance Will Enslave Tillers of Soil.

By the Associated Press.

CHICAGO, Dec. 4.—The Agricultuarl Adjustment Administration was the target of two speakers before the Farmers' Independent Council last night. Dan D. Casement, Kansas ranchman and president of the council, pleaded for a restoration of freedom to agriculture and said that if the principle of the AAA is permitted to go unrebuked the American farmer will find himself enslaved.

James R. Howard, Iowa farmer, and former president of the American Farm Bureau Federation, said he was opposed to the AAA because "10 men, who no doubt call themselves farmers, but who were the culprits who produced the farm surplus, were paid $562,000 out of the processing taxes for 1933."

The Brutal Partner

By Ely Culbertson

EVERY bridge player can name, offhand, at least one person of his acquaintance who is downright brutal in his treatment of partners. To my regret, I know several. One of them, playing with a close friend in a recent game, and pursuing his usual ragging tactics, received such a retort courteous, accompanied by such laughter at his expense, that he may be permanently cured of this horrible trait.

Ely Culbertson

His partner had, as usual, mangled an important hand. Long and bitter was the "bawling-out" that followed. His partner listened quietly, without a word, without even change of expression. When the "expert" paused for breath, the dub quickly reached into a back pocket, pulled out a small toy revolver, laid it on the table directly before his partner, and then sat back in his chair with outstretched arms.

"Shoot me!" he said simply.

If it is true that "cards never forgive," the declarer in today's hand had better take a long vacation from bridge.

South, dealer.

Neither side vulnerable.

West led the king of clubs and then shifted to a diamond. North's king winning the trick. Now a spade was led and a first-round finesse taken! The singleton queen gobbled up the trick, and a low heart was led by West. Nothing if not consistent, the declarer took another premature finesse, and lost to another blank queen! The ace of clubs accounted for the setting trick.

And, on top of it all, declarer, instead of offering thanks for a wonderfully fortunate adverse lay of cards, cursed his "luck" and wailed that finesses never worked for him!

TODAY'S QUESTION.

Question: I hold ♠ Q 8 6 4 and dummy holds ♠ A J 7 2. How should I play the suit?

Answer: Lead low from your hand and finesse the jack. If that holds, lay down the ace. Your only chance to make all four tricks is to catch the singly guarded king under the ace.

HOLLYWOOD'S PRETTIEST GIRLS

Jane Froman, Born in St. Louis, "Had Looks Wished On" Her

By H. H. NIEMEYER

HOLLYWOOD, Dec. 3.

THE movie fans don't know very much, yet, about Jane Froman. Her very considerable audience has been an air-minded one, for Jane is a radio singer—and a good one. It just happens that we knew her, not so very many years ago, when she was 6 or 7 years old, down in Clinton, Mo. Never saw her again until a few weeks ago, out here in Hollywood, where she was making her first pictures, and playing herself, a singing radio star, in "Stars Over Broadway." Somehow, the studio wasn't thoroughly sold on Jane then—except for her looks and her voice—and when the picture was completed they let her go back to New York with her husband, Donald Ross, who also sings over the air. But when the big bosses out here looked at the picture, they sent for Jane in a hurry. She was an unmistakable hit, and her singing was a knockout. So Jane will soon be on her way back to Hollywood for a bigger part in another film.

A real beauty, Jane Froman is a rather hard subject for this series of stories on screen lovelies, how they got that way and what they do to stay that way. As a matter of fact, she never did anything about it at the start—she was lovely as a child—and she never does anything about it now. "You say I am pretty," she said to us. "Well, what about it? My looks, good or bad, were wished on me and I've just stayed that way."

Jane is a St. Louis beauty. At least, she was born there, although her family moved down to Clinton, in Henry County, soon after. In school, at the Catholic Convent in Clinton, Mo., the sisters soon discovered that Jane had a sweet voice, and before she knew it she was singing in the choir. Afterward, Jane entered Christian College, at Columbia, Mo., and later attended the University of Missouri, the Central College at Fayette, and Forest Park University in St. Louis.

In order to attend the Conservatory of Music, Jane moved to Cincinnati, and sang blues over WLW to pay her tuition. So she never reached the operatic stage; her public wouldn't let her. Sponsors were soon fighting for her services, and her film debut came in the natural course of events.

Five feet, six inches tall, Jane Froman weighs 114 pounds, and because of this, never needs to diet. Exercise and sleep, she says, protect her good looks; "exercise," to her, being tennis and golf. Her present ambition is to play a "decent" game of golf; so far, she won't tell her score.

* * *

AN ability to design smart clothes must be added to her other talents. Her pet economy, she will tell you, is hats—"I have one!"—while her favorite extravagance is shoes, of which she has 30 pairs. Blue is her favorite color—she's nearly always in blue—and the gardenia is her favorite flower.

Among her friends, Jane Froman is noted for her sentimentality. Because her husband first bought her a certain make of low-swung roadster, she won't have any other kind. She always drives it with the top down, letting the sun and wind beat upon her face—which has the hardy kind of skin that can "take it."

Shortly after her arrival in Hollywood, Jane announced that she hated makeup, and didn't want to wear any on the screen. Told that makeup would be necessary to darken her face so that it would photograph white—an eccentricity of the motion picture camera—Jane went home and spent four days in her back yard, getting sun-tan. Then she returned to the studio.

"Look at me now!" she told George Barnes, famous camera man, who was to photograph "Stars Over Broadway." "See how nice and dark I am—I won't need any makeup at all!"

Barnes looked at Jane through his blue glass. "Oh, yeah?" he said. "You're too dark, now!" And so Jane had to wear a light makeup, after all.

Following the growing trend among many other beauties, Jane uses soap and water to cleanse her skin, rather than elaborate creams, and often follows that with a dash of witch hazel. She wears a bright lipstick, but little powder, and no mascara.

Among her favorite foods are asparagus, steak and Southern-fried chicken.

And now that she is in New York again, singing over the radio in the interim needed to prepare her second screen vehicle, her "figure" in the studio wardrobe—a dummy of papier mache and cloth made exactly to Jane's own dimensions—has found another use. It's being employed, these days, as a standard by which models are judged, told to go home, or accepted, for a modish style revue in Ruby Keeler's new picture, "Colleen."

"I think Jane is the most attractive girl I've seen in years," a woman studio worker said. A big-hearted woman, this. "It's because of her animation, her vivacity, I think—her face is so alive, it stands out in a whole roomful of people. Wholesome, magnetic, altogether lovely—and something you don't find in a carload of other women!"

"No," argued her fellow-designer, "it's her figure. What a joy, when you have to make clothes for her! It's as close as possible to perfect. And then again it's her hair—done so simply, brushed back off her face, and very smart. Or perhaps it's her neck, which is very graceful and swan-like. I give up—if I had to sum it all up, I guess I'd say it comes from that thing we call 'good grooming.'"

And then the makeup man: "If they were all like Jane Froman," he said ruefully, "we'd soon be out of jobs. Perfect skin, needing little or no makeup. Good hair-line—all we could do was thin it out, just the least little bit, her hair's so thick. Fine teeth, good strong chin, naturally long black lashes framing vivid, clear blue eyes. We knew she'd photograph like a million, and our only regret was that she had to spend so little time in our department!"

Well, you've heard her, often, no doubt, even if you've never seen her. Paul Whiteman's radio program, remember?

(Tomorrow—Margaret Lindsay.)

Lost Traction And the Road To Recovery

Work, Study and Friendliness Help Bring Back Self-respect.

By Elsie Robinson

HAD a nasty half hour yesterday. You've probably been through the same thing yourself, so you know how it feels. I was driving on a narrow, mountain road, not much more than a trail, when a hind wheel skidded and lost traction. There we were—hanging over eternity—whizzing frantically and getting exactly nowhere.

Elsie Robinson

Yes, of course—I should have had chains. I'd been warned. Or, lacking chains, a shovel. Best yet, kept to a safer road. And I had ample time to think of all that as I pawed air and tried not to swallow my tonsils. But those were certainly shuddery seconds scrambling about for grass, sticks, stones—anything to brace that whirling wheel.

Afterwards—bouncing thankfully home—I felt plenty philosophic.

How often, thought I to myself, I've handed myself just such a dirty deal. Not in a flivver, but rambling along through life, coming unexpectedly on a stretch of muck I hadn't expected—and losing traction.

Best thing a woman does is lose traction! Men aren't such slouches at it, either! Male or female, we've all known circumstances when the old grip didn't work. And there we were—sunk in some mire of discouragement or grief or plain cussedness—whirling around and around in dizzy circles, getting exactly nowhere.

Aimless Hours.

Those sick and aimless hours when, to save your neck, you can't seem to sink your teeth into life again. Everyone sorry for you or mad at you or giving you advice. Telling you what a fool you've been to get into such a mess, and what precautions you should have taken. And you wishing you could murder them—yet knowing, darned well, that it was all your own fault.

There you stuck, hour after hour, day after day—year after year, sometimes—in the same spot, your frantic mind going around and around in the same mad whirl. The same old thoughts, the same old tears and fears, over and over and over. The same old self-pity . . . . slippery, 'slimy self-pity, with no solid, healthy substance that a clutching soul can grip!

Lost traction! That's had many a life stopped during these last four years. Maybe it has you stopped now. What's to do? Do what you do with your flivver—FIND SOMETHING TO BRACE YOURSELF.

Yes, of course, you SHOULD have had chains. Fortified yourself against such an accident—avoided risks, saved your money, kept to a better road. But, oh shucks! Who does? It's too late now to worry over that. Besides—maybe you're going to profit more from this buggy ride than you ever would have by playing safe.

However, that pleasing thought, while comforting, won't put you back on the highway again. So get busy! Find a bracer—anything—anything solid—anything that will stop your whirling in dizzy circles and restore your aim, interest AND SELF-RESPECT.

Self-respect—that's the thing that holds you on the highway—keeps you out of the slime of self-pity. And work will give you self-respect. If you can't find a job, make one. I knew an idle man who saved himself from a drunkard's suicide during this depression by building a sewing table for his wife.

He had always loved woodwork—had a few tools in the garage. One small job called for another. He was soon making things for the neighbors—and with each successful job a little of his old confidence came back; he gripped life more firmly. Today he's back in the game again, hitting on all sixteen.

And I knew a woman who saved her marriage and her own sanity by setting up a tiny "hot lunch" room for the school children in her block. Turned an empty basement into a gay cafeteria—using packing box furniture at first.

Work—study—friendliness—they'll all give you traction again. And, boy, traction is certainly a Grand Feeling after you've been looping the loop. Am I telling YOU!

Bridal Bouquet, Flower Girls, And Families

Small Child Cannot Be Invited Alone To Grown-Up Breakfast.

By Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post:

JUST what is the rule for sending or taking presents to hostesses, and does this necessity become effective only after one has stayed in a house overnight?

Answer: Although it is proper to take a small present or to send one, if you would like to, there is no rule that exacts sending or taking a present to one's hostess, ever. Obviously if you go often to stay in the same house, and for any one of various reasons you can make little return for this hospitality, you would naturally now and again be inclined to take, or send, something to your hostess, or host, or possibly their children. This "something" is usually candy, but it can equally well be toys or books or something that you think would be pleasing to the individual for whom you choose it. Etiquette, as you know, does exact that you write a "bread and butter" letter to your hostess after having stayed in her house—and this whether you stay only once or whether you are a frequent visitor.

Emily Post

Dear Mrs. Post: I am the bridegroom-to-be's mother, and a little upset about what I should wear at my son's wedding. I have a lovely new black crepe dress, which has a beautiful brilliant buckle and two matching buttons, and with which I wear a lovely crystal necklace. In other words, there is nothing funereal about it and yet a friend insists that black is tabu.

Answer: Unrelieved black has never been considered suitable, and of course the nearer your relationship to the bride or groom the less suitable it becomes. If you could perhaps have your dressmaker add color at the neck and sleeves—there are many varieties of neck and sleeve trimmings that are smart and becoming—that, in addition to your bright buckle and buttons, would completely counteract the black effect. A small collar and waist edging—or a narrow tied effect of lame. Or you might prefer a broader drapery of nattier blue or dusty pink or faded geranium or whichever color is most flattering to you of a material similar to the crepe of your dress. At least this is what I should do were I in your place. But then I habitually wear black (in winter) with a note of color on it somewhere.

Metal door hinges should be washed frequently in warm soapsuds and there will be far less need of drastic polishing. They should be wiped dry after each washing and then rubbed with oil to prevent rusting.

IF YOU ASK MY OPINION

By Martha Carr

Dear Mrs. Carr:

A YOUNG man in my home town was engaged to a girl in another town. They had been sweethearts for years, were an ideal couple, both above the average in looks and intelligence. When I heard their engagement was broken, like everyone else I said, "Just a lover's quarrel."

When these young people meet they act as if nothing had happened; but there has been no reconciliation. And the boy's life is being wrecked. He has gone from good to bad; he worshiped this girl and some say he was to blame, but surely the girl must have been partly wrong.

It is said that the girl was crushed as she idolized him. There had been a contageous gaiety about her, but now she is rather quiet. Another said, "For some strange reason, she thinks he doesn't care for her and every one knows he is crazy about her."

If this boy could have another chance with her it would be all he needs. She seems to be miserable, too. If you would make a suggestion how to help him, I would be so grateful. Do you think it would be the right thing to appeal to the girl? He has never done the things he is doing now before.

WORRIED.

Since this couple has had the good taste not to confide their troubles to friends or the public, I believe only a member of their families or the very closest friend might be of service. Possibly the weakness in the boy's character which makes him take to dissipation in his disappointment and which, in your desire to boost him along, you do not seem to recognize, has created the rift. It may have shown itself in some other way which neither are revealing. If she is a sensible and high-minded girl, of which she gives evidence in her reluctance to discuss the matter, she would not allow the superficial reasons you mention, to wreck their love-affair. Neither would he, if he has the right attitude and sense of honor, allow these things to interfere.

I am sure your interest is a kindly one and probably that of the others who speculate; but I believe the matter is strictly their own affair, and any attempt of an outsider to explain them to each other would be superfluous and probably unwelcome.

BREATHES there a girl with soul so dead who never to herself has said: "How I'd like to pick his ties." Well, Christmas and the pre-Christmas sale at Greenfield's brings you your opportunity at last, my lass. Fine imported silks, French moires, satins, reps, basket weaves—you will simply revel in the chance to buy him neckwear like that! It's all regularly $1.50, $2, $2.50 and $3.00, but you can get it during the sale for only $1.15. There's another slick group, too, at 69c, usually $1.00.

* * *

FOR your cousins whom you reckon up by dozens we suggest the beautiful all-French-linen handkerchiefs we saw for only 35c, 3 for $1. (They're regularly 50c and 75c each.) All hand-rolled hems, of course. In white with either white or colored initials. And you certainly needn't be afraid to have even critical old Aunt Sophie scrutinize them!

* * *

NOTHING down and three to go! That's the way you can buy on Greenfield's new extended charge account plan: In other words, whatever you buy now during the sale will be payable one-third January 10, one-third February 10, and one-third March 10. There's no initial payment and no carrying charge. And you can open a new account quicker than you can say Addis Ababa. Why not telephone for an application blank today?

* * *

EVEN if he is superstitious about its bringing him luck, or sentimental about having had it so long—you know perfectly well that he can't wear that old hat any longer! So you'd better start calling him up every ten minutes tomorrow till you get him to take advantage of the really fine "buys" the pre-Christmas sale offers in hats. There's a group of $3.45—that're usually $5 and $7.00. They come in browns, grays, pearls and blue, snap brims, bound edges—but what's the use of going into all that! He'll know what he wants alright after he finally gets there!

* * *

AND while he's there you'd better tell him to get himself some underwear, too. They have shorts in solid colors or stripes, some with French backs, for 55c (regularly 75c and $1); and Swiss-ribbed undershirts of fine-combed yarn for 55c (originally 75c value.)

Hazel Nut Tart.

Separate 12 eggs and beat the yolks for at least one-half hour, gradually adding one pound of granulated sugar. Continue beating while some one else is beating the whites stiff but not dry with a pinch of salt. To the yolks and sugar add one pound of grated and sifted hazel nuts and the juice and grated rind of one lemon, then lightly fold in the beaten whites. Pour into a large ungreased angel cake pan and place in a cool oven to start, gradually increase heat and bake for one hour, then reduce heat and continue baking for another 15 minutes or until when pricked with a straw it does not stick. Invert pan and let cake become cold before removing from pan. Cut crossways in three layers and spread with the following filling between layers and dust top with powdered sugar:

Filling.

One pint cream.
Yolks of four eggs.
One-half cup of sugar.
One teaspoon of vanilla.

Scald the cream and pour over the beaten egg yolks and sugar. Place in double boiler and cook until thickened. Add the vanilla and beat until cool.

Jam Bars.

One cup butter.
Two scant cups of flour.
One-half pound of grated almonds.
Two tablespoons of grated chocolate.
A little chopped citron.
Two whole eggs.
One-half cup sugar.

Cream the butter and sugar and add the beaten eggs, then the sifted flour and almonds and the chocolate, which has been melted and cooled, and the chopped citron.

Mix well and roll out the thickness of cookies. Cut in two parts. On half spread a mixture made of three egg whites beaten stiff with a pinch of salt, gradually adding four large tablespoons of granulated sugar. Strew with chopped blanched almonds and bake in a slow oven to brown. On the other half spead jam and bake. Put the cake covered with the meringue on top of the one covered with jam and put in oven for just a few minutes. After standing for an hour cut in strips.

Filled Chocolate Cake.

Beat the yolks of 10 eggs light with one cup of sugar. Add two-thirds cup of grated chocolate, three-fourths cup of finely rolled English walnuts, pecans or blanched almonds, one cup of grated white bread which has been soaked in brandy, one-half teaspoon of cinnamon, one-fourth teaspoon of cloves and the juice and rind of one lemon. The last thing, fold in the egg whites beaten stiff with a pinch of salt. Butter and flour three cake pans lightly and bake in a slow oven about 30 minutes. Cool, spread with a cream filling or jam and cover all with a chocolate icing.

Chocolate Icing.

Melt over hot water four squares of bitter chocolate. Beat the yolks of three eggs very light, add gradually one and a half cups of sugar, one tablespoon of butter and one-half cup of rich milk and a generous pinch of salt. Mix well, and while stirring constantly bring to a boil and let boil for about one minute. Remove from fire and add the melted chocolate and one teaspoon of vanilla. Beat until thick enough to spread and very glossy.

Poppy Seed Strips.

One scant cup of butter.
One and one-half cups of sugar.
Two eggs.
One-fourth pound of finely chopped almonds.
One-fourth pound citron finely chopped.
One-half cup poppy seeds soaked in one cup of milk.
Three teaspoons of baking powder.
Pinch of salt.

Cream the butter and sugar well, add the beaten eggs, chopped almonds and citron and then the flour sifted with the baking powder and salt alternately with the milk and poppy seed. Pour into a shallow pan which has been buttered and floured. Brush top with the yolk of an egg beaten with a little water, sprinkle with cinnamon and sugar and bake in a moderate oven about 25 to 30 minutes. Cut in strips.

The Love Lament of a Swanky PICTURE BRIDE

"She charged that in a fit of rage he tore up her photograph—then came the long fight for the custody of their son."

MRS. ALICIA DU PONT GLENDENNING LLEWELLYN, very rich and pretty.

HAROLD GLENDENNING, first husband of the heiress.

VICTOR R. LLEWELLYN, the dashing British officer, who fell in love with Alicia's photograph.

"He eagerly demanded the address of the lady, then sent ardent notes to her."

By Sheila Graham

THIS is how NOT to choose a husband. Don't marry too quickly the fascinating charmer you meet for the first time on a boat, nor become, in a way, the picture bride of the man who falls in love with your photograph and hurries the courtship by correspondence with you while he adores the said photograph.

Very rich and pretty Mrs. Alicia duPont Maddux Glendenning Llewellyn, foster daughter of the late Alfred duPont of Delaware, did both. And each time, she asserted, she made the blunder that can only be rectified in the divorce court.

The chic gunpowder millionairess is now in process of happily losing husband number two, former Welsh Guards officer Victor R. Llewellyn, the man who loved her picture, via an English annulment.

With ex-husband number one, Harold Glendenning, Dartmouth man, Rhodes scholar and attorney, whose father was a letter carrier in Norwich, Conn., the disillusioned young matron has recently been involved in a long and tedious legal tussle for the custody of their son, 12-year-old Alan Glendenning.

The poor little rich heiress first saw the lad's father way back in 1921 on a boat carrying them both to England. At the time, Alicia had nothing more on her mind than a social canter to London. Glendenning was bound for Oxford as a winner of a Rhodes scholarship.

They met, saw and were married shortly afterwards in London. According to Glendenning's statement later before Supreme Court Referee Gavegan during the recent child custody fight, he was always extremely jealous of his beautiful wife.

In a letter penned to his mate after one of their numerous quarrels:

"I feel I have been Othello to your Desdemona. For he loved her so much, and see what brooding led into!"

(In the Shakespearean play Othello's jealous brooding causes him to strangle the fair Desdemona in her sleep.)

In her testimony before the same referee, Mrs. Llewellyn declared under oath that her first husband put his macabre threat into action during a night in February, 1925, and tried to choke her. Also that he called her "a bum and a coward," and in a fit of rage tore up her photograph, jumped on it and threw it into the garbage pail.

Differences between the couple first became known in June, 1925, with the beginning of the lengthy fight for the custody of their son, then awarded to his mother.

Mrs. Llewellyn was so anxious to write "End" to her marriage that—according to Glendenning—she offered him $75,000 if he would allow her to divorce him.

Shortly before her Reno decree in 1926, Mrs. Llewellyn set up a trust fund of $500,000 for little Alan.

A new action for the boy's custody was brought by his father in 1929. Glendenning was awarded the guardianship of his son.

But law proposes and a mother's love disposes. When the little boy was sick last spring, Mrs. Llewellyn took charge of him, tending him night and day. It was soon afterwards that she decided to attempt to win him back permanently to her custody.

During the subsequent legal wrangle, Mrs. Llewellyn sprang the surprise tidbit that the handsome Welsh Guards officer she married in 1933 in Nevada was bringing an uncontested annulment suit in London. Furthermore, that she hadn't seen him for more than a year, and that she never wanted to see him again.

When her picture was shown to the army officer by a mutual friend three years ago in London, he eagerly demanded the address of the lady, and there and then penned a palpitating note to the lovely original, then residing in Wilmington, Del.

Both the picture of the dashing Welshman and his epistle found favor in the eyes of the fair Alicia.

A love-letter correspondence continued to an ever-increasing crescendo for the larger part of a year, the records show.

Llewellyn finally decided to end his long-distance wooing, visited the United States, and put his love to the test by meeting his dream girl in person.

The result more than justified their mutual hopes, and in less time than it takes to say "I love you" the couple entrained for Nevada and were married. Their brief married life was spent in London.

Mrs. Llewellyn's English domicile was the chief argument used by her first husband's lawyer to deprive her of the right to live with her son, Glendenning contending the child would have a more satisfactory upbringing in the country of his birth.

A Few Words Of Advice for Young People

Suggestions For Conduct To Help Conserve School Supplies.

By Angelo Patri

DEAR BOYS AND GIRLS: There is one mistake that many of you are making every day, a mistake that many of us older people would be glad to have you correct. I mean your careless use of school supplies. You are given a set of text books, very expensive ones indeed. They have to be paid for before you get them. The bill is a big one. You and your family have to share the cost of supplying these books and the other things you use. The more of them that have to be bought the more we must pay, and the more you, too, must pay. Taxes touch every man, woman and child in the community. Taxes pay for everything you get in school.

Angelo Patri

Not long ago I saw a group of children set their books along the sidewalk even distances apart and play hop-scotch over them. Every now and then somebody would miss a hop and kick a pile of books into the gutter or over against the fence. Everybody laughed at the good joke. I did not feel like laughing when I thought of the cost that such a game must mean. Torn and dirty books cannot be used again. New ones must be bought and the people taxed again to buy them.

I have seen pupils take a clean sheet of paper, begin to write on it, crumple it up and toss it into the basket and ask for another. This practice costs money, more than should ever be paid for the paper needed. Pencils are bitten, whittled down, thrown away and an immediate request for a new one is made with all the assurance that righteousness supplies. Again the costs mount.

Book Throwing.

On the way home from school some boys think it is great fun to throw their books at the street lights and break the globes. The books fly through the air, hit the globe and then land on the street with a crash. No book can stand that for any length of time. No community can afford to pay for globes at the rate they are broken in such games.

Boys say: "They don't belong to anybody. They belong to the city. The city pays for them." And who is the city? Has the city pockets? It has tax offices that call for the money that is in taxpayers' pockets. And the taxpayers are yourselves, your families. Every time you add to the tax bill by your careless use of public property you add to the costs of your own living. What you pay in taxes you cannot eat, you cannot go to the movies with, you cannot use for any personal purpose. You have to pay the bill that you helped pile up. Taxes are heavy enough without adding a penny to them as your own people will tell you.

Just remember next time you feel like throwing books around or eating pencils and tearing up paper that the bill will be added to your rent, your movies, your clothes and your food bills. If you do not pay your tax directly you pay it indirectly in these ways. Stop wasting your own money. You are the city. Save what you can and begin now to study the use to which your money is put when you do pay your taxes. Waste is bad business.

Yours, truly,
ANGELO PATRI.

Small Number Of Covers on Zeppelin Trip

Increase In Value Likely as Result — Another Trans-Pacific Flight.

ACCORDING to the final figures recently made public by the Post Office Department there were but 324,070 of the special 50-cent airmail postage stamps issued for use on letters carried on the flight of the Graf Zeppelin to the Century of Progress Exposition in October, 1933.

In view of the fact that this quantity of stamps is a comparatively small number in comparison to the great number of stamp collectors throughout the United States it can be definitely stated that this stamp is due to a great increase in value in the very near future.

The Post Office Department released the final figures on the special sheet of six of the 1 cent National Parks stamp issued as a souvenir of the Trans-Mississippi Philatelic Exposition and Convention at Omaha, Neb. Oct. 8 to 14, 1934. There were 4,600,000 of these stamps sold and none are available now as they were removed from sale a short time ago.

The Post Office Department has just announced that the second flight of the Trans-Pacific Airmail will leave San Francisco Dec. 6. This flight will be made from San Francisco to Honolulu, Hawaii to Guam to Manila, Philippine Islands and return by the same route. The return flight will leave Manila Dec. 16.

The following is a complete list of plate numbers issued during the month of October, 1935. Plate No. 21467, 21468, 21469, 21470, 21471 and 21472 for the 3 cent Michigan Commemorative. Plate No. 21473, 21474, 21475 and 21476 for the 25 cent Trans-Pacific Airmail. The plate numbers for the Michigan stamp are rotary plates and for the Trans-Pacific Airmail stamp flat plates.

The following is a complete list of plate numbers sent to press during the month of October, 1935. Plate No. 21222, 21223 for the 3 cent stamp of the 1932 series. Plate No. 21467, 21468, 21469, 21470 and 21471 for the 3 cent Michigan Commemorative.

New Issues.

ARGENTINE REPUBLIC — The recent series of stamps portraying famous men were surface printed at the National Mint on paper watermarked with a large "RA."

BRAZIL—A series of four stamps has been issued bearing the date "Oct. 12, 1935." The colors are brown and purple, light blue and dark blue, black and blue green and red and black all of the 300 reis value. It is thought that this series of stamps is being sponsored by the group of stamp speculators operating out of Cuba.

COSTA RICA—A series of stamps will be issued to show the sovereignty of Costa Rica over the Cocos Island.

CZECHO-SLOVAKIA—New newspaper and airpost stamps will be issued within a few weeks.

DANZIG—A new series of airmail stamps consisting of five denominations have been issued. The 10p red orange, 15p yellow, 25p dark green and 50p light blue are in the horizontal format picturing a plane in flight. The lg red violet is in vertical format and has a modernistic airplane as its design.

ICELAND—To honor Matthios Jochumson a series of stamps will be issued.

ITALY—Several sets of stamps will be issued to commemorate the Italian invasion of Ethiopia. One set will honor the conquering of Aduwa, the second set the invasion of the Tigre Province.

MANCHOUKUO — A series of stamps will be issued commemorating the signing of a postal agreement between Japan and Manchoukuo. The values will be 1½, 3, 6 and 10 fen.

NETHERLANDS—A very attractive stamp has been issued for airmail use. The value is 6c, the color brown. The stamp pictures a portion of the globe with the shadows of three airplanes upon it. The value and the name of the country "Nederland 6 cent" is also shadowed upon the globe.

A DOCTOR TALKS OF HEALTH

By Logan Clendening, M. D.

Dr. Clendening

YOU will begin to see the Christmas stamps about now. Most of you have been sent a package of them from your local branch of the National Tuberculosis Society. If you have, and can possibly afford to do so, buy them. If you haven't been sent any, buy them from one of the stations anyway. They do a great work.

Thirty-two years ago a Danish postal clerk, named Einar Holboell, was fired with the idea that he could build a hospital for tuberculous children. He interested his Government in the idea of a sale of stamps at Christmas time for this purpose, and the hospital was built.

Four years later Miss Emily P. Bissell, of Wilmington, Del., was interested in a small tuberculosis hospital which was badly in need of funds. She adopted the idea of the Christmas stamps and raised $3000. In 1910 the National Tuberculosis Association began to use them.

The sale of these stamps has made possible an organized campaign against tuberculosis that has been carried on with ever greater efficiency from year to year. In 1900 over 200 people per 100,000 living people died of the disease. By 1933 that had been cut to 60 people per 100,000 living.

The money that is earned by Christmas seals is spent entirely in your own community. In different places it is used for different work. In my own city it is used to employ physicians to examine students in the open air schools and to conduct a Negro clinic, to provide X-rays for cases that show suspicion of infection, and for educational purposes. The importance of Negro clinics can be realized when you know that twice as many Negroes die of tuberculosis as white people.

All the money which our local Tuberculosis society spends is obtained from the sale of these stamps. The National Tuberculosis Society does not maintain any sanitaria, nor does it do any active work itself, except as it gives advice and help to the local branch societies. The record of its work is a splendid one. We have no other example of a chronic disease, which is as insidious, which is as difficult to detect, and, for which we have no single specific cure, that is being conquered as rapidly as tuberculosis.

I say it is insidious and difficult to detect because most of the cases have to be recognized and weeded out among people who think they are well and have few, if any, symptoms.

In its treatment, we cannot give one certain drug and effect a cure as we can in pernicious anemia. The cure depends upon a combination of methods of treatment, often difficult to enforce.

This is a disease which affects particularly the young—young people of a community who have all of their lives before them and their work still to do. Its eradication depends upon the recognition of a proper control of all cases.

For all of these reasons the work of the National Tuberculosis Society should be encouraged.

Betsy Dances With John, but Pride Keeps Her From Expressing Herself — A Scene With Marshall.

CHAPTER THIRTY-THREE.

"BETSY, may I have this dance?" His voice was a little diffident. He smiled faintly, showing tips of the even white teeth she had thought of so often.

She took an unsteady breath.

"Yes. Yes, of course, John." She could say no more, with her emotion crowding so painfully in her throat.

John's hand came almost shyly to the back of her chair, pulling it out, catching her elbows gently. Ames arose, a bit self-conscious, his embarrassment evidenced by the forefinger that plunged beneath his collar, trailing the edge of it.

Betsy looked nervously about the terrace as she got to her feet. Marshall was seated at a table near the entrance, dark and watchful, an amused twist on his lips. Angelica and old Cabot Storm were watching, too. There was no wistfulness about Angelica's face now. It was the Angelica of the photograph, cold, calculating, her hard little heart seeping through her carefully studied poise . . . the heart that the expensive retoucher had been unable to disguise.

Varnee's music rang in Betsy's ears. There was nothing in the world now but John and herself, John's arm close around her waist, his chin touching her temple, the music-like, silver-slippered fairies dancing and singing.

The excitement and consciousness of John's nearness made her legs go weak beneath her, but she did not miss a step. One thing was certain, she thought in the confusion of her mind, they could not remain here dancing silently like this. It was too beautiful, too glorious to last. There were things to be said . . . misunderstandings to be cleared.

John drew back a little then and looked searchingly into Betsy's eyes.

"I have wanted to see you, Betsy. I've been studying, you know, making up all that work I missed in the fall so I could graduate in June. This business of burning your candles at the ends and melting them in the middle . . ." He shook his blond head.

That brought a tremulous little laugh to Betsy's lips. But her mind and heart were not laughing. The magic of the silence was over. She thought, miserably, "He's been out with Angelica.

"He's been out often. He could have called me, he could have seen me, if he had wanted to."

"I told you that morning after our wedding that I would get in touch with you. About the annulment . . . or divorce. I guess you've wondered why I haven't kept my word. I honestly didn't mean to be this long, to keep you tied up. . . ."

"Oh-h, yes, of course. The annulment . . . or the divorce," Betsy stammered and went a little limp in his arms. John's voice had been so airy, so uncaring, that it made her want to cry.

Resolutely Betsy fixed her stare over John's shoulder at the tops of the distant poplars to steady herself. She couldn't say anything. There was nothing to be said now. Her immense pride was crowding to the surface of her body, imprisoning all the things she really wanted to say to him, making her fight valiantly for some light, conclusive remark that would show John she didn't care . . . that she, too, could talk of the divorce or the annulment with the same ease that she might speak of the weather. She rapidly phrased sentences in her mind to be said with a fine defensive dignity—"I'd love Reno, John. There should be many plots there for short stories!" But she said nothing. Nothing.

"What's the matter, Betsy?" The old anxiety in his voice cut her through. But was it anxiety? Wasn't it impatience?

* * *

OH, what was the matter? Thoughts, bewildering dark and strange, wheeled heavily through her mind. Why couldn't she carry this thing through bravely? John didn't love her any more. Angelica had won him at last. Those five months when she, Betsy, had not seen him, when she had been home writing tenderly of the things that hurt her most, Angelica had been going out with John, winning him back. Yes, John's love was dead . . . so dead he could hold her close to his heart, glide her across this dance floor . . . could talk about annulments and divorces in an indifferent, uncaring manner.

Betsy was silent for so long that at last John bent down a little, his face close to her own.

"What's the matter, Betsy?" Shouldn't I have asked you to dance? Do—do you dislike me—that much?"

"Oh—oh, no, John! No!" She almost sobbed. Her body swayed toward him irresistibly, her fingers tightened in his. Looking up at him her whole love appeared almost miraculously on her face. It showed in the corners of her soft lips, it flowered in her cheeks and sparkled in her hopelessly hopeful young eyes. And because it was all so obvious, all there for him to see, John Storm missed it completely. But not Jennie Travers, dancing close by with Terry, nor Angelica, who sat at the table knotting her handkerchief nervously in her scarlet-tipped fingers, nor old Cabot Storm, who was watching his son and his son's wife from beneath his shaggy gray brows.

"How about a break?" — a confident voice close to them, an importunate hand on Betsy's elbow.

John said, without any inflection, "Why certainly, Marshall." And then letting Betsy slip out of his arms, smiling down at her, not seeing her really—"I'll drop you a line in a week or so, Betsy. When I get back to Boston. About that matter we were discussing."

Then he was bowing and leaving her and crossing the floor to his table. She saw him put Angelica's light Spring wrap around her shoulders, saw him hand old Cabot Storm his silver-capped cane, saw him take some green bills out of a folder and pay the waiter.

Betsy had fainted only once in her life—that night when John had fought the man who broke into the little house in Georgetown. As she danced with Marshall now, matching her step with his, watching John leave without even a backward glance for her, she experienced a sensation before unknown to her. It wasn't like fainting, but it was what she thought must be like dying. A swift pain shot through her, quivering in her knees, her arms, her throat, making her feel as if she was inhaling threads of wool. Then numbness. A strange numbness that made her hear nothing that Marshall was saying. She was a dead girl dancing. Dead . . . dead . . . forever dead . . . and dancing.

* * *

WHEN Marshall caught her hand and led her from the floor down into the deep lush sweetness of the flower garden, she followed him, dazed and unreal to herself; oblivious of the heart and mind and body that had been Betsy Seymour. Marshall caught her swiftly in his arms and kissed her lips, violently, crushing words out against their crimson softness—"Betsy," I've left Libby. I told her so tonight. I'm going to Reno tomorrow and you're going with me! I have money now. And Betsy . . . you're a celebrity! We'll have a beautiful life . . . everything . . . everything! Oh, Betsy, I've wanted to see you . . . to tell you this . . . to hold you in my arms! Why have you avoided me? Betsy . . . Betsy . . . I love you . . . I love you."

Suddenly Betsy seemed to come savagely awake within herself. She wrenched out of his arms, her temples moist and throbbing with the quick surge of her blood. Her eyes were wide, the pupils dilated and burning. She laughed wildly, hysterically, the heat of her anger flinging upward toward him in a fierce gust.

"Betsy . . . !" His voice shook He caught her wrists, tried to circle her waist with his arm. But Betsy flung herself away from him with reckless violence.

After a moment of panting silence she turned upon him, icily. "Don't touch me! Don't dare touch me!" she said, evenly, the scorn edging her voice shocking him. "I hate you! I knew if you ever touched me again I would hate you!"

Marshall was nonplussed. When he led her from the dance floor he had been so certain . . . so sure of her . . . so sure of himself. It had been a struggle to give up Libby and all Libby stood for. But he had to have Betsy and her price was high. Well, he was willing to pay it now. He had known a long time that if he could not get her on his terms he would have to submit to hers.

He said now, incredulously, "You're putting on an act, angel. Why do that?"

"Act?" she cried in anguish. "I hate you! I mean it!"

He laughed a little huskily. "Come now, darling, you don't you know." Then his voice changed. The laughter died and he was serious. "You love me, Betsy. You'll always love me. I've been a fool in the past. I've been everything that you want to call me . . . and then some. But I love you. I've loved you through it all! Nothing matters but you. Nothing. I want you. I've got to have you at . . ."—he started to say "at any price" but broke off abruptly. He caught her hands and pressed his lips against her palms, moist, quick, passionate.

Betsy's fingers tensed against his mouth. Her nails hit hard, mercilessly, into his dark cheeks and dug in swift streaks along his face. He jerked upright with the pain, his own hands lifting to the bleeding, throbbing scratches. His dark eyes blazed with fury and wounded vanity. "Betsy . . .!"

Cheerfulness To Ease Life's Heavy Loads

By the Rev. J. F. Newton

"NEVER miss one of your pieces," a woman writes. "Sermons I call them. They buck me up. Wonder what you could tell me in my fix.

"Poor parents. Sent to work at 11 years. Married at 16 to get away from it all. Husband died. Four children to raise. Two were 14 and 16, both dying in four days in Municipal Hospital.

"Eldest son married. Wants none of me. Young son 31 all I have left. We live now in two furnished rooms. One year ago fell while working at house-cleaning, trying to make a living.

"Now my right hand is helpless. Loss of two bones. Cant use it. Had to learn to write left-handed. Young son goes out a lot. Sees other homes. Girl he goes with has well-to-do people. Hates to come home.

"Fights with older brother on help to keep me. They went to court, but they showed court they were in a lot of debt. Court told younger son to carry on. He doesn't eat with me on Sundays. I sit alone.

"Am so lonely, wishing I was dead. Is there any way for me yet? I am 45. Weigh 100 pounds. Can't work any more. Am in the way. Hope you can put in a cheerful word some day."

Here is the very stuff of life, one of many such letters that reach me. It reads like a dispatch from a battlefield, and that is what it is. Its short, gray sentences tell a hard, sad story.

Just a tiny woman, lonely and discouraged, disabled and feeling she is unwanted—yet what heroism in face of heavy odds! No soldier, going over the top, ever had more grit, pluck and daring!

Yet she does not imagine she has done anything unusual. She just kept on keeping on, patiently, in spite of death, poverty, and a drab and dismal lot, without training, without help, or hope.

If those sons are worth their salt they will not let such a brave little mother be lonely, much less in want.

All of us ought to put in a cheerful word every day, remembering how many walking near us carry loads heavy and hard to bear.

TOMORROW'S HOROSCOPE

» by WYNN «

(For Thursday, Dec. 5).

FIRST of two days for stimulating the creative urges, and for getting more than the usual entertainment out of life. Today; ooze along the familiar groove. Not the day for hopping passing freights to see where they go.

Friend and Foe.

If you are right, you can convince and win over your intelligent opponent, a task far easier than making wise the fool who likes you but doesn't know why. The foolish foe had best be left that way. These are all problems related to the Jupitarian virtue—Justice. Can we be fair to an opponent as to a friend? If not, we are weak in the department of honesty. Let us improve.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead is tricky in career, reputation, home, assets, but expansive for you personally; last minute victories possible, but watch everything, be sensible. Danger: Jan. 25-March 1; May 18-July 10; Oct. 9-Nov. 30.

Tomorrow.

Keep the pace down to a walk, mentally as well as physically.

Willy Nilly Told Of Bears Actions At Galump Home

By Mary Graham Bonner

THOSE bears were behaving so strangely," said Grandma Grouchy Galump, "and now I see tracks that look as though they might belong to a bear going right from the fireplace to the back door. Could one of the bears have been in my house?"

"Impossible," said Grandpa, stroking his very long beard. "The house was locked when we left it and locked when when we returned, and we haven't left it since.

"So much soot has fallen that we've been tracking it around ourselves. We'll light that fire. Surely there can't be any more soot left in the chimney."

"It's over everything," sighed Grandma and started cleaning.

In the meantime Jupiter had rushed around to Willy Nilly's. He was covered with soot and when Willy Nilly saw him he did not know what had happened.

He was so surprised that he could not say a word, and it was Jupiter who fell at Willy Nilly's feet exhausted and miserable, crying:

"I'm sorry. I'm so, so sorry."

Just then Christopher Columbus Crow and the other bears appeared.

"It was all my fault," said Christopher.

At last Willy Nilly found out all that had happened, how Christopher had put .t into the bears' heads that the Galumps' house was full of jams and jellies, how they had not been able to get in and Jupiter had decided to slide down the chimney and had been stuck fast instead, and how the Galumps had been thinking of building a fire and Jupiter had almost died of fright. But now what should he do?

You can buy a fine electric percolator for as little as $4.95.

Say Merry Christmas with an electric percolator

That's a Christmas present anybody'd love—a handsome electric percolator. To a man it means a wonderful cup of coffee every morning of his life. It means he can ask for coffee whenever he's a mind, because coffee making is so easy, the electric way. To a woman an electric percolator means the comfort of knowing she's going to make a perfect beverage and that she can do it right at the table. And to both man and woman it means real economy. Especially in St. Louis, where electricity is cheap. In the average home here you can make 24 cups for 1c worth of electricity. Give somebody an electric percolator this Christmas! See to it that somebody gives you one. See them at your dealer's.

See Whether His Opinions Agree With Your Own

AUTHOR'S NOTE: These answers are given from the scientific point of view. Science puts the rights of organized society above the rights of individuals.

1.—In one of our finest popular books for gaining poise and self-confidence, "Keeping a Sound Mind," by Dr. John J. B. Morgan, he says (abridged): "When you have suffered some great loss, been unbearably frustrated, been disappointed in loved ones, are tormented with fears, or are even unbelievably happy, nothing provides so good a safety valve as work. If no legitimate work outlet is available, you are likely to "blow off" in some unfortunate manner. At least do something—a walk, a game, a swim, setting-up exercises—any outlet is good; but work is one of the best."

2.—An extensive research has disclosed that 91 per cent of the men in Who's Who in America are married by the age of 55, but the U. S. Census shows that of white men of native parentage, only 81 per cent between the ages of 45 and 64 are married, eight per cent are widowed and one per cent divorced. The research concludes, "The leading men of America are more likely to be married than almost any other great group in our population." So girls, look out for the man with brains—he may marry you before you know it.

3.—This is one of their commonest manifestations. If you can hurt some one you feel superior to him. This is why lovers so often hurt one another—one feels he may lose the other's love if he does not show his superiority. When children are made to feel inferior they often try to hurt or frighten their parents—they run away or lie or steal or make friends with some one of whom the parents disapprove, etc.

Hero Worship

By Frank Kern Levin

IN THE midst of the intense political strife prevailing in Homerville, Dwight Doolittle stood unperturbed where he usually stood, which was behind the counter in the town's general store. Dwight was a little man with gray cheeks and a tuft of gray hair remaining at the apex of his head. In all the years that he had worked as clerk in the general store Dwight had never been other than unperturbed.

It was only necessary to look at Dwight's face, which was projected on a ropelike neck, to know that not even political strife, in Homerville or anywhere, was sufficient to interrupt his unimaginative calm.

For many years Homerville had been controlled by an arrogant political machine at the head of which was a bald-headed dictator whose neck hung over his collar both in front and rear and whose nose came down like a scabbard and whose chin receded. Now just before his stooge, the Mayor was to be re-elected with due respect to the voters, he, the dictator, did an unprecedented thing—he died.

His organization, Mayor Stickerwig particularly, found it difficult to forgive him. It looked like downright disloyalty to die just a couple of weeks before the election, and from a man who preached loyalty above all other things.

"It ain't looking good," said Mayor Stickerwig, a big man with big hands and big feet and little eyes. "This is just the chance those guys were looking for."

"Yah, it looks like they're really doing some organizing dis time," said a political henchman who was a member of the school board.

"But they can't do nothing, they can't. I got an idea, and besides who they got to put up against me? They been fiddling around and they ain't got nobody. They want a leader, a real leader, in this hour of emergency. They're just funny," and Mayor Stickerwig made a face.

• • •

"THEY might have some guy up their sleeve," said the member of the school board. "They might just be holding back to pull a fast one at the last minute. And what's your idea?" The school board member looked with surprise.

"All we got to do is arouse popular sentiment like the boss used to do and they ain't got a chance. Now what we need is something new. You know this actress, Bunny Dimples, ought to be going right through this town on her way back to Hollywood."

"Yah, that's right," answered the other.

"Now fer a couple of hundred maybe we could get her to stop off fer a night, and give 'em a little show. Then we could follow that right up by a political rally — fast, see? There'd be nuttin' to it." The mayor looked wise, and winked.

"Say now, maybe dis is an idea," said the member.

On the other side of the town there was another political get-together taking place between Gustavus Grey and one of his henchmen. Gustavus was a bald-headed man and he had a flat, wide nose. He was ambitious to become a political dictator.

"We gotta give them the old stuff about there being corruption what we gotta clean out," said Gustavus.

"That's the idea," assented the other.

"But the trouble is we ain't got nobody to put us. Somebody who'll catch the popular imagination."

"That's the idea."

"The trouble is everybody in this town got it in fer everybody else. We gotta get somebody new what we can play up as a leader of men."

"That's the idea."

BUNNY DIMPLES came to Homerville, and, naturally, the town was all excited. It was the first time a great emotional star of the cinema had ever trod the unpaved streets of the village. Bringing her to town was a beautiful piece of strategy on the part of Mayor Stickerwig. It was worthy of the best traditions of his political machine.

"It will be in the bucket after tonight," boasted the mayor.

"They sure pulled a fast one on us this time," said Gustavus from the other side of the town.

And it looked as though both the mayor and Gustavus were right. Everybody in Homerville, including Dwight Doolittle, turned out and came to the theater to see Bunny Dimples in the tantalizing flesh and blood.

Dwight came into the theater in his usual meek manner, and found a seat somewhere in the middle. On the stage sat Bunny. In her arm she held a fluffy Pomeranian. The dog yapped, and Bunny smiled. So did Mayor Stickerwig, who sat next to her. So did the member of the school board who sat next to the mayor. But Gustavus, surrounded by his henchmen, snarled.

Just as Bunny was introduced and got up to sing a fire broke out, flashing and roaring. Everybody saw the mayor give Bunny such a push he knocked the Pomeranian right out of her arms. While the great emotional actress squeaked for her dog, she was pushed headlong with everybody else to the exits.

Dwight Doolittle got unsteadily to his feet, having been knocked down several times. Flames were all about him. He stumbled forward, saw the Pomeranian jumping around his heels, picked it up and stumbled out with it.

"My hero!" shrieked Bunny as Dwight emerged from the flames. She threw her arms around him, gave him a kiss, and took her Pomeranian.

The people of Homerville never forgot that scene. For Gustavus saw his opportunity in a flash and put Dwight up for mayor, a hero who would lead the people out of the flames of corruption.

And Dwight Doolittle was elected mayor of Homerville.

Hanging in Effigy Is Easy on the Neck

PIERRE, S. D.

SEE where Governor Talmadge was hung in effigy down at his capital. Well, he oughtn't to worry about that—shows his constituents are still thinking about him, anyhow.

And then being hung while you're absent is the safest way I know of. A bunch of my admirers hung me the same way last Labor Day in a parade but it didn't hurt me none. I didn't even know I was hung until I got my weekly paper.

SECRETARY HOARE SAYS BRITAIN IS READY TO DO PART IN OIL EMBARGO

Tells House of Commons That Question Is Whether Non-Member States Could Nullify Action of League.

SANCTION AGREED ON IN PRINCIPLE

He Declares It Is Now Possible for Geneva Committee to Discuss Actual Application of Penalty Against Italy.

By the Associated Press.

LONDON, Dec. 5.—Sir Samuel Hoare, Foreign Secretary, today delivered a pronouncement of the British stand for oil sanctions against Italy when he told the House of Commons "we are prepared to play our part."

He told the Commons that Great Britain, as well as the League of Nations, had already agreed to the oil embargo in principle.

"The question still to be decided," he said, "is whether the action of non-member states would render ineffective action of member states.

"Further light was recently thrown on this important question with the result that it is now possible for the Committee of Eighteen to have a further meeting for the purpose of discussing the actual application and form of the pressure that has already been accepted in principle."

"Prepared to Take Share."

"At that meeting," he continued, "we shall be prepared to take our share in whatever collective action is determined."

The great increase in oil exports to Italy did not come from companies in which Great Britain is interested, he said, denying British companies are exploiting the situation.

Oil shipments to Italy by the Anglo-Iranian Oil Co. have in fact decreased during the first 11 months of this year as against the shipments for the corresponding period of 1934, he said. The sharpest reduction was made during the period from August to October, he added.

"Possibly a Hopeless Task."

"It may be we are engaged on a hopeless task," Sir Samuel continued. "It may be it is impossible to reconcile the divergent aims of the League of Nations, Italy and Ethiopia. It may be the atmosphere is so heated it is impossible for the voice of reason to prevail.

"None the less the French and we intend not only to go on trying but to redouble our efforts during the short period of time still open before the Geneva meeting.

"The world urgently needs peace. We and the French, acting on behalf of the League and in the spirit of the League, are determined to make another great effort for peace. . . .

"We have no wish to humiliate Italy nor to weaken Italy. Indeed we are most anxious to see a strong Italy in this world—an Italy that is strong morally, politically, socially, and that is able to contribute to the world invaluable assistance.

Plea to Mussolini.

"I appeal once again to Signor Mussolini and his fellow countrymen to dismiss entirely from their minds the suspicion that we have sinister motives behind our support of the League. We have none. Let them dismiss from their minds the suspicion that we wish to humiliate Italy. We wish to see Italy strong and honored in the world.

"Let them dismiss from their minds the suspicion that we wish to drive a wedge between Italy and France. We wish to see Italy and France the firmest friends and we are glad we were able to help in the entente that brought Italy and France together at the beginning of this year."

Concerning the British relationship to Italy at this moment, he pleaded: "Can we not lay aside suspicions and concentrate in the immediate future upon finding a basis for settlement, making it possible for the world to return to normal life?"

Japan and North China.

Sir Samuel said the situation in North China might be harmful to Japan's prestige among other countries unless it quickly clarified its attitude.

"I can only regard it as unfortunate," he told the Commons, "that events should have taken place which, whatever the actual truth of the matter may be, lend color to the belief that Japanese influence is ex-
